REBEL FORCES IN CONTACT

Heavy Fighting In Many Sectors

WARSHIPS BOMBARDING LOST PORT OF CADIZ

Tetuan, Aug. 9.

The capture of the Merida Railway Junction, between Badajoz and Madrid, has resulted in the establishment of contact between the insurgent armies in the north-west and south-west of Spain, according to statements issued by anti-Government leaders.

These officers state that their troops are actually ahead of their schedule in the attainment of objectives. —Reuter Special.

STIFF OFFENSIVE

Madrid, Aug. 9.

Government authorities state that the reinforced units on the Guadarrama front are carrying out a vigorous offensive, including a fierce bombardment of the insurgent lines, in an attempt to take positions on both sides of the mountain ridge.

It is claimed the insurgent force has been defeated in this sector, leaving 200 dead on the field, in addition to supplies of war materials. —Reuter.

Heavy Bombardment

Bayonne, Aug. 9.

It is learned that Government artillery has bombarded the insurgent headquarters in the northern fighting sector, near Oyarzun, which is now in flames.

An ammunition dump has exploded, causing considerable damage. —Reuter.

Fierce Fighting

Barcelona, Aug. 9.

It is stated that Government forces advancing on Saragossa have reached a point about twenty-five miles from the city after fierce fighting. —Reuter.

Shelling Cadiz

Gibraltar, Aug. 9.

It is reported that Government warships, the Jaime I, Libertad and Cervantes, are heavily bombarding Cadiz, the fall of which is expected soon, according to Spanish Government sources. —Reuter.

Many Prisoners

Madrid, Aug. 9.

Newspapers state that 400 insurgent leaders and 700 officers, as well as a large number of other ranks, are at present imprisoned in Madrid. —Reuter Special.

Rambling Runs Fine Race

BRINGS BRITAIN RELAY VICTORY

G. L. Rampling, the English athlete, ran the race of his life to make possible Britain's victory in the 1,600 metres relay race at Berlin during the week-end.

After making up a deficit of eight yards, he finished seven yards ahead of the field over a 400 metres sprint which he covered in 48.7 seconds. Britain thereafter held the lead until the finish.

Britain also enjoyed partial successes in the marathon, and the women's high jump, being placed second in both events.

Complete details and descriptions appear on Page 8.

AVOIDING PEIPING TROUBLE

BRITISH SOLDIERS SENT HOME

AFTER QUARREL WITH JAPANESE

Because it was feared in Peiping that Japanese demonstrations might cause serious situation, two British soldiers are being quietly sent home.

The two men, Privates Herbert Cooke and Robert Hunt, of the 2nd Battalion, Worcestershire Regiment, arrived in Hongkong yesterday afternoon by the B. & S. steamer Yunan. They will probably leave for England on Wednesday. In the meantime, they are being kept under guard.

The two soldiers were central figures in the recent sensational Military Court of Inquiry at Peiping, which was instituted by the General Officer Commanding, Maj. Gen. A. W. Bartholomew, to enquire into Japanese allegations that they were implicated in the murder, on May 26, of Kikaku Sasaki.

Sasaki was murdered during a cabaret brawl, allegedly between British soldiers and some Japanese.

After a protracted hearing, the Court of Inquiry, which was boycotted at one stage by the Japanese, found that there was insufficient evidence to substantiate the allegations. A further charge of assault on another Japanese, preferred against Cooke, was also dismissed.

Subsequently, the Japanese Residents' Association held an indignation meeting, at which fiery anti-British speeches were made.

Both Cooke and Hunt tendered alibis at the Court of Inquiry. Cooke was on duty as a Military Policeman and Hunt was in barracks. It is understood that, upon their arrival in England, they will grant their discharge from the Army.

Voce Invited To Join New Test Eleven

MAKES HIS PEACE WITH M.C.C.

William Voce, brilliant Notts and England bowler, who with Larwood demolished the Australian batsmen in 1932, has been invited to play in the third Test match against All-India on August 15, and has also been asked to join the English Test team for Australia next winter.

Voce has now made his peace with the M.C.C., and England benefits by the re-appearance of one of her cleverest bowlers.

Other changes in the Test team against the Indians includes the dropping of Gimblett and Gover and the inclusion of Leyland of Sims.

Selections in detail will be found on Page 8.

TOURIST TEAM

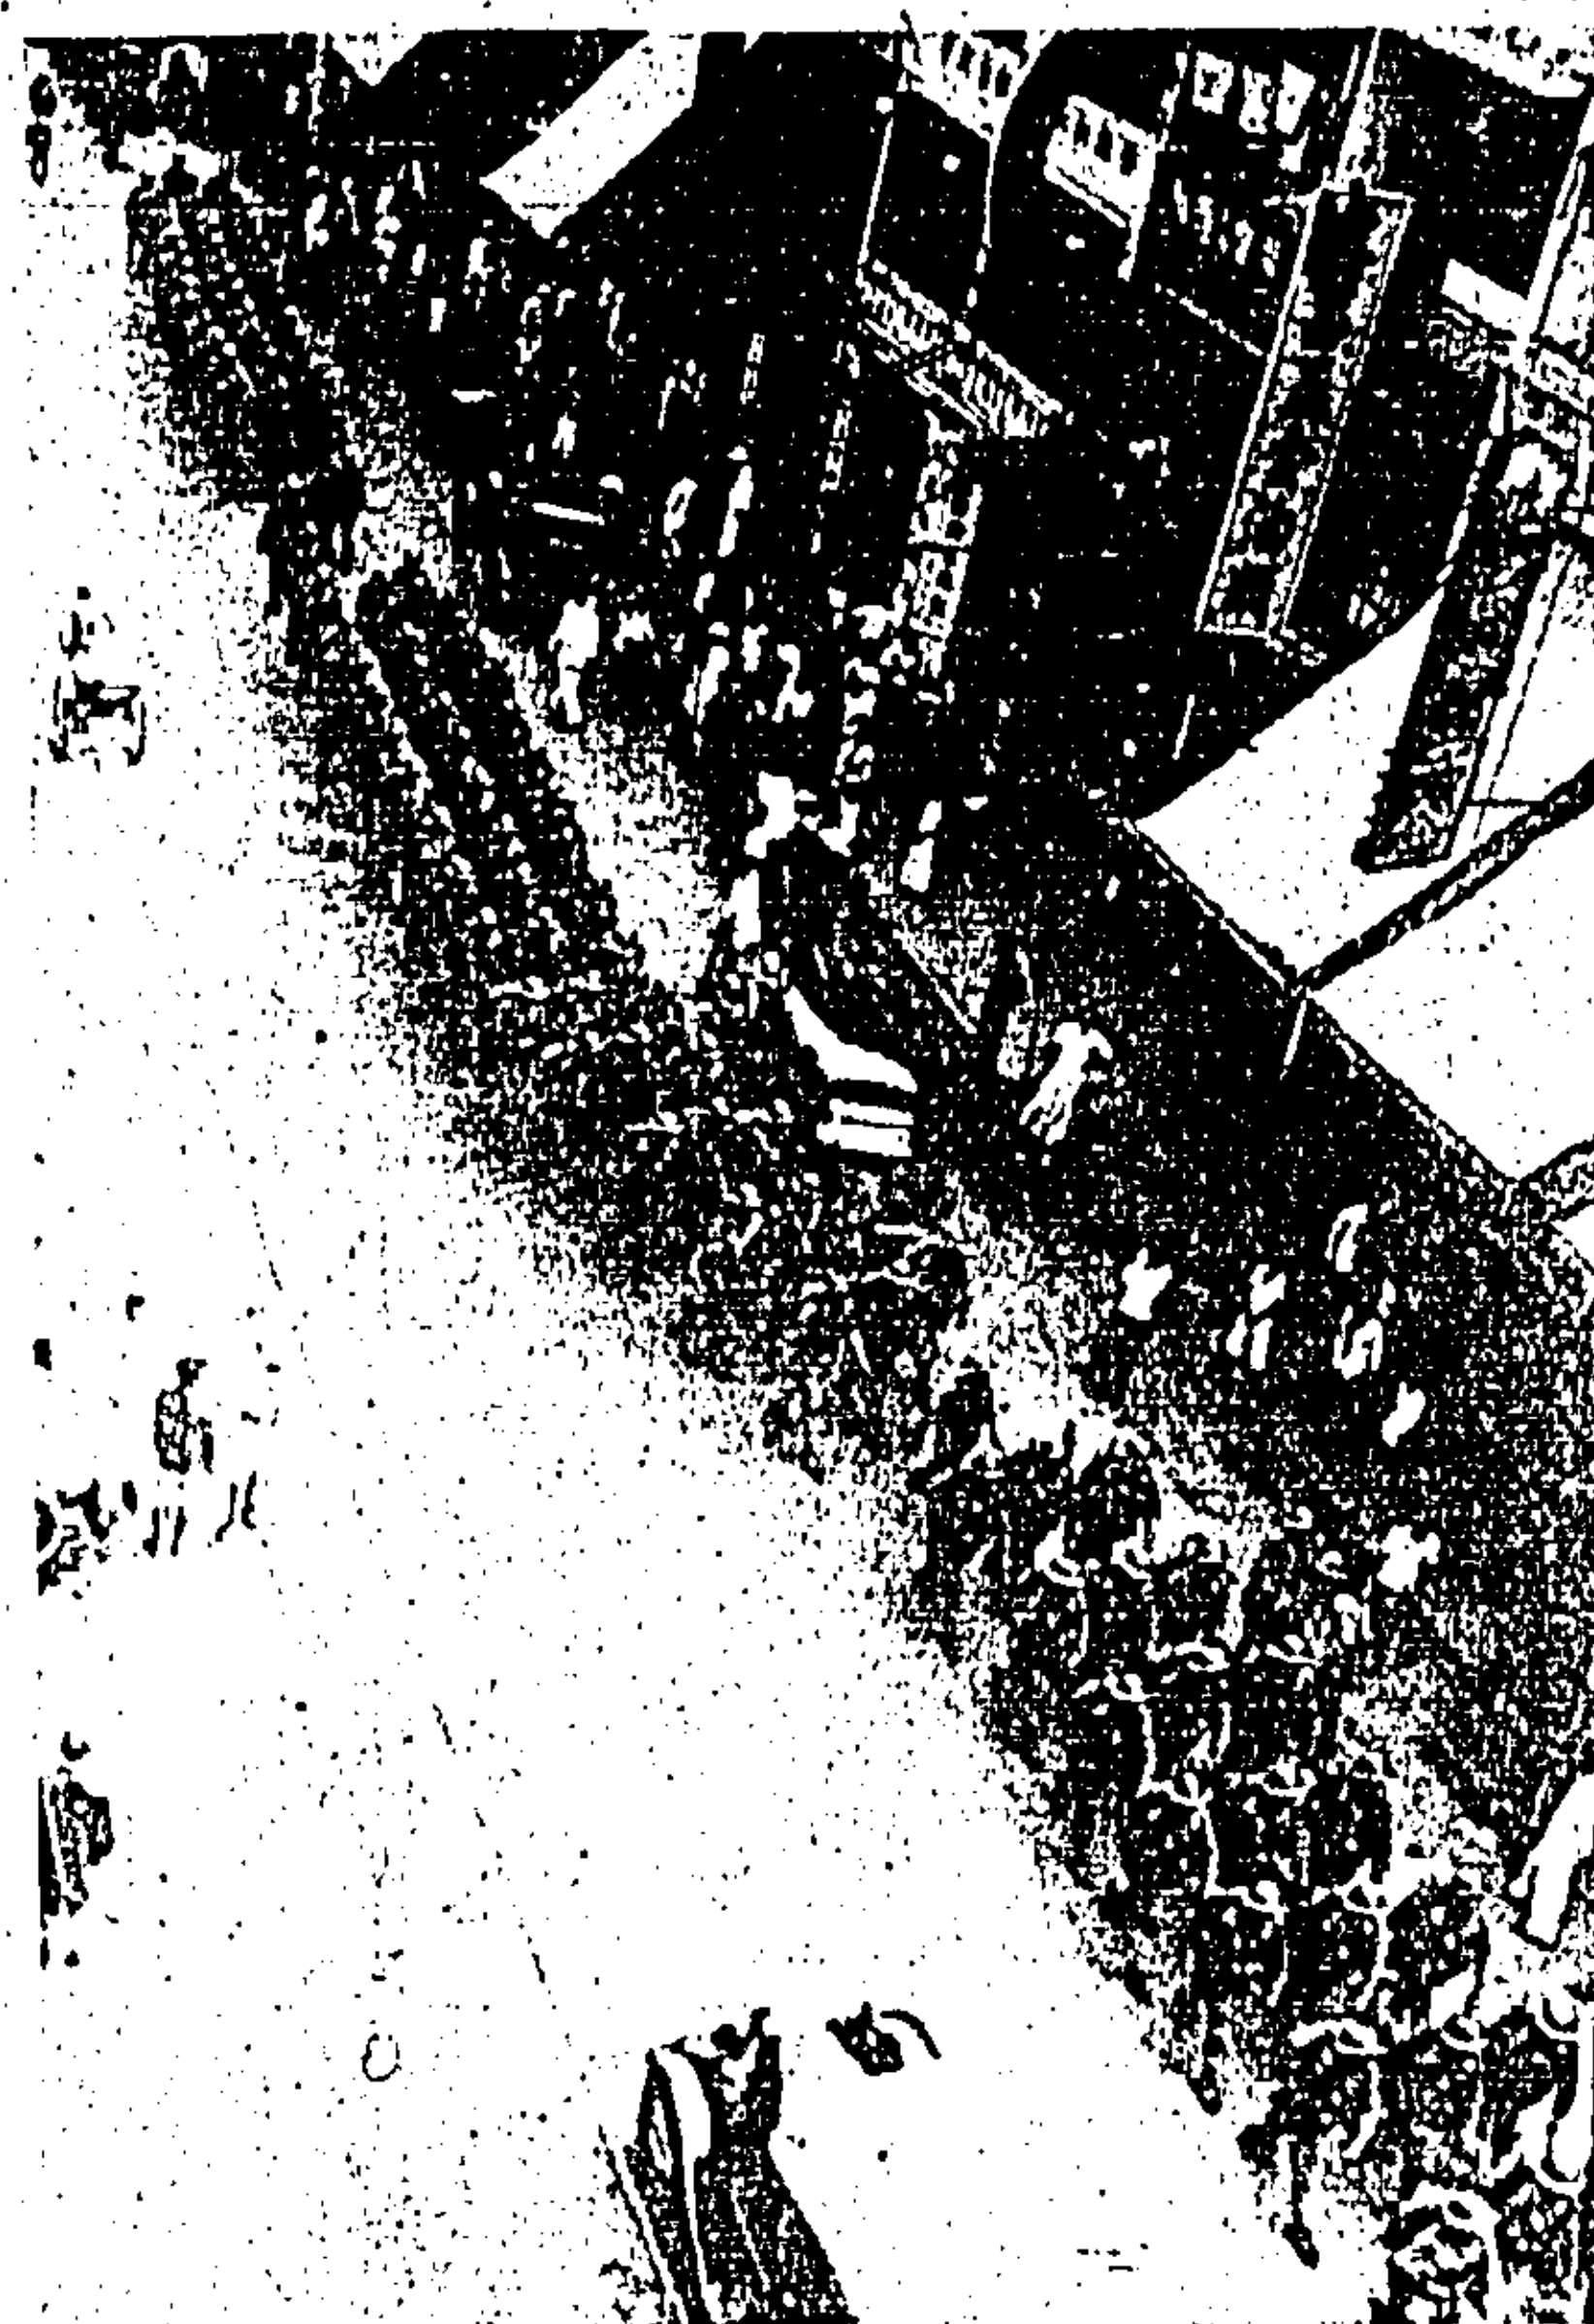

Sixteen players have now been invited to join the M.C.C. cricket team to tour Australia next winter. Five new names were added during the week-end, including Voce of Notts, E. R. T. Holmes, Surrey amateur and Kenneth Farnes, Surrey fast-bowler. There remains a reserve wicket-keeper to be chosen.

Sims the Middlesex change bowler has also been invited and this completes England's attack which has Farnes, Allan, Voce, Copson and Verity as stock bowlers.

FOR CANTON DEFENCE

Creek troops from Nanjing, to the number of over two thousand, arrived in Canton on Saturday. They are here, seen marching through the streets to their camp base, where they will probably be visited by General Chiang Kai-shek in the next few days. (Photo: Far Eastern Pictorial Correspondents).

REFUGEES QUIT BALEARIC ISLE

ATTACK SUSPENDED TO ALLOW RESCUES

(SPECIAL TO "TELEGRAPH")

The British flotilla leader, H.M.S. Douglas, arrived here to-day with 84 refugees from the Balearic Islands, including 20 Britons.

When the Douglas arrived at Ibiza on Friday evening, two Spanish Government torpedo-boats and six aeroplanes were bombarding the island, but on the request of the Commander of the British destroyer, sent to the Spanish Government forces by wireless, the bombardment was suspended while the Douglas removed the refugees.

Miss C. Hassell, an artist, was the only British resident of Ibiza aboard the Douglas. She said she was watching the bombardment when a bomb or shell fell on a rock near her and a splinter of stone struck her in the leg.

Government aeroplanes flew very low, she said, as the insurgents had only machine-guns with which to fight them. No-one was hurt by the bombardment, as far as she knew, and little damage was done. —Reuter Special.

Argentine Worried

Buenos Aires, Aug. 9. The Argentine Government has addressed a note to the Spanish Government, demanding peremptory measures to guarantee the rights of asylum at the Argentine Embassy in Madrid where refugees are sheltered.

The Argentine Foreign Minister states the position of the Argentine Ambassador in Spain, who is at Zaragosa, is most delicate and is causing the Government anxiety. —Reuter Special.

Britons Warned

Madrid, Aug. 9. An official appeal has been distributed to all Britons in Madrid, urging them to leave as soon as possible. The communication contains two forms for signature, the first saying: "I am willing to be evacuated immediately," the second, "I do not wish to be evacuated, and hereby assume responsibility for the safety of myself, my wife, family or property in Spain." —Reuter.

One Dead In Fight Aboard H.K. Steamer

WATCHMAN FIRES ON ALLEGED SMUGGLERS

As a result of a fight between Indian watchmen and alleged opium smugglers in the early hours of this morning, one Chinese seaman is dead and members of deck crew of the Douglas liner Haitan and an Indian night watchman are held by the police for questioning.

The seaman, whose name is at present unknown, is said to have been one of the smugglers. Subsequent to the affray, twenty small packages of opium, totalling 800 taels, were seized aboard the Haitan.

A sampan, which escaped, was said to have been loading the contraband when discovered by a watchman.

Shortly after 3 a.m. this morning, Sajan Singh, one of the Indian watchmen aboard the Haitan, noticed the sampan quietly move alongside and commence unloading its cargo.

He immediately notified the Chief Watchman, Surtah Singh, who in turn notified the Master of the vessel, Capt. Farrar.

In the meantime, however, Sajan Singh had intervened. It is stated that immediately his presence became known he was attacked by several Chinese. The watchman fired two shots and, as one of the Chinese seamen fell, the remainder fled.

POLICE RUSH TO SCENE

The police emergency squad and ambulance were quickly on the scene and while an examination was made of the ship the ambulance conveyed the wounded seaman to the Government Civil Hospital. He died, however, on admission.

In the police examination of the Haitan, four packages of opium were found already stored in one of the holds, while further packages were discovered on deck.

The watchman and two Chinese members of the crew of the Haitan are being held by the police for investigation.

POLICE STATEMENT

Inquiries into the incident were made by a squad from police headquarters, comprising the Assistant Director of Criminal Investigation, Mr. T. Murphy, Detective Inspector M. Murphy and Detective Sergeant J. O'Donovan.

A police report issued this morning states: "A Chinese, whose name is unknown, but who was No. 1 to the boatswain on the steamer Haitan, was shot dead by an Indian Guard, Sajan Singh, between 3.30 and 4 a.m. to-day."

"It is believed that the Chinese was an opium smuggler, as about 800 taels of opium were found close to where he was shot. It is stated that a tussle between the Chinese and the guard took place, resulting in the guard firing a revolver at the Chinese and hitting him in the neck and leg. He died after admission to the Government Civil Hospital."

British Seaman Falls To Death

Able Seaman Knight, of H.M.S. Dainty, was killed in the early hours of this morning when he fell from the third floor of the China Fleet Club at Wanchau.

His body was found in Arsenal Street about 1 a.m. terribly mutilated by the fall.

A.B. Knight had been residing at the Club since his Dainty arrived from Singapore a few days ago.

It is believed that Knight was climbing the parapet around the third floor when he accidentally fell.

Belgrade, Aug. 9.

His Majesty the King has reached the Yugo-Slavian frontier, where he was greeted by the Prince Regent Paul.

Thereafter King Edward continued his journey to the Adriatic coast, where he expects to take ship and commence his holiday cruise of Mediterranean waters. —Reuter.

King Edward is believed to have arrived at Sibenik, on the Dalmatian coast, where he will join Lady Yule's yacht, Nahlin, probably this morning. The yacht will be escorted throughout her cruise by the two destroyers, Grafton and Glowworm.

It is His Majesty's intention to visit some of the Greek islands en route. The details of his holiday voyage are not known.

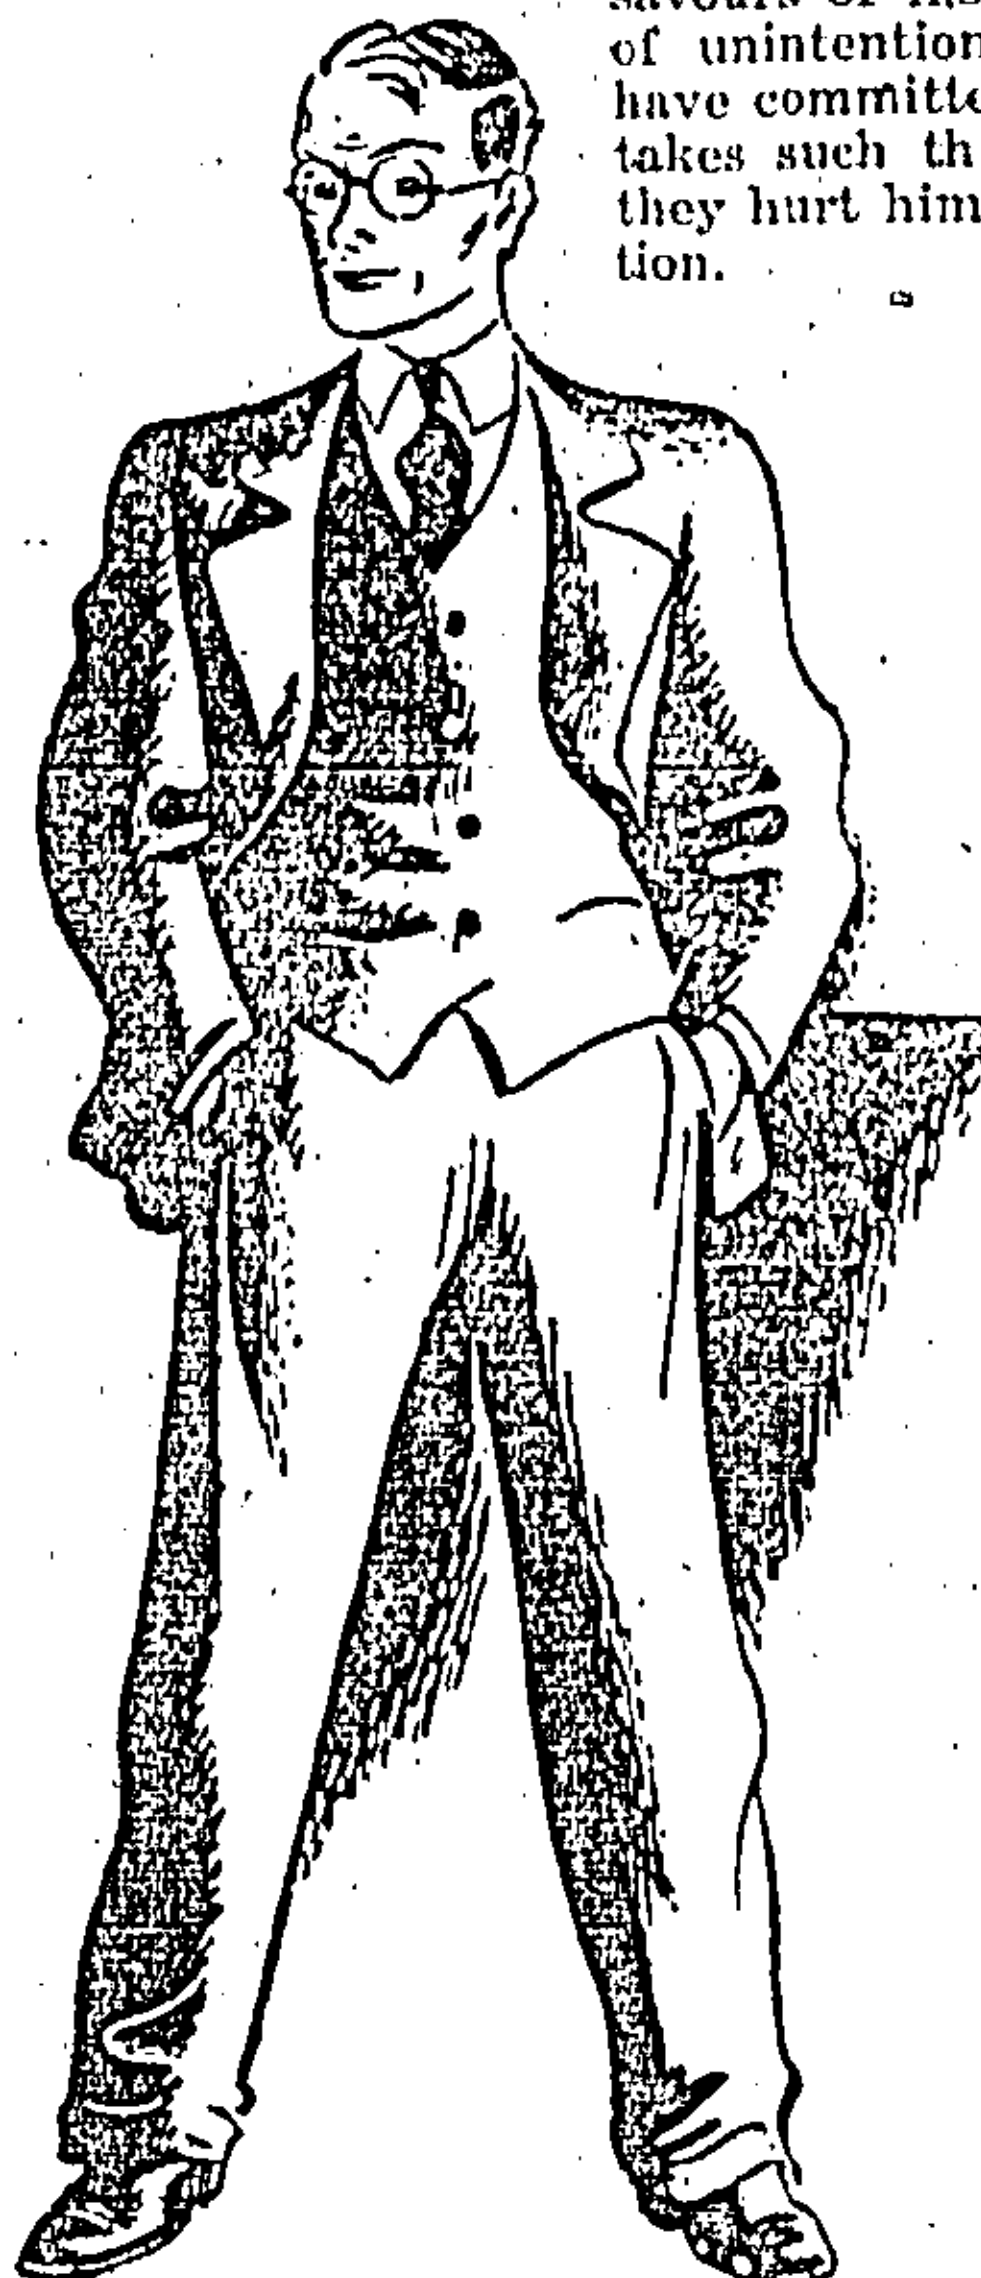

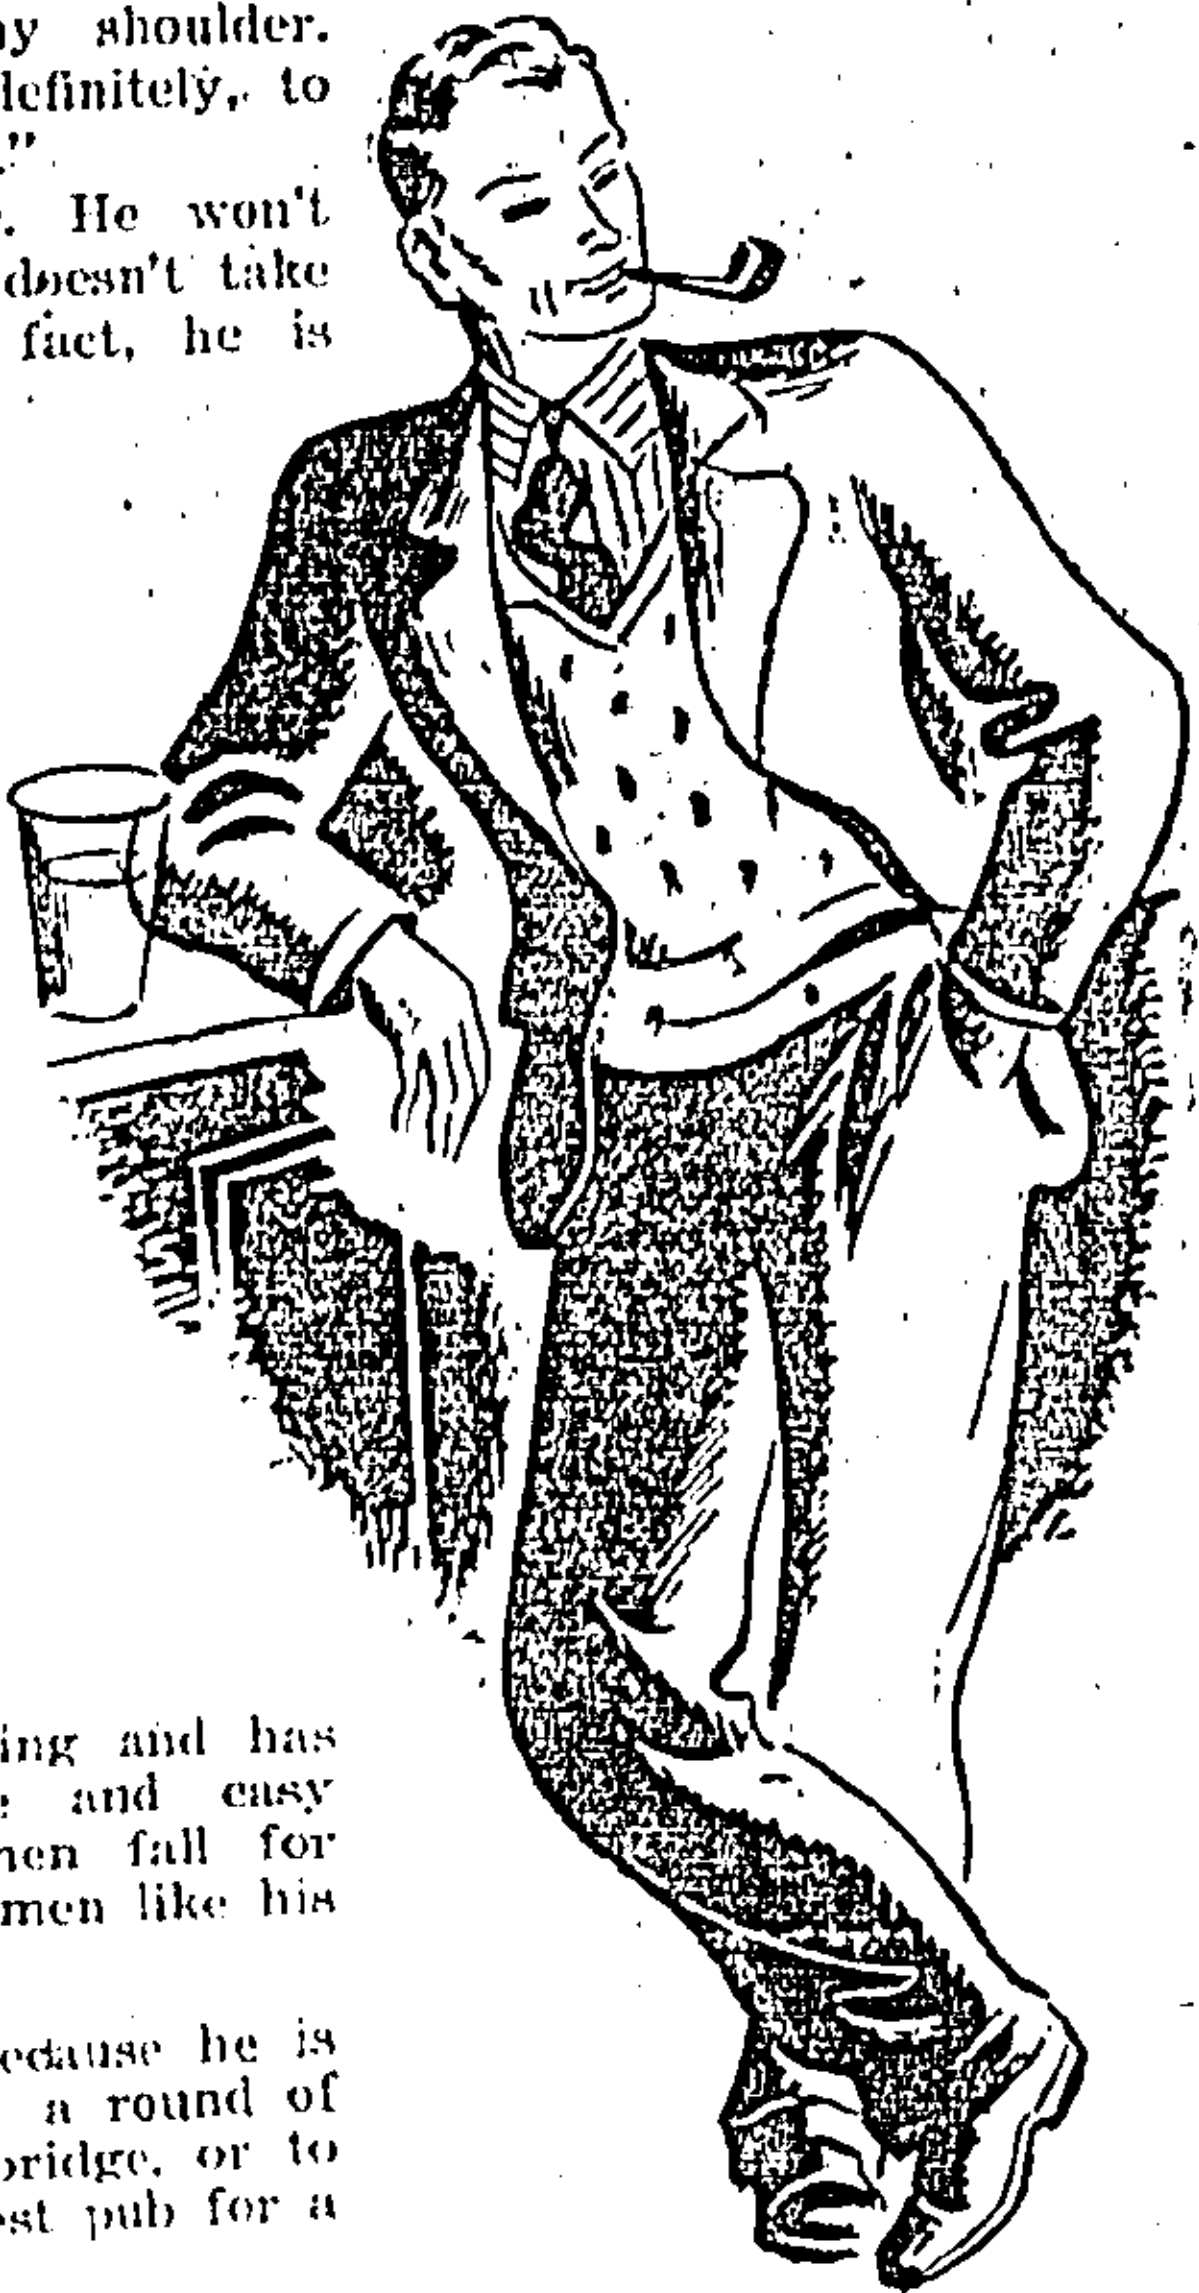

KING EXPECTED TO GO ABOARD NAHLIN TO-DAY

Which Man do You Prefer?

PETER'S girl has just been sobbing on my shoulder. She has decided, definitely, to "give Peter the air."

He neglects her. He won't save money. He doesn't take her seriously. In fact, he is just Peter. That is his greatest sin. He has remained the Peter she fell in love with. How quickly a girl forgets this and will get so upset that the man of her heart merely remains himself instead of turning into a combination of Clark Gable, Fred Perry and Mr. Anthony Eden. Peter takes life lightly. He is fairly good-looking and has a charming smile and easy manner. The women fall for the smile and the men like his manner.

They like him because he is always ready for a round of golf, a rubber of bridge, or to drop into the nearest pub for a couple of drinks.

But suddenly the storm breaks. If a stray word savours of insincerity or a hint of unintentional vulgarity, you have committed a crime. David takes such things to heart and they hurt him out of all proportion.

If he loves you, your every thought and mood are immensely important to him. He expects and demands as much as he gives. He sets a standard almost too high to live up to with any comfort. But is it too high a price to pay for his staunch loyalty and the firm knowledge that thick or thin you can count on him?

Not that there will be no quarrels of jealousy with David. He is no flirt and is not attracted to any passing young lovely. But if some girl happens to fire his imagination he makes no secret of his infatuation, and would scorn as petty and unworthy the idea of your jealousy. And that you should wish him to be as insincere as not to mention her to you—well, of course.

So with David you know everything, the best and the worst. There are no fears for the future if you share your life with him, because he makes sure of every step of the way. He does not, like Peter, trust to luck and his popularity to see him through. With him you are always climbing that highest mountain, adventuring into heady rarefied air. With Peter, however, you lie in the sun and let to-morrow take care of itself, for life is so good to-day. Which man do you prefer?

keeps up a running commentary of sparkling wit

WELL, and why should Mary cry? What more does she want. She says she knows that Peter is exactly the same to every woman. He likes as he is to her. He is always cheerful, easy-going, and amusing. He never notices whether she is depressed or looks tired. In fact, her moods don't seem to affect him at all. If she says she doesn't feel like going out he says he is awfully sorry and does hope she's not getting "flu," so if she doesn't mind, then he'll go round for some bridge.

Then about money. No saving for the rainy day as far as Peter is concerned. Rainy days don't exist for him. He's always got along all right and his confidence in himself and his capabilities and life in general al make life easy. He does himself well but is not extravagant. But he is generous and when he takes Mary out he does not stint. That is, when he has the money. If he hasn't they go to a news-stand and have coffee at some small shop afterwards, and it's all just as good fun.

Evenings spent with Peter are never dull, yet they are not too hecticly exciting. He is the most easy-going and satisfying companion while he is with her. And if companionship counts for anything, surely, then Mary and Peter should be happy.

A WAILING voice has just come over the phone. "I don't think I can go on with it. We've had another row. He's simply impossible. The wife in question this time is David. Brilliant, moody, intense, temperamental. David. There is nothing too casual or happy-go-lucky about this young man. He takes himself and all whom he contacts very seriously. He has few friends, but to those few he is loyal to the bone.

People either like or dislike him. He is not universally popular, like Peter, but his strong personality and decided opinions bring him recognition from Great Men of his profession. One feels that he will certainly have a great future—but if by chance things go wrong with him, it will be a ghastly tragedy; there are no half-measures about David.

Going out with David is stimulating. He discusses everything from so unexpected an angle, and his evening is an exciting event which lifts you way above the mediocrity of everyday life and the dull routine of to-morrow. How thrilling, you think, to share David's brilliant life.

NO one is more the prey of the faddist and the quack than the melancholy dyspeptic. Instead of putting his faith in quick remedies, he should try to alter his plan of life in almost every respect.

A change of house and district will work wonders in a faddist's life. A man cannot change his office quite so easily, but he can plan his leisure much better than can a woman.

Both can co-operate as regards their food and drink. Tea should be taken weak and alcohol limited. Fried foods, pastries, and highly seasoned dishes can disappear from the table. Grilled fish or meat, freshly-steamed vegetables, a fruit salad, a lettuce and a piece of Stilton cheese will often make a melancholy dyspeptic happy.

FAMILY DOCTOR DISCUSSES

THE most frequent query I get from readers concerns the treatment of gastric catarrh, pyloric ulcers and indigestion.

We should be taught simple physiology—at school so that all of us could understand exactly how the stomach and the bowels leading from the stomach work by digesting and absorbing the food and drink poured into them.

FOR gastritis and indigestion the size of the meals should be watched. Large quantities of fluid weaken the digestive juices and prevent the solid food from being broken up and passed on to the bowel in the proper time.

An ordinary dinner of meat, vegetables and sweet takes at least prize at this un-English diet, choly dyspeptic happy.

four hours to digest, so that a reasonable space should be allowed between meals.

IF the digestion is weak, small, light, dry meals at about four-hourly intervals are preferable to one or two hearty meals per day. At the same time, it must be pointed out that the stomach is a hollow organ with strong muscular walls, and these muscles must be given some good hard work or they waste away.

In Germany many cases of dyspepsia are put on lamb chops as a daily diet, and the stomach, when shad, a lettuce and a piece of Stilton cheese will often make a melancholy dyspeptic happy.

£19,652,700 EXTRA FOR THE FORCES

Sixteen Additional Warships

FIRST-LINE AIRCRAFT TO BE INCREASED TO 1,750

SUPPLEMENTARY Estimates totalling £19,652,700 were issued last month for the Navy, Army and Air Force.

The total is made up as follows:

Navy	£1,059,000	Air Services	£11,700,000
Army	£6,600,000	Royal Ordnance
		Factories	£293,700

The strength of the Air Force is increased from 50,000 to 55,000. The present number of overseas R.A.F. units (25

Water Recedes In Caspian Sea

Moscow, Aug. 1. Secret construction of dams, vast increase of cultivated areas and intensive use of the water of Kunin, Terek, Volga and other rivers for irrigation threatens the destruction of the Caspian Sea, according to Prof. B. Apollon, prominent geologist.

Citing figures to show that the sea lost 7,435 square miles of area since 1925, Apollon urged that measures be taken to discharge into the Caspian a portion of the waters of northern rivers and the Don, to protect valuable fisheries and Caspian navigation for future centuries.

FELL 24 INCHES IN 1925

During the course of the last 100 years the level of the Caspian rose and fell alternatively, but in 1925 fell sharply 24 inches below the average level, according to the geologist. In March of this year the sea was 1.9 inches lower than in 1925, a total decrease in area of 7,435 square miles, or equal to the surface of the Kara-Bugaz gulf.

As a result in the gulf of Baku the towers of the ancient fortress of Sakhir, built in the 13th Century, which was submerged by a geological disturbance, now protrude from the water. In the weather the ancient road leading to the fortress can be seen on the bottom of the gulf.

ISLAND BEING LINKED

The island of Chechen gradually is being connected with the Turk-

Long-term orders are to be given for large numbers of air frames and engines and other equipment to bring the strength of the first-line aircraft at home to approximately 1,750, exclusive of the Fleet Air Arm.

Much heavier provision for the bulk of the cost of this programme, it is stated, will fall to be made in 1937 and 1938.

In a statement attached to the Army's Supplementary Estimate, remedying deficiencies relating to defence is estimated to cost £5,014,000, while the special measures in connection with the Indo-Abyssinian dispute involve an estimated expenditure of £1,252,000. There are savings which reduce the total to £4,600,000.

SCIENCE'S SEARCH FOR TEMPERATURE'S "BOTTOMLESS PIT"

mentian coast and is becoming a peninsula.

Investigation of "the condition of the Caspian basin, precipitation and evaporation show no essential changes in climatic conditions, according to Apollon. He therefore concluded that construction of dams, growth of cotton plantations in Transcaucasia, utilisation of water for irrigation on a large scale and development of intensive early sowing, keeping the snow on cultivated lands to the last minute possible, was responsible.

Secret Plan To Pool Colonies?

Paris, Aug. 1.

It is stated here that the Colonial Office in London has drafted a secret plan for pooling parts of the various Colonies in Africa, making them available to Powers who want "a place in the sun."

While the Colonial Office has drafted this plan, it is understood Germany has sent to London a secret note clearly asking for a redistribution of Colonies, which the Foreign Office has not answered.

It is added that recent events in Spanish Morocco are making English diplomats more anxious to find a peaceful solution of African and Mediterranean problems as they fear Italy and Germany may agree to take advantage of the situation.

BRITAIN SUPPORTING PORTUGAL?

It is reported from London that Great Britain is giving full support to Portugal to keep her colonies, forbidding any Power to raise a claim on them.

The Desert Of Absolute Zero BELOW THE COLD OF OUTER SPACE

During the Low Temperature Exhibition at the Science Museum, Professor F. A. Lindemann exhibited liquid helium gas frozen to 269 deg. C. below the cold of ice, or only 4 degrees above the Absolute Zero of temperature, beyond which is nothing further.

At a following lecture Professor F. Simon, with apparatus brought by his fellow workers, Mr. E. L. Pickard and Mr. A. H. Cooke, from the Clarendon Laboratory at Oxford, got down to within one degree of that extremity of cold.

In a South Kensington lecture-room was thus produced a temperature lower than any existing in outer space. Above the frozen gas was a vacuum more complete than any in which an atom floats between the stars.

The artificial production of such unnatural cold and emptiness is an astonishing fact. The resources of science have been ransacked for many years to attain it; and it seems strange at first sight that while it is so easy to reach high temperatures it should be so hard to sink to low ones. By clicking on an electric torch we can set up a temperature of 1500 deg. C. But to get down to Absolute Zero, mathematically established as 273.16 deg. C. below the melting-point of ice, is beyond us.

END OF DISORDER What is that temperature, and how defined? It is that at which the atoms of a gas, deprived of heat energy which is one with their motions, cease to kick against the sides of the vessel containing them. They fall lifeless and inert. They are at rest, their wild disorder stilled to order. Herein lies explanation of the contrast between the production of heat and cold. It is easy to create any degree of disorder. It is hard to bring order out of disorder.

A simple example may show what is meant. Suppose we have black and white chessmen arranged in order on the board. Shake the board violently so that the pieces tumble here and there in confusion. It is the easiest thing in the world to throw them into disorder. But no amount of shaking will throw them back into their places. Only hand-picking will do it. If the chessmen were atoms in a gas the feat would prove utterly impossible.

Fortunately for the success of producing low temperatures the comparison between the chessmen on their squares and the atoms in a gas is faulty. The orderliness among the chessmen depends only on their positions on the board. They do not jump up or down or fly about. Unlike the chessmen of "Through the Looking Glass," they have no personalities of their own, being moved neither by heat nor other quality. In dealing with only one variable is to be considered.

But in a free gas, which is the highest type of disorder, there are many variables. There is, for example, the volume. If we were looking for a particular atom in a certain region of a gas, we should measure the amount of order there by the ease with which we found it. It

Dog kennels	£ 5,000
New kennels and kennel maid	£ 1,600
Entertainment	£ 2,000
Swimming pool	£ 1,000
Upkeep of manor house	£ 5,000
Feed for her horses costs £14 a day. She usually buys thirty frocks at a time, all original models.

French Air Secrets "Given To Soviet"

Paris, Aug. 1.

M. PIERRE COT, the Minister for Air in the new French Socialist Government, to-day announced further details of his sweeping plan for making all French children air-minded.

As already announced, all children from 9 to 14 are to be given preliminary air instruction at schools. Boys from 14 to 17 are to have training in gliding; and youths from 18 to 21 are to be trained in aircraft engineering.

Now it is explained that the instruction for the first category will include visits to aircraft factories and aerodromes, the carrying out of exercises with models, and special lessons in air currents and aerodynamics.

At 11, the pupils will be entitled to join clubs for popularising aviation, to be formed all over the country. The subscription will be as small as possible, and sufficient only to maintain the ordinary cost of life.

The Government will supply gliders, gliders fitted with small engines, and light aeroplanes to all these clubs.

Until 17 the boys will undergo a "pre-flight course" in which they will study air navigation, the sending of radio messages, and the construction of gliders in factories.

SECRET "GIVEN AWAY"

M. Henri de Kerillis, a Nationalist deputy, announced that he intends to ask M. Cot why he has given orders for the handing over to Soviet Russia of full plans concerning the Alcan type of machine-gun turret, and especially an aircraft gun so designed that it is capable of firing through the hub of the aeroplane propeller.

His motion adds: "These weapons are of the greatest importance and are unequalled in the world. It is in the interests of the nation that they should be kept secret."

Writing in a recent issue of the Echo de Paris, M. de Kerillis says: "My question refers to a letter of M. Cot in which he gives orders to the headquarters of the French Air Force with regard to this marvel of French invention."

"I realise that M. Cot will reply to me that we are virtually, against Germany, the military allies of the Russian Government and that we are therefore anxious to allow them to profit by our discoveries."

"I only say that we should not hand over the most important secrets of our national defence to Russia. Are we certain that a diplomatic revolution will not entirely reverse the situation as it stands at present?"

Armour And Guns In Advance

NAVY PREPARES FOR ITS NEXT 16 SHIPS

BY A NAVAL CORRESPONDENT Although the supplementary Naval Estimates appear small, more than half of the £10,050,000 is to be spent on armour for new ships, and a further £250,000 is earmarked for extensions of plant and works to the manufacture of armour and guns.

Only £150,000 is actually devoted to the laying down of 16 additional warships, viz:—

Two cruisers of about 5,000 tons (making seven cruisers in all this year).

One aircraft carrier (making two in all).

One flotilla leader and eight destroyers, of about 1,400 tons (making 18 of these vessels in all).

Four submarines (three of the patrol type, one of a smaller design), making eight submarines in all.

These ships, which are to be laid down in the spring, will ultimately involve a total expenditure of over £11,000,000.

The balance of the £10,050,000 comprised in the Estimate represents the cost of accelerating the construction of certain ships already in hand, including the cruisers Liverpool and Manchester, building on the Clyde and Tyne respectively.

Ordering armour plate in advance may enable an earlier date to be fixed for the completion of the two new battleships to be laid down in January. Under the terms of the Washington Treaty they cannot be begun before 1937.

It is the definite intention of the Admiralty to arm these two battleships with 14in. guns, irrespective of the armament of the new American and Japanese capital ships. Hopes that the Naval Conference of 1935-36 would agree to the cessation of submarine construction having been frustrated, it has been found necessary to add to the strength of British submarine flotillas, at present inferior to those of several other Powers.

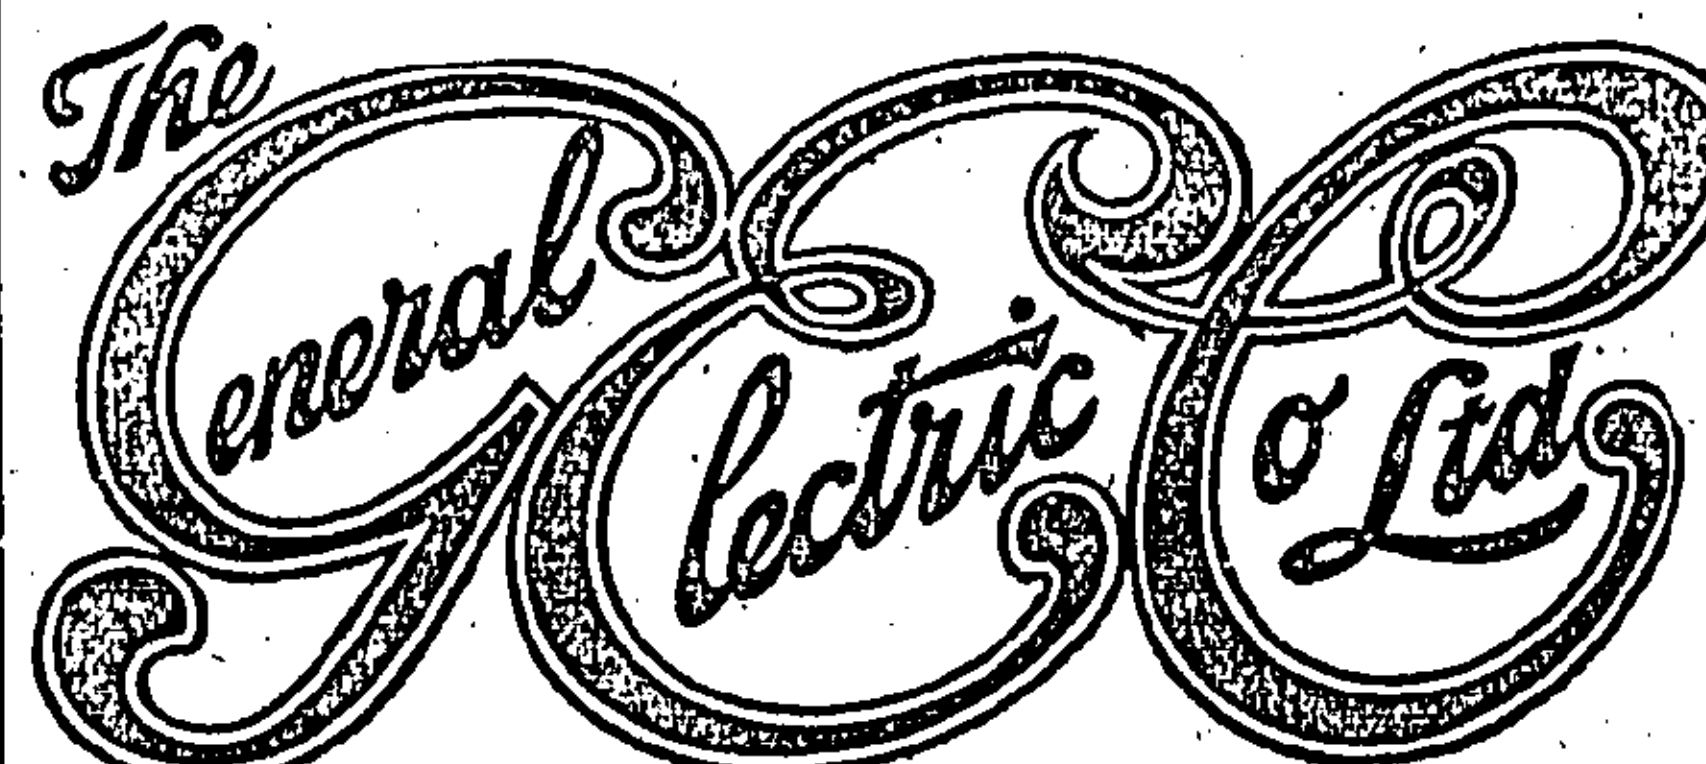

FLIT
the insecticide that always kills!

When mosquitoes make life unbearable—

Don't rely on weak insecticides that fail to kill

If you are ever tempted to try a weak substitute for FLIT, ask yourself this question: are your comfort and health worth sacrificing for the sake of an insecticide that may not kill? Why take a chance when it probably means that mosquitoes will torture you from sun-down to dawn? For safety's sake, be sure you get FLIT. FLIT really kills insects—and they stay dead! FLIT spray does not stain. Always insist on getting the yellow tin with the soldier and black band. To guarantee you against fraudulent filling, the FLIT tin is sealed for your protection.

SALE OF CHILD
OF DAUGHTER

"It is a case of robbing the mother of the child in order to sell it," remarked Mr. W. Schofield when imposing a sentence of six months' hard labour on Chan Pun, 31, unemployed, charged at the Central Magistracy on Saturday with having taken part in a transaction to transfer possession, custody or control of a four-year-old girl, Chan Kum, for a valuable consideration, at No. 34 Centre Street, second floor, on July 28.

Detective-Inspector Ellis said that defendant was the father of the child, and up to about a month ago was living with his wife and two children at No. 34 Centre Street, the home of his sister. They had another younger boy aged one year. As defendant could not find work, his sister gave him $4 and told him to return to the country. Instead of doing this, defendant left with his family and slept in the street.

On July 24, defendant quarrelled with his wife, and then left taking his daughter with him. He returned on July 28 and said he had sold his daughter to a man named Li Hing for $10. Only July 29, the mother went to Li Hing's address, and asked for the return of the child, and was told that her husband had sold the child to him. In the meantime, the defendant disappeared, and the mother reported the matter to the Police, while Li Hing took the child to the S. C. A.

Enquiries showed that the girl was sold to Li Hing for $10 on July 28. On Friday morning, defendant was seen in the street by Li Hing and was arrested. The buyer was not charged, because he had given the child back. He was, however, lucky to escape, because he had actually purchased the child.

Defendant pleaded guilty to the charge, and was given six months' hard labour.

At to-morrow's meeting of the Rotary Club, the Rev. W. H. Hudspeeth, M.A. (General Secretary for China of the British & Foreign Bible Society), will give a talk entitled "With the Flowery Miao of West China."

ZIONCHECK'S DEATH

U.S. CONGRESSMAN COMMITTS SUICIDE

Seattle, Aug. 8.
Ending one of the most amazing careers in American politics, Marion Anthony Zioncheck, eccentric member of the United States House of Representatives, died here to-day and was instantly killed. He landed on his head directly in front of an automobile in which his wife was sitting.

His body was removed to the morgue in the presence of a large crowd.

Mr. William Nadeau, Zioncheck's brother-in-law, said he was with the Representative in his office. He saw him writing a note and became suspicious. He urged him to join his wife, who was waiting outside in an automobile.

Zioncheck ascended, said Nadeau, and donned his coat, leaving the note unfinished. He went into the other room apparently to get his hat and jumped from the window.

As her husband landed on his head in front of her car, Mrs. Zioncheck screamed and fainted. When she had recovered she was taken to her mother-in-law's home, where doctors are trying to keep the news of her son's death from Mrs. Zioncheck due to her illness.

"My only purpose in life is to improve the unfair economic system which has held me hope and has left not even a chance to have," was the note left by Zioncheck abruptly ended.

Nadeau said newspaper publicity had killed Zioncheck. Apparently he had not bothered about it until recently, when a neighbour displayed a scrapbook of clippings setting out his exploits. Since then he had brooded.

His brother-in-law had recently consulted a psychiatrist, said Nadeau, who had told him (Nadeau) to keep an eye on Zioncheck.—United Press.

Zioncheck was admitted to the Gallinger Municipal Hospital about two months ago for mental observation.

Time publishes a resume of his recent activities as follows:

Seattle knew and warned Washington when it elected Marion Anthony Zioncheck, 35, to Congress, that it would have a Representative likely to claim the spotlight. Instead he worked hard and won considerable esteem in Washington as a promising young man.

Last December he began to get into trouble. When he went on his honeymoon about three months ago, Seattle knew it was Congressman Zioncheck's "honeymoon" but not until two months ago, when he returned to Washington, did Seattle begin to suspect that its man was turning from a besotted funster into a raving dipsomaniac.

The events which culminated in his removal to the Gallinger Municipal Hospital for mental observation, were:

He repeatedly threw his landlady, who was attempting to dispossess him, out of his apartment, causing her to be sent to hospital for bruises, shock, a possible fractured hip;

He was arrested next night for tossing liquor bottles, dishes, a suitcase and a typewriter out of the apartment window. Subdued with a nightstick, the gibbering Representative, shoeless and stripped to the waist, was taken to goal, agent two hours there before his secretary appeared with the necessary bail.

His bride, Ruby Zioncheck, 21, walked out on him.

He called at the District Attorney's office, demanded the arrest of Vice-President Garner, whom he accused of hiding Mrs. Zioncheck; and

He called at the White House, demanded that President Roosevelt call out a machine-gun squad to bombard the Washington Hotel, where he said Mrs. Zioncheck was hiding. The President, he left at the White House three empty beer bottles, a package of mothballs, a tin can.

Zioncheck later escaped from the Hospital in which he had been under observation and managed to reach Seattle, where he appeared to have his head in the normal state. At least, no reports of his eccentricities since then have come through from news agencies.

Mr. Douglas Murray

London, Aug. 8.
The death has occurred of Mr. Douglas Murray, 73, the noted dramatist and author.—United Press.

Miss Sybil Wong

The death occurred at the French Hospital yesterday evening of Miss Sybil Wong Shuk-luen, the daughter of Mr. Wong Ching-yau, sub-manager of the China South Sea Bank.

Miss Wong, who was only 23 years of age had been ill for the past three months, but her death was unexpected.

Educated at St. Stephen's Girls' School, she took a deep interest in the social and religious activities of the school and was very much liked by both fellow pupils and teachers.

The funeral takes place this afternoon leaving Causeway Bay for the Chinese Permanent Cemetery, Pokfulam, at 2 p.m.

Mr. Chow Chi-nam

His large circle of friends learned with deep regret of the death on Saturday night of Mr. Chow Chi-nam, sub-manager of the Bank of East Asia and a Director of the China Emporium, Ltd. The deceased was

CINEMA NOTES

Paul Muni, one of the greatest actors of the stage or screen comes to the Oriental Theatre on Tuesday and Wednesday in the Warner Brothers' production, "Bordertown", which is said to be the most powerful drama in which he has ever appeared. The picture is stark, realistic pictorialisation of the colourful life in night clubs and gambling resorts frequented by millionaires and bored society women seeking diversion. In this atmosphere, Paul Muni, in the role of a foreign youth rises to riches and power as the proprietor of a fashionable night club and gambling hall. He is loved by two women, one a fiery adventuress who slays her husband to try to win him. The other woman in the triangular romance is a society woman, a flirtation which the mad youth takes seriously, and which ends in tragedy. Margaret Lindsay has the role of this woman. The entire cast is a talented one and includes such players as Eugene Pallette, Robert Barrat, Henry O'Neill, Gavin Gordon, Hobart Cavanaugh, William Davidson, Arthur Stone, Vivian Tobin and Soledad Jimenez.

"Anything Goes"

Yesterday saw the opening of "Anything Goes," at the Star Theatre. This is the Paramount presentation of the musical comedy which was such a pronounced success on Broadway. It abounds in tuneful songs, comic scenes, and a set of parodies on the "You're the Top" hit which are riotously funny. Bing Crosby heads the cast of favourites in a role that affords him an unrivalled opportunity to display his versatile talents in song and comedy. He sings and clowning to one's heart's content. Assisting in the general merriment are Ethel Merman, known everywhere as the Broadway rhythm girl, Charlie Rogers, Grace Bradley, and Ida Lupino. The original songs of the musical comedy are incorporated in the picture. By now, "You're the Top," "Anything Goes," and "I Get a Kick Out of You" have been sung, hummed, whistled, and generally enjoyed by millions. In addition to these tuneful successes, the picture is placed with zestful songs and lyrics by Cole Porter and a number of other song writers. The result is a festive jolly screen offering, which was heartily enjoyed by young and old. The dance numbers in the picture are by Leroy Prinz whose choreographic novelties on the screen have won wide acclaim; they lend colour and spectacle to the fast-moving story. The fine direction is by Lewis Milestone.

"Trouble For Two"

Robert Louis Stevenson's fictional adventure on the screen proves as fascinating as it is in type. Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer has based "Trouble For Two" on the exciting Stevenson story, "The Suicide Club." With Robert Montgomery and Rosalind Russell in the starring roles, the picture is at the King's Theatre. The audience reaction was definitely favourable and its enthusiasm has a tribute to the players. In the supporting cast are Frank Morgan, recently acquired distinction for his work in M-G-M's "The Great Ziegfeld," Reginald Owen, another featured player in the same picture; Louis Hayward, E. E. Chive, Robert Greig, and others. The direction by J. Walter Ruben is faithful to the Stevenson narrative technique, yet at the same time attuned to the swifter tempo of the drama. Ruben is the man who directed "Public Hero," "Riffraff" and many other screen triumphs. Robert Montgomery again proves his right to stardom as the reckless young prince who is destined to wed a princess for whom he feels neither love nor attraction. Rosalind Russell, in the role of the charming royal lady, plays one of the most able roles of her brilliant young career. The supporting cast provides the Stevensonian atmosphere in characterisation and action. At no time does the story savour of morbidity, on the contrary it is always the account of gay adventure and lighthearted romance, with the shadow of royal intrigue and danger in the background.

the younger brother of Sir Shou-son Chow.

The late Mr. Chow Chi-nam had been ill for three months at his residence, No. 6 Leighton Hill Road, Happy Valley.

He was 70, and was well known in business and social circles in Hongkong. He was a member of the Chinese Merchants Club.

Mr. Chow Chi-nam is survived by a grandson, a grand-daughter and six great grand-children. His wife and son predeceased him some years ago.

It is understood that the funeral will take place to-morrow, Tuesday.

EUROPEAN BITTEN BY DOG
AT SPORTS CLUB

Mr. John Lowrie, of Messrs. Macdonald, Mackenzie & Co., was bitten by a dog at the Sports Club last Friday and was subsequently treated by Dr. E. W. Kirk, according to a Police report.

The animal, which belonged to Mr. O. A. Smith, caretaker, Masonic Lodge, is now under observation at Kennedy Town.

Other Cases

Two other cases of dog bite, which occurred on Friday, have been reported to the Central Police Station. The first victim was an Indian, Bhanu Singh, who was bitten on the right arm by a dog belonging to Mr. Eddy, of 19 Nathan Road, while he was walking near the Marina sports ground.

In the second case a Police interpreter of the Ping Shan Station was bitten on the left knee by a black and white pointer, whilst playing with the dog, which belongs to Sergeant Williamson. The dog was removed to Ma Tau Kok for observation, while the victim received medical treatment.

LOCAL WEDDINGS

MR. J. J. FERGUSON
AND MISS P. O. YOUNG

The second wedding solemnised on Saturday took place at the Hongkong Union Church in the afternoon, when Miss Phyllis Ogilvie Young became the bride of Mr. James Johnston Ferguson, a member of the teaching staff of King's College.

The bride, who hails from Broughty Ferry, Dundee, arrived on Wednesday by the P. and O. Rajputana. She was given away in marriage by Mr. A. White, Headmaster of the Ellis Kadoorie Indian School.

Organza and Silver

An Empire styled gown in white organza, trimmed with silver, was chosen by the bride. With this she wore a close fitting white hat and carried a bouquet of white jasmine.

Her bridesmaid, Miss Isabel Henderson, wore pale blue organza with lace, and carried pink flowers.

Mrs. A. White, as Matron of Honour, was gown in violet lace with a pleated cape set off with a grey sash and trimmed with violets. The duties of best man were undertaken by Mr. H. A. Angus, whilst organ music was provided by Mr. G. Longyear. A reception was later held for friends at the Gloucester Hotel. On leaving for the honeymoon, which is being spent at Cheung Chau, Mrs. Ferguson wore a mauve blue crepe-de-chine gown.

It is understood that there is an action pending against him before the Party Court Honour since last autumn, but evidence revealed in the meantime has led leaders of the party to remove him from his office as a leader.

WATER RETURNS

FIGURES FOR LAST MONTH ISSUED

The monthly water returns for July, issued by the Water Works Department, show the total contents of the Island reservoirs at the end of the month to be 1,236.22 million gallons, as against 2,385.45 for the corresponding period in 1935.

During the month, 430.33 million gallons were consumed by an estimated population of 427,700 at a rate of 31.7 gallons per head per day, compared with 418.82 by an estimated population of 425,200 at a rate of 31.8 gallons in July last year. Last month, 82.90 million gallons were supplied by the mainland, as against 80.66 for the corresponding period in 1935.

A 15 hours supply was given to all districts during the whole month, compared with 19 hours provision in the first week and a constant supply thereafter in July last year. Storage in mainland reservoirs totalled 534.77 million gallons as against 687.25 at the corresponding time last year, whilst consumption was 278.26 million gallons by an estimated population of 325,500 at a rate of 27.7 gallons per head per day, compared with a consumption of 249.82 by an estimated population of 343,650 at a rate of 23.3 gallons in July, 1935.

As in July last year, a constant supply was given to all mainland districts during the whole of last month. The total rainfall recorded by the Royal Observatory from the beginning of the year to the end of July was 33.66 inches, as against 50.71 for the first seven months in 1935. Since the above returns were compiled on August 1, heavy rain has practically filled all the smaller reservoirs in the Colony, and the Island has been given a constant supply.

CARDINALS LOSE PAIR

New York, Aug. 9.
Chicago Cubs were again bidding strongly for the National League leadership to-day, winning both ends of a double-header against Pittsburgh Pirates.

Cubs won the opener nine to two, hitting sixteen times to nine. Herman hit a homer.

The nightcap saw Chicago still pulling out all the stops, winning by a tally of ten to two. The Cubs were the only counter the Pirates could muster in five hits. Pittsburgh had two errors.

The Cardinals dropped the second game twice to five. Cincinnati again hitting twenty. St. Louis hit fourteen. Each committed two errors. Brooklyn also won a double-header against Boston, the first a shut-out, in which Frank, House pitched, allowing five hits. The Braves hit nine to score two and the Braves had three errors. The second was a five to two decision, eight hits against six, with Boston again taking the honours in errors, two of three.

New York Giants were clinging to third position hardly, beating the Phillies six to two with a total of thirteen hits to five.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Cleveland Indians won the two games of a twin-bill against Chicago nine to one and five to two. Trusky hit one and Weatherly two home runs in the opener, and Chicago was held to three hits only. In the second game, the hitting was even, eleven to ten. Each had an error.

New York also won twice, Philadelphia being the victim, seven to six in the first game, after ten innings, assisted by homers from the bats of Dickey, Dimaggio, Gehrig and Selkirk. The Yankees shut out the Athletics in the second game, while scoring three on eight hits themselves. Philadelphia's four hitters died on the sacks.

Washington collapsed under Boston's attack, though they hit evenly with the Red Sox, Boston scored eight on nine hits, and Washington committed three errors.

St. Louis Browns beat Detroit four to three, on ten hits to nine, West contributing a home run.

YACHT'S TRAGEDY

Bayonne, Aug. 9.
It now transpires that the yacht, Blue Shadow, ran aground outside Gijon and put into that port for repairs.

Warned that the Almirante Cervera was approaching to bombard the city, which had already suffered severely from the gunfire of the cruiser, many persons having been killed, the master, Captain Saville, put to sea. He was just too late to escape.

The cruiser sighted the yacht, and believing her to be a Government vessel, fired on her.—Reuter.

DARING ROPE THEFTS

SHIPS AT ANCHOR

The story of the audacious theft of huge lengths of rope from ships in harbour was related to Mr. E. Himsforth by Det.-Sgt. Haynes at the Kowloon Magistracy on Saturday, when Chan Shui, 40, Asherman, Leung Chuen, 35, odd-job cooler, and Chin Chi-hung, 23, odd-job cooler, were charged with the larceny of 125 fathoms of eight-inch and 10-inch rope from the P. and O. liner Corfu, and 85 fathoms of eight-inch rope from the freighter Havel. All admitted the charges.

When Mr. Himsforth expressed surprise that three men could have stolen so much rope from ships, Det.-Sgt. Haynes said that on July 10 when the Corfu was anchored in Junk, day awaiting the dawn to go up the harbour, defendants came alongside in a sampan, climbed up the anchor cable and reached the deck. They then threw the rope, which was coiled on deck in preparation for mooring, down into the sampan and when it was laden, cut the rope off at the water's edge.

Only the ship's crew was on watch, said Det. Haynes, who added that defendants had admitted selling the stolen rope to fishing junks, which had left port. None had been recovered.

Similar methods had been adopted on the Havel on August 3, except that the rope had been lowered over the stern.

The stolen rope from the Corfu was valued at £20, added Det.-Sgt. Haynes, and that from the Havel was valued at $500. The Corfu was the second P. and O. vessel in nine weeks to be robbed of rope in similar fashion, he said.

All the defendants admitted previous convictions. They were sentenced to imprisonment for three months on each charge, the terms to be concurrent. In addition police supervision for two years was ordered.

HARBOUR MISHAP

REPAIR BOAT

An accident which cost the life of a Chinese occurred yesterday afternoon on the Kowloon wharf of the Star Ferry. The mishap occurred when the B. and S. steamer Yunnan, inward bound from Shanghai, fouled the cross-harbour cable which was being repaired, and upset a small boat.

For some days past there has been a small boat engaged off the Star Ferry wharf repairing a cable, the cable being lifted from the harbour bed and run over the boat. The Yunnan was proceeding slowly up the harbour and approaching this boat when a Star Ferry drew out from the Kowloon wharf. The Yunnan, commanded by Captain D. Wilson, manoeuvred to avoid the ferry but in doing so bore down on the stationary boat. Only just in time the Yunnan averted and though she was able to avoid actually running over the workmen engaged on the cable the ship evidently caught the cable which was supported by the small boat and in pulling this she upset the boat which turned completely over and fluted bottom up.

The police-launcher moored at the Police pier were on the scene in a few seconds and rendered all possible help. Then N.D.L. freighter Saarland which was on her way down the harbour leaving port passed at this moment and it was fortunate that a second mishap was avoided. The Yunnan then proceeded to her buoy further up the fairway.

It is understood that there will be a court of enquiry held to-day to decide cause of the accident.

JAPANESE TRADE

LOOKING FOR RAPPROCHE-
MENT WITH BRITAIN

London, Aug. 8.
"There have lately been several indications that Japan is thinking in terms of an Anglo-Japanese rapprochement," says The Times to-day.

"Proud, defiant and perhaps a little light-headed, Japan faces the future but she faces it alone," continues the paper. "The outlook for Japan's trade is far from bright. Manchukuo provides no haven for her surplus population."

"Russia is viewed with growing apprehension. Even if an armed conflict is avoided, ideological and economic clashes between these two Powers will leave important marks on the future of the Far East."

"In the circumstances a renewal of some form of Anglo-Japanese alliance would be welcomed by Japan," adds The Times. "In the Tokyo Asahi's strictures on Britain's commercial policy may be seen, against a background of Japanese decreasing foreign trade, the real motive for the desire for friendship. Britain would well do to the interpretation here, by absorption of the United States in its presidential race."

Japan and America

Tokyo, Aug. 7.
Japan wants better trade relations with the United States and intends to make an active effort to this direction as soon as America's presidential election is out of the way.

Attempts of the Japanese Government to have a trade commission established have been delayed, according to the interpretation here, by absorption of the United States in its presidential race.

The trade figures as released here show that last year Japan exported to the United States goods worth $55,000,000 yen, while purchasing in the United States goods valued at $60,000,000 yen.

"Despite this favourable situation," says the newspaper Asahi, "the United States ignored its advantageous trade with Japan and has been raising the tariff on cotton cloth, slide fasteners, wooden gloves, assessed a consumption tax on rape-seed oil, and is now reported to be considering a tariff increase on porcelain and hosiery goods from Japan."

"It is the objective of the Japanese Government to have the trade commission established between the two governments and discuss those goods liable to be subjected to a tariff raise. The proposal was made to the American Government, and when Commodore Inoué, now at New York, returns to Japan, the Japanese Government authorities will hear from him the views of the American side in regard to the proposal, and they will positively call upon the interested quarters to assist in the formation of the commission."

The forthcoming America-Japan Trade Commission is designed to be composed of the authorities of the Treasury and State Departments on the part of the United States and the authorities of the Japanese Embassy in Washington, Japanese Consul-General, Commercial Counselor, etc., on the part of Japan.

"The traders of both countries are also to be allowed to become members. The Commission is designed to function as a permanent institution."

RUMOUR DISPELLED

CHAN CHAI-TONG AND HIS BROTHER IN HONGKONG

From No. 13a Macdonnell Road, General Chan Chai-tong and members of his family, and his brother Mr. Chan Wai-chow, former Superintendent of the Kwangtung-Kwangai Salt Administration, have moved to Lee Gardens. A former Chinese amusement resort and restaurant, Lee Gardens is one of the landmarks in Wanchai near Causeway Bay. Since the closing of the Gardens and restaurant, the place has been occupied by the local Chinese Buddhist Association, which recently gave up the premises.

There are rumours that General Chan Chai-tong and a party of his former associates will be leaving Hongkong next week by a French steamer, but this cannot be confirmed. Seen by a reporter on one of the Chinese newspapers, Mr. Chan Chai-tong said that her husband's illness had shown much improvement, but he was still attended daily by Dr. Li Siu-fan.

A number of Police officers were present at Lee Gardens on Saturday when the General and his family arrived in motor-cars.

Saturday's move definitely disproved rumours of Chan Chai-tong's secret departure from Hongkong.

Singapore, Aug. 8.
Chinese residents of the Malay State of Perak have decided to present Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek with an aeroplane as a birthday gift. Subscriptions are now being collected.

Although many of them have never been in China the majority of the Chinese in Malaya are staunch supporters of the Nanking Government. They have frequently contributed money to patriotic causes. There are several Chinese nationalists in Malaya, even in terms of sterling. The Chinese dominate the retail and artisan trades throughout the peninsula.—Reuter.

The Scourge Of Malaria.

Science has made steady progress in the fight against malaria, but much has yet to be discovered before mankind can be rendered immune to this depressing form of fever.

Malaria is caused by parasites in the blood introduced thereto through the bite of infected mosquitoes. These parasites thrive in an impure depleted blood-stream, but cannot live in good blood, so the best precaution against attacks of malaria is to build up the blood by tonic treatment, and thereafter to keep it pure, rich and plentiful.

The most famous tonic for rapidly creating new, rich, red blood is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. This has been proved beyond doubt not only by fifty years of practical use throughout the world, but also by clinical tests carried out under strict medical supervision, when in every case the patients showed substantial increases in the number of red blood corpuscles after one month's treatment with the pills. They all felt better and had more colour in their cheeks.

If you are a victim of malaria the remarkable results brought about by a short course of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will gratify and surprise you.

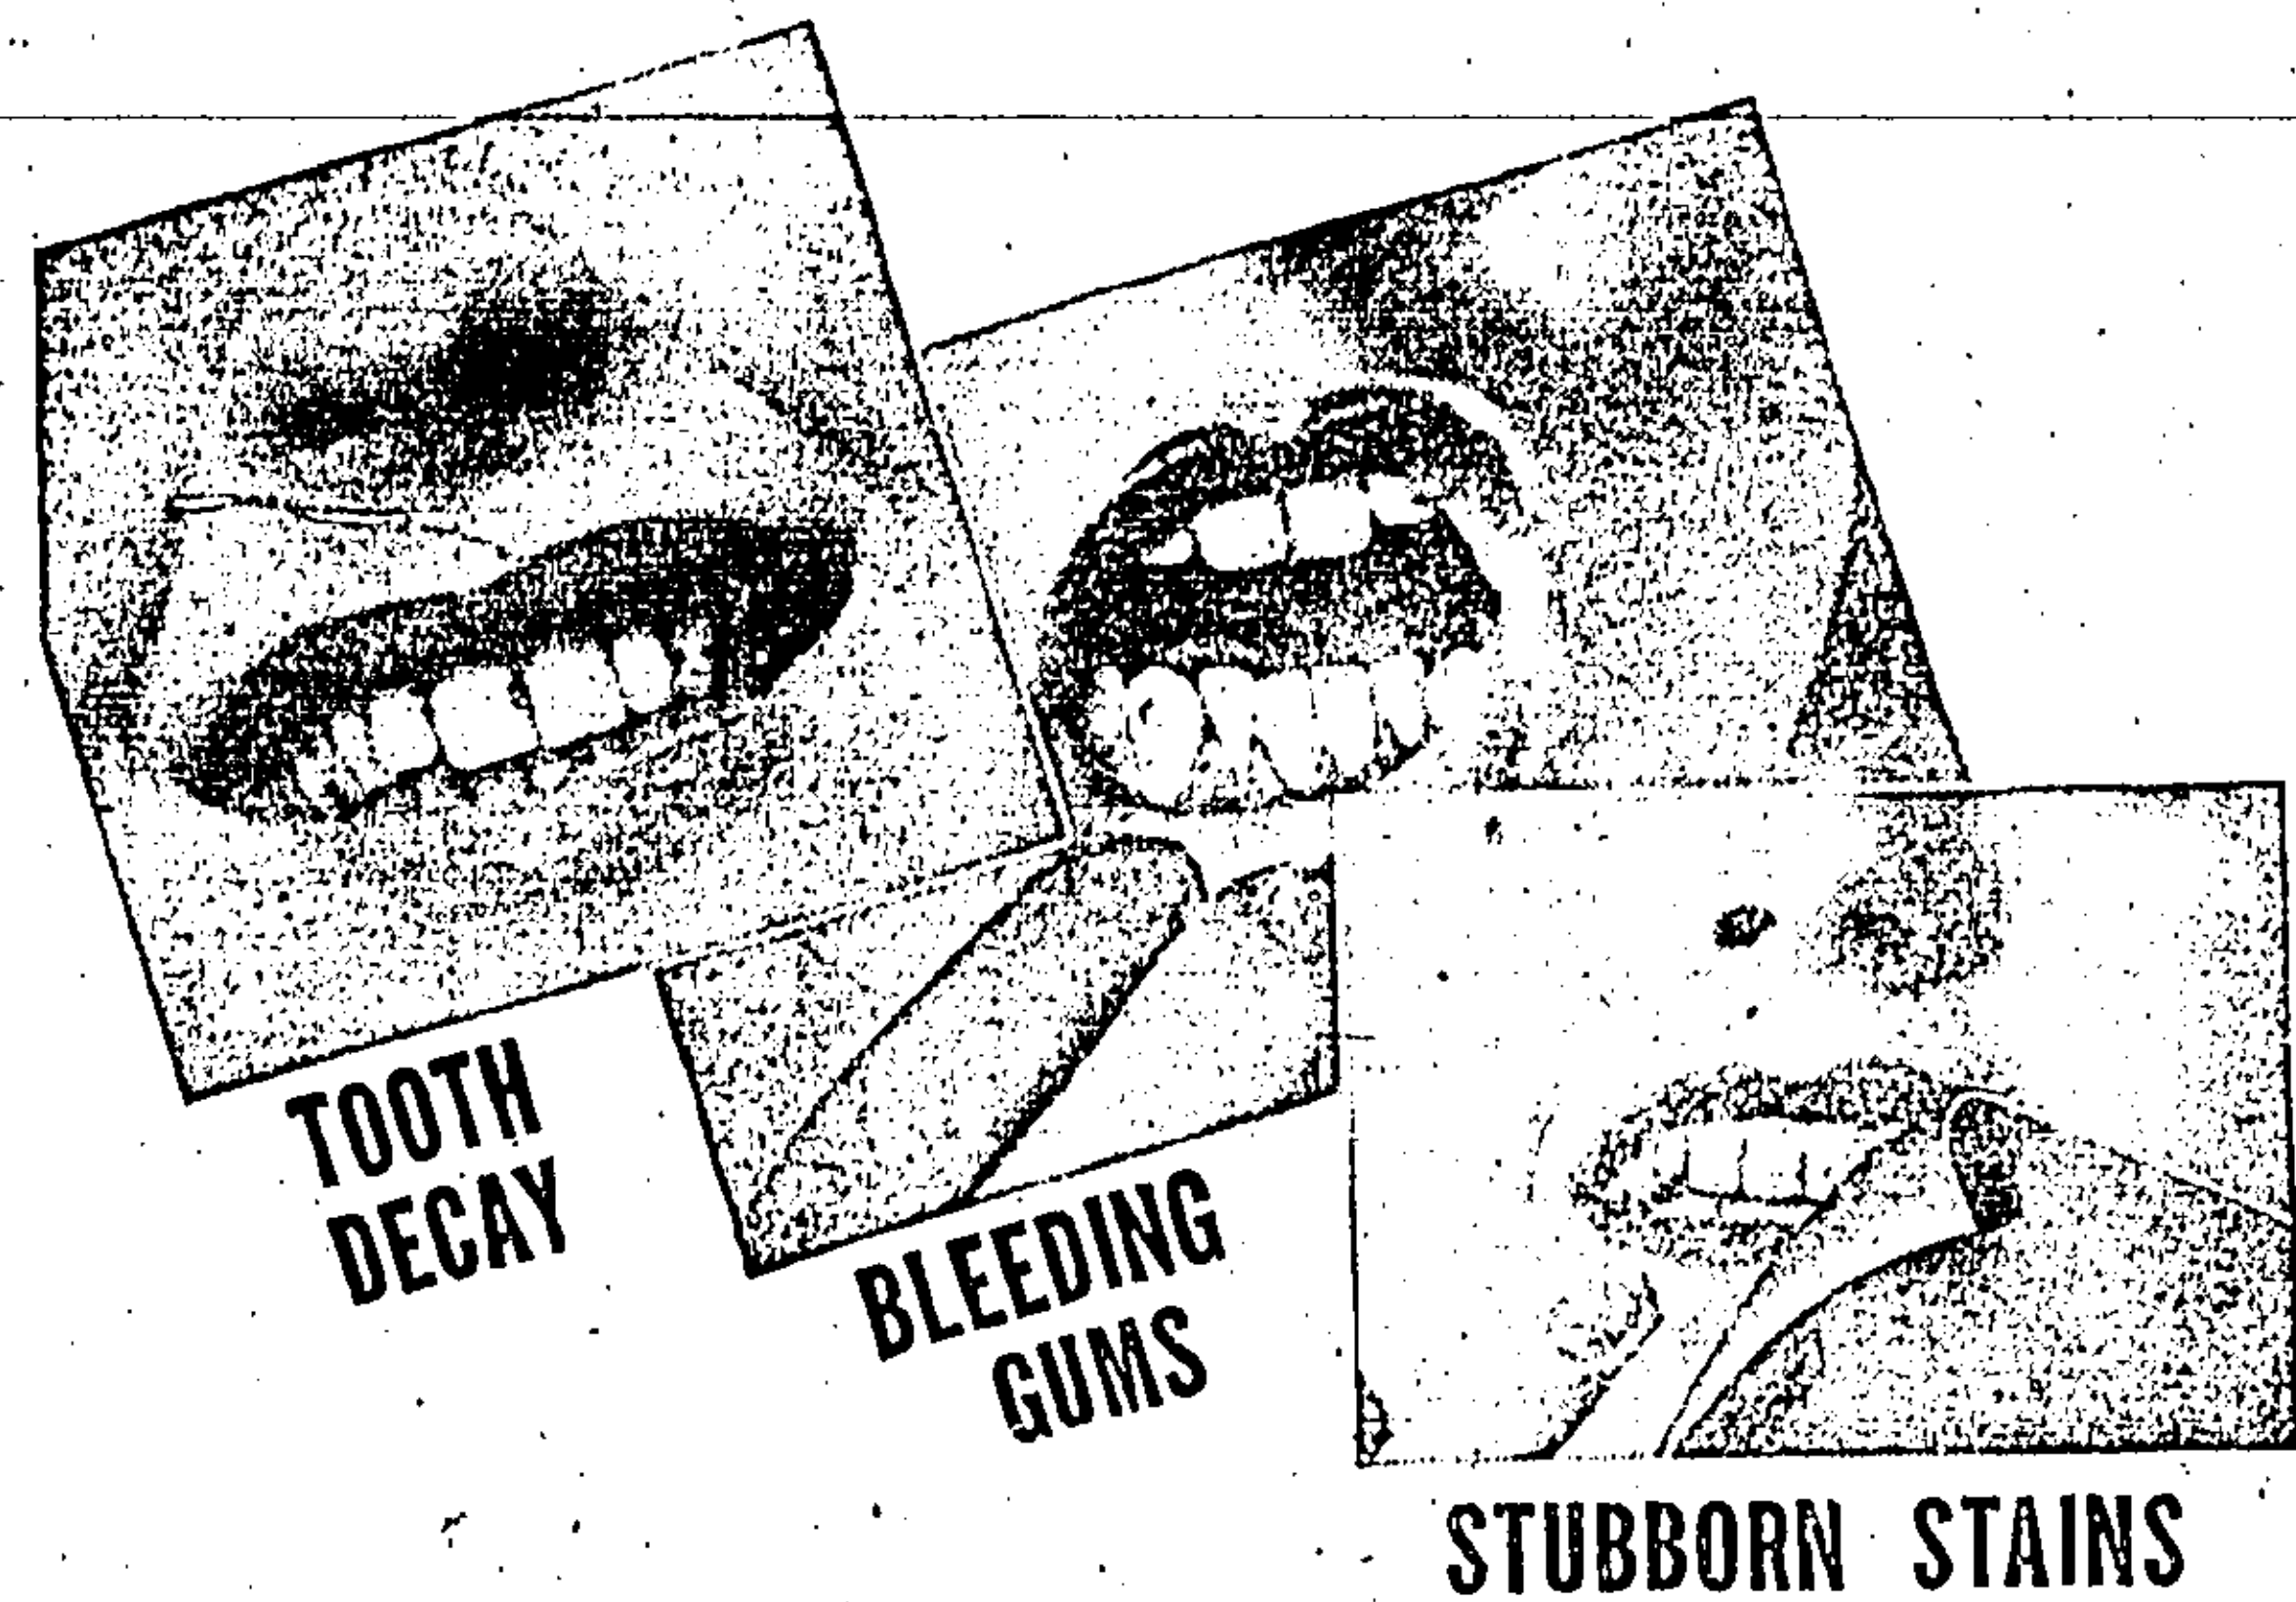

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are equally good for all ailments arising from impoverished blood, or run-down nerves, such as anaemia, indigestion, insomnia, nervous debility, rheumatism, lumbago, sciatica, as well as the aches and pains peculiar to women. They are obtainable from chemists everywhere.

Remove FILM this way

The fate of your teeth may rest on what you do to remove film! Don't risk ineffective methods when film may lead to such serious consequences. And don't trust precious tooth enamel to any but a special film-removing dentifrice.

21 years ago a group of men discovered a scientific fact—that film should be removed if teeth are to be kept clean and sound, if gums are to remain healthy. A special formula was devised. Since then it has been constantly improved with one thought in mind: to remove film safely.

Today Pepsodent is known as the "special film-removing tooth paste." It is unexcelled in the way it removes the film that glues decay germs to teeth. Millions know how it polishes teeth to natural brilliance. And it does these things safely. For Pepsodent contains no grit, nothing that might harm or injure tooth enamel.

For whiter, brighter teeth, sound and healthy teeth, use Pepsodent, the "special film-removing tooth paste."

TRUCK

—and a Service worthy of it!

EVERY month big shipments of Bedford trucks leave England for every part of the world. And the rising export figures and many hundreds of enthusiastic letters from Bedford owners all over the world have shown that the Bedford is popular wherever it goes. Why this success? For, in designing the Bedford range, Vauxhall experts studied overseas conditions at first hand. They learnt what was wanted in trucks from the very men who were going to use them. And there is a world-wide organisation to make Bedford service and genuine spares available everywhere.

Tested at every stage in the famous Luton works in England, proved sound and reliable on the roughest work in the world, the Bedford is a first-class investment whatever the nature of work!

THE "MILITARISTIC
PACIFISTS"

Stress was laid, in a recent speech by Sir Samuel Hoare, First Lord of the Admiralty, on the point that Britain has delayed so long in naval rebuilding that she is now faced with the task of building what virtually amounts to a new fleet. He added that it is a matter of life and death that this rebuilding should proceed on the right lines, and intimated that the Admiralty is therefore availing itself of the teaching of experience, of the discoveries and inventions of science, and of the lessons of actual experiment to ensure that the soundest methods of construction be followed. It may thus be assumed that the new British Navy will be worthy of the nation's traditions and that no expense will be spared to ensure the security both of the Motherland and the Empire overseas.

Coincident with this programme of naval reconstruction, there is to be big expansion of the Air Force and increased attention to land defences. When all is said and done, however, the fundamental fact, as Sir Samuel Hoare has pointed out, is that it is upon the sea that the nation and the Empire depend for their existence. In the course of his speech, Sir Samuel referred to the stand taken by certain types of pacifists and to their "miserable, inconsistent, imprudent attitude." He undoubtedly had in mind those people who have been objecting to the expense involved in rebuilding the nation's defences, and who also criticise the Government's policy on the ground that it is likely to encourage the war spirit. But there is a strange illogicality about the arguments of these people, who, professing to be the enemies of war, would not hesitate to plunge Britain and indeed the whole of Europe into hostilities over the Ethiopian dispute. Hence the coining of the term "militaristic pacifists" as applied to these individuals and their peculiar outlook. Attempts have even been made in some quarters to discourage recruiting for the Army, but, in spite of this campaign, a slight improvement in the number of recruits has been reported, indicating that the public is awakening, slowly though it may be, to the necessities of the times. There is surely no doubt in the minds of reasonable people that the programmes for strengthening the national defences must go forward with the utmost energy. It will be a long time, if ever again, that the British people will be lulled into a policy of disarmament whilst other nations are re-arming as fast as they know how. Some people may call the Government's policy militarism; in reality, it is only sanity, for to permit the nation to remain inadequately armed at this juncture would be nothing short of suicidal.

DON'T BLAME Us POOR
SCIENTISTS!by Prof. B. W.
HOLMAN

HOMES, built by Science in Clapham, S.W.—

The Government grants nearly five times as much money for research into the powers of death as it grants for research into the powers of life. Yet scientists are blamed for the iniquity of science. Imagine what might happen if they were free to devote all their energies to increasing the good in the world instead of the evil!

WHEN people find something going wrong with their scheme of living, their first instinct is to look for someone to blame.

Threatened to-day with the destruction, not only of everything they value, but of their very existence, the world—with apparent logic—is beginning to turn against the persons who brought these forces of destruction into being.

The unhappy scientist dreaming of emancipating mankind, awakes to find himself regarded as a menace when he hoped to be upheld as a liberator.

Emerging from the isolation of his laboratory, he is learning with increasing horror the reason for this unexpected unpopularity.

EVERYWHERE the powers he has released, which could have been used to increase a man's wealth and freedom, are instead being used for enslavement and destruction.

The power he has given the world to increase its food supply so that no one need ever go hungry, has been defeated by restriction in the interests of private profit.

The weapons which could have been used to exterminate the most ferocious parasites which can wipe out a year's work in a single night, or to destroy those verminous animals which infect man with epidemics as devastating as a war, have instead been directed towards human suffocation.

Extracts from a substance like coal tar have brought dyes, perfumes, and flavours (once luxuries) within the reach of the masses. But they have also been seized on for the production of T.M.T. to destroy life.

Explosives which made possible the building of great reservoirs, bridges and railways, are used to shatter human beings.

Flying, which has been man's greatest challenge to space, is studied mainly as an opportunity for dropping bombs on civilians and military alike.

The list could be much longer.

No wonder the world's reaction to the scientist is one of horror and hostility!

YET, before crying out for the suppression of the scientist, let us look a little closer. Is this wise? Is this just?

What control has the scientist over the application that is given to his discoveries? Are scientists represented among the nation's rulers? Do they sit on influential bodies which shape public policies? Are they ever consulted on questions which decide the direction of events as distinct from those concerning ways and means?

The destruction of science would do no more than drive man back to the days when human blood and muscle lifted the role now played more effectively by lubricating oil and steel. Human slaves would return in the place of mechanical slaves.

Plague, famine, and war would once more take the place of science's substitute—birth control. The fact that war still remains in a modern world from which plague and famine have been practically eliminated is in spite of, not because of, the scientist.

War, which was once necessary for the acquisition of slaves and for the adjustment of population problems, is now a wicked anachronism.

Science has given man mechanical slaves, an artificial solution to population problems, and a great ideal to work for, the conquest of Nature.

The reason why scientists, having brought man in sight of mastery of the universe, now find their discoveries being used to arm evil with might, is because they are simply paid servants in the outer courtyard of the Palace of Power.

They may be consulted or dismissed at the mere whim of those who occupy the inner sanctums—men whose disastrous heritage it is to be possessed of "power without knowledge."

While these people control the application of science, of what use to attack the scientist? It would be just as effective to try to deal with wrong spending by seizing all the money in the world and dumping it at the bottom of the sea.

Sound people do not advocate the abolition of a means of exchange because some people use it to obtain harmful things. They realise that money is not inherently evil—that the pivot of the matter is the use it is put to.

THE same is true of science. It is the sheer might of modern science which robs people of their sense of proportion. Perhaps the most important scientific discovery ever made was the way to make fire.

Professor B. W. Holman is general secretary of the Association of Scientific Workers.

—FOR HEROES, killed by Science on the Somme.

Imagine a world ignorant of this knowledge? Would the anti-scientists drive us back to a sub-human stage of existence simply because fire has immense possibilities for destruction? Can those who would not advocate this logically oppose other scientific discoveries?

It is not the scientist who is the menace in the world to-day—it is the divorce between power and scientific knowledge.

It is true that there was once a time when the scientist willingly accepted his status as servant. He held that his pursuit was "pure" knowledge, and that it was no concern of his what use his discoveries were put to. That is not true to-day. All over the world the scientist is waking to a sense of his responsibilities.

HE is chafing against his enforced impotence in the face of the terrible perversion of his discoveries.

The result has been the formation of bodies like the Association of Scientific Workers and The British Science Guild in Britain; and similar organisations in other countries, aimed to oppose with pen and voice the idea that science is an enemy rather than a friend.

Scientists are not only in revolt at the perversion of valuable discoveries to evil uses; they are also uniting in protest at the crippling and suppression of powers of production already available for the greater benefit of mankind.

At present science could produce plenty for all, at the same time reducing the working period to between two and four hours a day. Is science allowed to do it?

From the scientists' point of view, human clothing has not changed substantially since Neolithic times.

Houses have not basically changed within the span of history. Science has provided means by which clothing and housing could be vastly cheapened and completely revolutionised. These means are not developed because they challenge vested interests.

People complain at London weather. Science could place a city like London under flexible glass and condition different sections so that the inhabitants might choose whether they wished to live in a temperate, torrid, humid, or dry climate.

RESTRICTION of mass production is bound to mean hostility to science—the expansion of production leads naturally to its encouragement.

For this reason we find in Fascist countries that the status of the scientist is sinking, whereas in a country aiming at industrial expansion, like the U.S.S.R., he is coming into his own.

In Britain, by recognising that the true role of the scientist is that of a director of progress, as well as of a servant, we also may learn to see him as a saviour rather than a destroyer.

To-day's Thought—

MANKIND has honoured its destroyers and persecuted its benefactors, building palaces for living brigands, and tombs for long-dead prophets.

—DEAN W. R. INOE.

NOTES OF THE DAY

The system of postal communications in Great Britain has reached a standard of almost perfect efficiency. Of all the millions of letters and packages circulated every year only a very few are lost, and the speed and promptness with which the mail is dealt with is remarkable. An important part in the despatch and delivery of letters is played by what is known as "travelling post office," of which there are seventy in Great Britain, each one consisting of one or more letter-sorting carriages attached to a train. Every night four trains, which are devoted entirely to Post Office business, travel five hundred and forty miles between Euston and Aberdeen, and three hundred and five miles between Paddington and Penzance.

The trains running between London and Aberdeen are the largest of their kind in the world. They usually consist of sixteen vehicles and carry a staff of forty persons.

While travelling at full speed, the train receives or despatches mails by special apparatus at more than thirty points on the journey. The staff employed is very highly skilled. It works with such speed and efficiency that even in the foggiest weather little or no time is lost. The first travelling post office was run as an experiment in 1838 on the Grand Junction Railway, between Birmingham and Liverpool, six months after the railway was opened. It consisted of a horse-box temporarily fitted up as a sorting carriage—an extraordinarily primitive contrivance compared with the efficient trains used to-day!

JESTERS DISTRUSTED

A RECENTLY published life of the late Henry Labouchere M.P., to those who read between the lines, shows what a handicap it is to have too great a jesting disposition.

Labouchere was a man of consummate ability. He went into Parliament, and became known as one of the most incisive speakers and witest debaters in the House. His great gifts entitled him to almost any position to which he could aspire; but he lived and died plain Mr. Labouchere, weekly paper proprietor.

And why? Because he was known far and wide as a jester, a scoffer, a mocker. The British spirit, rightly or wrongly, distrusts people who jest and scoff and mock.

When a man does not take the world seriously the world will not take him seriously. This ought to be taken to heart by any young man who wants to get on in life.

Let us distinguish, however. The world will gladly reward those who make it laugh—as a business. It will heap riches on the George Robey and P. G. Wodehouses of the day. They are being funny for a living. But it will not readily forgive or trust those who are funny when they do not have to be.

POLITICS IS GRIM

Nothing damages a political leader like a sense of humour which he does not try to repress. The great Marquess of Salisbury was a master of sarcasm and irony; but he took care to be quite serious in his public utterances.

He knew the temper of the British public and how they resent facetiousness in their statesmen. His hidden humour broke out in a gibe at one of his opponents on one occasion, however, and it did him a great deal of harm.

Leon Trotsky owed his downfall to his implicit sense of humour. He was wise, but he was also sarcastic. Consequently he was exiled; while Stalin, who preferred mathematics to humour, sat in the Kremlin and ruled Soviet Russia with a rod of iron.

Abraham Lincoln was perhaps the greatest President the United States ever had. But there were thousands of citizens who held that he was unfit for his high office, because he was known to tell funny stories and to have a liking for the work of Artemus Ward. In the eyes of the world, a great man must be serious, not to say grim.

SOLDIERS MUST BE SERIOUS

As with statesmen, so with soldiers. Leaders like Wellington and Haig are trusted to the death because they are incapable of making a joke. Sir Henry Wilson was a most able soldier. There was none wiser and more present in the councils of the Allies. But Mr. Lloyd George says of him that he "had attributes which explained and to a large extent gave warrant for the suspicion and lack of confidence so widely felt in him."

Mr. Lloyd George explains: "He was whimsical almost to the point of buffoonery. He answered a serious question or expounded a grave problem in a vein of facetious and droll frivolity which was undignified in a man of his grave responsibilities. He tested over questions of life and death. This habit detracted from the weight and authority which his position and capacity ought to have given to his counsel."

Great generals may not be whimsical. Sir J. M. Barrie may be whimsical, because that is his job. But we do not pay our statesmen and generals and leaders of commerce and industry to crack jokes. They are distrusted immediately if they do far forget themselves.

Vaughan Dryden.

HARPER'S BIG EFFORT IN MARATHON

THRILLING INCIDENTS AT WORLD OLYMPICS

A sensational victory in the 1,600 metres relay race, and second place honours in the women's high jump and the marathon race put Great Britain "on the map" at the Berlin Olympics yesterday. Her most disappointing performances were in the men's swimming events, Frank Dove, the new British 100 yards free-style champion failing to qualify in the 100 metres heats. However M. Y. French-Williams of the Penguin S.C. succeeded in winning first place in his heat, though in the rather unimpressive time of 59.7 seconds.

Britain's victory in the 1,600 metres relay was one of the finest achievements of the Olympics to date.

According to a Reuter message, G. L. Rampling, Britain's second-best runner, ran the race of his life. He had to make up eight yards from fourth place, yet he handed over the baton seven yards ahead of the rest of the field. Thereafter the British runners were never headed and they won in the splendid time of 46.7 secs. Rampling's 400 metres run was accomplished in the record time of 46.7 seconds.

It is possible that Fred Wolff, the former Hongkong boy, took part in the 1,600 metres relay race. He was included in the eight runners from whom Britain's team of four was chosen.

Britain's team was selected from A. G. K. Brown, F. R. Handley, B. F. McCabe, A. Pennington, J. V. Powell,

HIGH JUMP THRILLS

The final of the women's high jump produced some brilliant performances.

As a result of Hungary won the event from Odum of Great Britain, with Kunz of Germany third.

All three jumpers tied at 1.60 metres, but in the jump-off Miss Csak leaped 1.62 metres, while Miss Odum repeated her 1.60. Fraulein Kunz of Germany failed to touch her previous 1.60 metres.

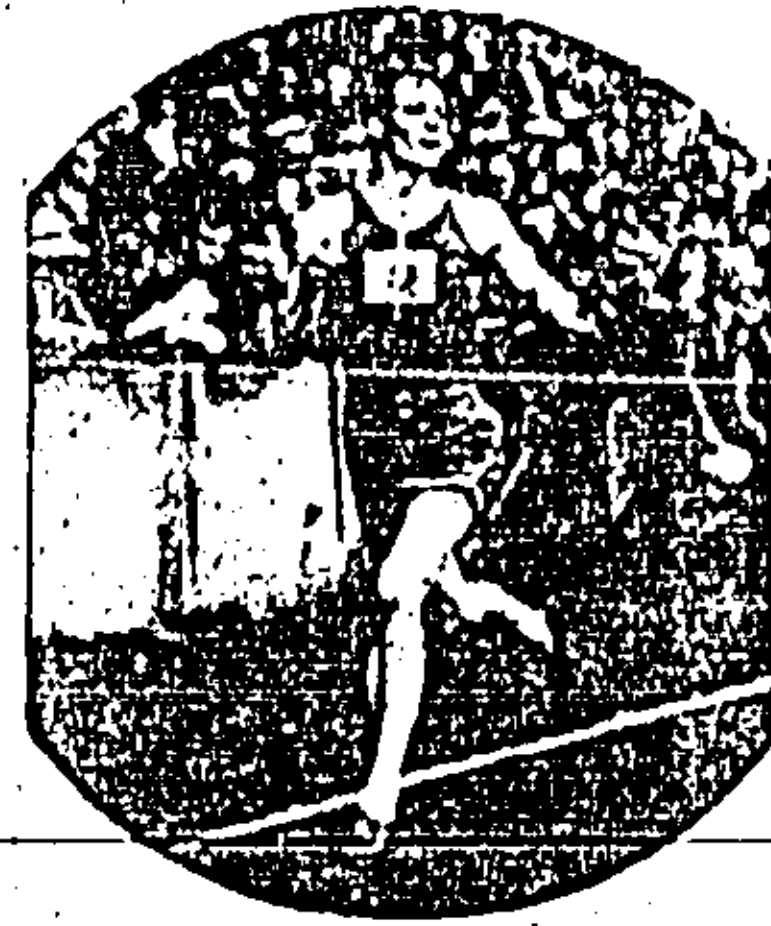

E. Harper of Hullamshire, H. and A.C., finished second for Britain in the marathon race, which was won by Son, the Japanese in the time of 2 hrs. 29 mins. 19.2/10 secs. Harper's time was 2:31:22.4/10, while Nan of Japan, who filled third place covered the distance in 2:31:42.

Britain was represented in this race by Harper, D. M. Robertson (Maryhill Harriers) and A. J. Norris (Poly. H.), the latter being the brother of Mr. E. C. Norris of the local office, General Electric Co. The exchanges were leading 10-10. The first half, both teams displaying great speed, Feng played a beautiful game for China scoring three baskets during the last ten minutes.—Reuter.

CHINA LOSES AT BASKETBALL

Beaten By Peru In Consolation Tie

Berlin, Aug. 9. China, after defeating France in the first round of the Basketball consolation event at the World Olympics, today lost to Peru by 29 goals to 21. At half-time Peru were leading 10-10. The exchanges were leading 10-10. The first half, both teams displaying great speed, Feng played a beautiful game for China scoring three baskets during the last ten minutes.—Reuter.

Five More Test Players For Australia

Holmes, Farnes, Barnett Sims And Voce

London, Aug. 9.

W. Voce, famous Notts and England Test bowler, has been invited to join the M.C.C. to tour Australia during the coming winter.

He, and four other players have been asked to join the eleven players already invited, the latest selections being:

E. R. T. Holmes (Surrey)
K. Farnes (Essex)
C. J. Barnett (Gloucestershire)

J. M. Sims (Middlesex)
W. Voce (Notts)

An additional wicket-keeper will be announced later.—Reuter
As the total number of invitations are now 16, and there is still a reserve wicket-keeper to be chosen, it can be presumed that provision for the players accepted, England's team is now complete. The sixteen players who have so far received invitations are:

G. O. Allen (Middlesex) captain
R. W. V. Robins (Middlesex)
E. R. T. Holmes (Surrey)
Hammond (Gloucestershire)
Leyland (Yorkshire)
Verity (Yorkshire)
Fishlock (Surrey)
Hardstaff (Notts)
Duckworth (Lancashire)
Worthington (Derbyshire)
Coppson (Derbyshire)
Fagg (Kent)
Voce (Notts)
Farnes (Essex)
Barnett (Gloucestershire)
Sims (Middlesex)

These players include four fast to medium-fast bowlers, with Verity, Sims, Hammond, Worthington, Robins, and Leyland as very useful change bowlers. Batting strength is in Hammond, Leyland, Fishlock, Fagg, Hardstaff, Worthington, Allen and Holmes.

"FUSS" OVER GAMES IS OPPOSED

Japanese War Minister Advises Quiet Work For 1940 Games

Tokyo, Aug. 4.

Opposition to any "fuss" over the 1940 Olympic Games, which will be held in Tokyo, was voiced today by General Count Hatake Tetsuichi, War Minister, at the meeting of the Cabinet.

He emphasised the advisability of "quiet preparations" to ensure the full success of the forthcoming Olympiad. These preparations he added, should be carried out with dignity worthy of a great nation, by displaying a true Japanese spirit.

Meanwhile, the Ministry of Communications has already begun preparations for supplying foreign newspapers with telegraphic facilities directly at the Olympic Stadium. Efforts will also be made to convey the news and views of the Games to the outside world by means of television.

Should Fast Bowler Captain Test Team?

CRITICS RAISE QUERY

(By A. G. Moyes)

Various critics, and among them Neville Cardus, whose views are always worth more than a passing thought, are taking the view that Allen should not lead England because he is a fast bowler. Is there anything in this view?

Australia has never yet been led by a man of pace and seldom, indeed by a bowler.

M. A. Noble was, of course, an all-rounder and he is generally recognised as one of the greatest captains of all time. Maybe, of course, he was the exception to the unwritten rule that says that, if possible, a bowler should not lead.

BIG AND GOOD

Then, too, there was Warwick Armstrong, who bowled and batted and did each on a scale in proportion with his bulk.

England has had one fast bowler captain in pre-war years in Arthur Gilligan and another bowler captain in Douglas, who, according to report, was not always judicious in the way in which he used himself at the crease.

Life, of course, could swing the ball about, and there was a certain amount of friction when he, as captain, used the new ball when the mighty Barnes was in the side.

As far as Australia is concerned, bowler-captains have not done any harm, and have not committed such deadly sins against the principles of good captaincy as to make us settle down to a hard and fast rule.

BETTER NOT

Yet, there is always a feeling that, if possible, a bowler should not be placed in a situation in which he is forced to decide when he shall bowl, and when he shall be taken off.

We are perhaps not always the best judge of our own ability, and if we are to concentrate on bowling, we cannot give full attention to the opposing batsmen, which provides a guide to tactics, to be used to confound them.

There is, however, another aspect. The man to lead the side must be of sufficient skill to be able to hold his place without worry, and with no really outstanding amateurs awaiting the call, England is forced to leave it to Allen.

THRILLING MARATHON STRUGGLE

BRITISH ATHLETE'S VAIN EFFORT

London, Aug. 9.

E. Harper, the British marathon runner, had a great struggle with Kitoi Son, the Japanese in the Olympic marathon race, says Reuter. The Japanese eventually won in 2:28:19.2/10. Zabala, the 1932 winner of the event dropped out of the race at the 33rd kilometre.

Wimbledon Referee Resigns

Mr. F. R. Barrow has resigned his position as referee of the Wimbledon Lawn Tennis Championships, which he has held for 18 years.

His resignation has been accepted by the joint committee of the Lawn Tennis Association and the All-England Lawn Tennis Club with regret and acknowledgment of his valuable services.

Mr. Barrow was born in Malvern on January 30, 1866, and it is because he feels the burden of his years that he is retiring from Wimbledon. He wishes it to be known that he is not retiring from the other tournaments at which he referees, but he will carry on with them as long as his services are required.

He had the task of facing the first-mile Suzanne Lenglen in 1926 when the Frenchwoman refused to go on the court although Queen Mary was waiting to see her play. Mile Lenglen was late for her first game and afterwards became hysterical.

GOLF

MAY NOT BE PRETTY, BUT SERVES PURPOSE

J. Ferrier's style may not be as pretty as many other players, but it has stood him in good stead.

Though advised to change, it is gratifying to all his well-wishers that he does not propose to do so at present. The following remarks in connection with style-changing are condensed from Martin's book, and need no comment.

A friend of all the great American golfers, he should know what he is talking about.

Horton Smith, in his first year of tournament golf, won six out of nine, in which he played. Predictions were freely made that he would outshine R. T. Jones. Though he out-drove, out-mashed, and out-pitched the others, he failed to win the British Open that year, and then sank to mediocrity.

"What happened to Horton Smith happens to a lot of others. They develop a first-class game and then, not content to let it alone, they set about trying to make it better before it has really become seasoned.

QUIMET THE SAME

"A similar case happened to Francis Ouimet. He had defeated Vardon and Ray in the American Open, and had won the amateur championship with a sensational victory over Jerome Travers. One day, just after this, he confided to Martin that he contemplated revamping his game.

"There are certain wrinkles to be ironed out," he said, "and when you see me next spring, I will be an entirely different golfer, inasmuch as I will have a sounder and more useful golf swing."

"The years went by, and, while Ouimet had done a lot of tearing down and patching up in reconstructing his new game, it somehow was not perfect, and he could not win. Interest was lost in him. When he stopped worrying about his golf after he had begun to despair of ever winning, he won the American amateur championship again.

"Walter Hagen plays golf in almost exactly the way he began. He has always been unorthodox, but he has built up and stabilised from the foundation that he started with, instead of tearing down and reconstructing. As the years went by, Hagen ironed out the disconcerting wrinkles, with the result that his game became surer and his swing much smoother. If Hagen had, a year or so after he won his first open, started revamping his game, and changing his style, it is difficult to believe that he would have accomplished what he has in golf."

Carson was somewhat erratic, losing out in critical moments.

The Shanghai champion pair, however, reached great heights when they rallied in the final set after being beaten by 4-1, while their steadiness in the preceding set enabled them to even matters at 2 sets all. Although the Japanese lost the fourth set by the one-sided margin of 6-2, their fine returns, "iron" Duff and Carson's snatches, gained them spontaneous applause and this set was actually productive of the brightest tennis of the match, all four players being, at the peak of their form.

TWELVE SELECTED

London, Aug. 9. Harold Gimblett of Somerset and Gover, the Surrey fast bowler have been dropped from the England team to meet "All-India" in the third Test on August 15.

Their places have been filled by Voce of Notts and Sims of Middlesex. Leyland is also included in the twelve players chosen for this match.

Worthington of Derby and Fagg of Kent retain their places, together with Fishlock, Surrey left-hand batsman and Hardstaff, brilliant young Notts player.

England's twelve players for the match are:

G. O. Allen (Middlesex) captain
R. W. V. Robins (Middlesex)
Hammond (Gloucestershire)
Leyland (Yorkshire)
Verity (Yorkshire)
Fishlock (Surrey)
Hardstaff (Notts)
Voce (Notts)
Duckworth (Lancashire)
Worthington (Derbyshire)
Fagg (Kent)
Sims (Middlesex)

A despatch from London says that the inclusion of Voce follows the receipt by the M.C.C. of an entirely satisfactory statement in which Voce places himself unequivocally at the disposal of the Board.—Reuter.

CARSON AND DUFF LOSE IN TENNIS EXHIBITION

Shanghai, Aug. 5.

Tennis of a spectacular nature and of outstanding quality was seen at the Cathay Tennis Club yesterday evening when the rain held off long enough to enable the series with the visiting Japanese students to be completed. W. A. H. "Stick" Duff and L. D. Carson succumbing to the premier combination of the visitors, K. Nakano and S. Fujii in a five set battle which produced thrills in plenty. The final score was 3-6, 6-2, 6-4, 2-6, 6-4. In a singles match which was played prior to the main encounter of the evening, Ho Ka-lau lost to A. Muira by 6-0, 2-6. Still earlier in the afternoon, the visitors clashed with student players from the County Athletic Club, Muira and Shintani defeating Zee and Fung by 6-1, Nakano and Fujii defeating Tong and Yu by 6-0, Muira defeating Tong by 6-0 and Shintani defeating Liu, 6-0, 8-6. This series was conducted for the express purpose of giving the Chinese an opportunity to appear against ranking players.

Although both Carson and Duff flashed brilliant form on occasions, the Japanese pair succeeded in out-standing them, gaining applause by their remarkable returns of almost irreparable smashers and drives. Fujii covered the net with the agility of a cat, while Nakano's dependable ground strokes frequently saved the Japanese from defeat. Duff exploited his well-known chop smash to good effect on a number of occasions but

Ho Ka-Lau To Play Gordon Lum In Shanghai Tennis Championship

The complete draw for the men's singles, senior and junior, men's doubles and international doubles (Roper Cup) championships was announced recently by the Shanghai Lawn Tennis Association.

In the Men's Singles, Senior, L. D. Carson, H. Collaco and E. Th. Erickson have drawn byes in the first round. The total of 13 entries for this competition is not very satisfactory. Among the interesting matches should be that between Gordon Lum (who is due back on August 24) and Ho Ka-lau and W. A. H. Duff and J. G. Forbes.

The first round must be played off before August 22, and the second before August 28. Dates for the semi-final and final rounds will be announced later.

Great Britain and France have drawn byes in the first round of the Roper Cup International Doubles Competition. Japan will meet Portugal and China will clash with America in the first round which must be completed by August 17. The semi-finals will be played on the Association court on August 22 or August 23.

GOOD ENTRY LIST

Thirty entries were received for the Men's Singles, Junior Championship. E. Lenzlinger and P. K. Tong have drawn byes. The first round must be played off before August 18, the second before August 25 and the third before September 1. The date of the semi-final and final rounds will be announced later.

Owing to the limited number of entries received for the Men's Doubles Championship, Junior, the Committee of the S.L.T.A. has decided not to conduct this competition this year although a number of the persons who entered for this competition have had their entries transferred to the Men's Doubles Senior Championship, for which there are 14 pairs entered. Following is the complete draw: (Continued on Page 9.)

EARLIER OLYMPIC RESULTS

Japanese Swimmers Well To The Fore

U.S.A. LEAD FIELD

Japanese aquatic stars have begun to set up records in the swimming events at the Olympic Games at Berlin which started on Saturday.

In the first heat of the 100 metres free-style event for men, Peter Fick, of the United States, reduced the Olympic record to 57.7 secs., but this was later lowered by Taguchi, the Japanese swimmer. Miss Machata also set a new record for the Women's 200 metres breaststroke event.

Outstanding results on Saturday were Glen Morris's win in the decathlon event; the success of Finnish runners in the 3,000 metres and 5,000 metres events, in which new Olympic marks were established; Argentine's win in the Polo final; and Poland's soccer victory over Great Britain. China won the consolation basketball event by defeating France, but did not do anything of note in the swimming or running events.

Berlin, Aug. 8. Records were broken and re-broken when the swimming events began. In the 100 metres, the Japanese, Taguchi, returned a time of 57.5 seconds, beating the Olympic record. In the Women's 200 metres breaststroke, the Japanese swimmer, Miss Machata, returned a time of 3 mins. 1.9 seconds to set up a new Olympic record. —Reuter.

100 METRES FREE STYLE. Berlin, Aug. 8. The following is the summary of results in the swimming events: 100 metres free style (two qualify plus two fastest thirds) 1. Fick (United States); 2. Frenck (Hungary); Time: 57.7 secs.

Second heat.—1, Yusa (Japan); 2, Highland (United States); Time—57.9 secs.

Third heat.—1, Williams (Great Britain); 2, Adjudin (Philippine Islands); Time—59.7 secs.

Fourth heat.—1, Arai (Japan); 2, Fischer (Germany); Time—57.7 secs.

Fifth heat.—1, Taguchi (Japan); 57.7 secs. (Olympic record).

Sixth heat.—1, Wilman (Yugoslavia); 2, Helfel (Germany); Time—59.8 secs.

Seventh heat.—1, Lindgren (United States); 2, Adanyemes (Hungary); Time—58.3 secs.

Kensal (Austria) and Helman (Finland) were the fastest thirds to qualify.

AN OLYMPIC RECORD Omitting the first trials in the Women's 200 breaststroke, the second heat resulted in Martha Greener (Germany) coming first. Her time of 3 mins. 3 secs. is an Olympic record. In the third heat, Miss Hideto Machata, of Japan, clocked 3 mins. 1.9 secs, which set a new Olympic record.

Taguchi (Japan), Calk (Hungary) and Fick (United States) with a time of 57.5 secs., and Yusa (Japan), Arai (Japan) and Lindgren (United States) with a time of 57.5 secs. earlier qualified for the men's 100 metre free style race.—United Press.

ADJULUDIN PLACED Berlin, Aug. 8. In the 100 metre free style event for men, Adjuludin, of the Philippine Islands, swimming in the third heat, gained second place, thus reaching the semi-finals. Obial, also of the Philippines, was third, but failed to qualify, since only the two fastest thirds qualify.

Chan Chan-hing, the Chinese swimmer, failed to qualify.—United Press.

AMERICAN WOMEN ELIMINATED Berlin, Aug. 8. Dorothea Schiller, Ann Govednik and Is Cummings (United States) entered in the 200 metres breaststroke championship, were all eliminated in trial heats.—United Press.

CHINA LAST Berlin, Aug. 8. In the 400 metres relay race China, represented by Poh, Wong, Chen and Lui, was always trailing the others and finished last. The winners of the heat were Holland, with a time of 41.3 secs.—Reuter.

CHAN CHAN-HING

RUNNING SUMMARIES

The following is the summary of the 400 metres relay race heats, in which the best two teams in each heat enter the finals:

First heat.—1, United States (Jesse Owens, Metcalfe, Draper and Wykoff) 40 secs. flat (equals the world record); 2, Italy.

Second heat.—1, Holland 41.3 secs.; 2, Argentine.

Third heat.—1, Germany 41.4 secs.; 2, Canada.

The following is the summary of the Women's 400 metres relay race, of which three teams in each heat enter the finals:

First heat.—1, United States; 2, Canada; 3, Holland; Time—47.1 secs.

Second heat.—1, Germany; 2, Great Britain; 3, Italy; Time—46.4 secs.

3,000 METRES RACE

Berlin, Aug. 8. Isobello, of Finland, won the final of the 3,000 metres in 9 mins. 3.8 secs, which is an Olympic record.

Tuominen (Finland) was second in 9 min. 4.8 secs, and Dompert (Germany) third with 9 mins. 7.2 secs.—Reuter.

In the 3,000 metres steeplechase final, Isobello, of Finland, won. His time of 9 mins. 3.8 secs. is an Olympic record. Tuominen (Finland) was second, Dompert (Germany) fourth, Malmelin (Finland) fifth, and Larsson (Sweden) sixth. All six broke the old Olympic record of 9 mins. 21.8 secs.

In the 1,600 metres relay race, the first two teams in each heat of which qualify for the finals, the results were as follows:

First heat.—1, United States; 2, Hungary; Time—3 mins. 13 secs.

Second heat.—1, Great Britain; 2, Sweden; Time—3 mins. 14 secs.

Third heat.—1, Germany; 2, Canada; Time—3 mins. 15 secs.—United Press.

MORRIS WINS DECATHLON Berlin, Aug. 8. The United States won their eleventh title when Glen Morris won the decathlon event with a total which broke his own world record of 7,880 made at Milwaukee in June.

The United States needs one more victory in to-morrow's three finals to break the record of eleven victories. Herr Hitler arose and cheered Morris on his victory concluding the 1,500 metres.—United Press.

DECATHLON POLE VAULT Berlin, Aug. 8. The following are the results of the pole vault event in the decathlon competition: 1, Clark (United States) and Plavicki (Poland) 12 ft. 0 1/16 ins.; 2, Palmer 11 ft. 5 1/16 ins.; 3, Brasser (Holland) and Guest (Switzerland).

In the decathlon javelin throwing event, Natvig was first with a distance of 187 ft. 0 ins.; Huser was second, Clark third and Guest fourth.

FINAL STANDINGS The final standings of the decathlon event were as follows: Glen Morris (United States) 7,880; Bob Clark (United States) 7,601; Jack Parker (United States) 7,285; Huber (Germany) 7,037; Brasser (Holland) 7,046 and Guest (Switzerland) 7,033.—United Press.

FRECKLES AND HIS FRIENDS

Giving Himself Up

By Blosser

What I Saw in Russia—6

WE started for Dniepropetrovsk, which is now part of the city of Zaporozhye. The roads all the way were cobbled stones, and we bumped over them, hooting all the time to warn the hesitant pedestrians that we were a force to be reckoned with.

The Dnieper River could be seen on our left as we rushed over the hill towards the great new dam across the Dnieper.

When we were actually in Dniepropetrovsk we saw a considerable number of apartment houses. Most of them were of three stories only. They were in comparatively small blocks and there was a pleasant area of grass in front and behind them. Some seemed to be of brick, but the greater part were of concrete or some substance like cement breeze.

We were still bumping our way over the cobbles, and it was not until we were right in the heart of the new Socialist city that we encountered an asphalt road. This proved to be a lonely unit in a wilderness of clay and dust. In the wet season these roads must be almost impassable. We travelled up hill and down dale, on our way into the city, and the whole countryside looked scarred and barren, and reminded me of some of the South Wales valleys. We went straight on to the new dam and rode right over it.

It was unquestionably a fine engineering feat, although the finish seemed to be very rough. We inspected the power station and the electrical net work, where they transmitted to far distant sub-stations at 100,000 volts.

Women Workers

After lunch we visited the aluminium works. The building of this work was completed in 1933. Prior to that there was no aluminium in the country. Last year they produced 8,000 tons, and this year they would produce 15,000, which would be more than any European country. In 1936 they expected to produce 30,000 tons, and might eventually rival American production of 45,000 tons. There were 5,000 process workers employed, and 5,000 soldiers engaged on extensions. The processes were uninterrupted, and they worked four shifts of six hours each, the men taking their meals at their work. The fifth shift was employed for relief purposes, so as to allow everyone to have their rest day at the proper time. There were eight categories of process workers, the lowest receiving 120 roubles a month, and the highest 400 to 500. The great bulk of the workers were in categories five and six, where the earnings were from 300 to 450 roubles.

I pointed out that this variation, between 300 and 450, was very great, but I was assured that it represented the real facts. I then asked for the collective agreement, but by an oversight this was not produced. I was told there was very little difference between the real earnings and the collective agreement.

I inquired whether any women were employed in the processes and I was told they worked just as did the men. I said we Trade Unionists in England were old-fashioned.

We did not believe that women should be engaged on dangerous or unhealthy work. The Russians just shrugged their shoulders, as much as to say, that as women were paid the same wages as men, they must endure the same risk.

Tea-Time Talk

The director then asked would we take a cup of tea with him, and feeling very tired we gladly assented. There was a table set for about fifty people and being arranged for the workers, and that we would not be there more than a few minutes. To my great surprise, hardly had we sat down than groups of workers started to troop in and seat themselves at the table. In a few minutes at least forty or fifty were present, and I felt that I was being manoeuvred into addressing them.

We had scarcely commenced our food when a young fellow asked me to give them a description of conditions in England.

I told them something about the economic conditions of the British industries, about our wages system and how we provided against unemployment. I said that it was difficult for me to make comparisons with their conditions because their Trade Union Movement was quite different from any other in the world. It exercised functions entrusted to it by the State and it was not engaged in fighting capitalists for better conditions by means of strikes and other methods.

Doing Sums

I observed that the difficulty was further accentuated by the fact that there was not a stable value to the rouble. The official exchange rate was something like 500 to the pound, but that in fact this was almost a nominal figure.

In reality there was no exchange, because it was illegal to import or export roubles. I said that I had tried to ascertain what it would cost to buy certain things in Russian stores as compared with British shops. From these comparisons I judged that the rouble was worth about 80 to the pound, or in our currency, about 2d. I said this, on the whole, was an estimate favourable to the rouble, because it probably was worth less than 2d.

I went on to say that the cheapest ready-made suit I had seen in the workers' closed stores, where the prices were much lower than the State shops, was 150 roubles. It was of a very shoddy material, and I thought that the British equivalent could be bought for a couple of pounds or less. The British artisan would have to work about 32 hours to pay for this suit. The engineering labourer about 42 hours. The Russian worker earning

by Sir Walter Citrine

250 roubles a month would have to work 105 hours.

I had taken a fairly high average for the Russian worker, as 200 roubles is a more general figure.

This seemed to surprise them, and I added that, of course, I was dealing only with the monetary wages. I realised that a part of Russian wages was socialised and returned to them in the form of educational, medical and cultural services. But it was very difficult to make a comparison about this. I thought a good deal more was done by the State for the Russian worker in this respect. But it was also true that the British worker enjoyed a number of services which he, like them, paid for indirectly.

From the next question put it was apparent that the real purpose was to get me to discuss International Trade Union "unity."

"What did I think of the prospect of International Trade Union 'unity'?" I said that they must remember that this was a matter of very definite doubt. It would be interesting for me to know from their point of view exactly what advantages there were in international "unity."

Fight Fascism!

Immediately the answer came from the same questioner, that it could be used to fight war and Fascism, particularly if there was a link established between the British, Russian and French workers.

This was so similar to a suggestion put to me at the Moscow headquarters that I sensed some connection. I replied cautiously that we had already had an unfortunate experience between 1907 of contact with the Russian Trade Union Movement through the Anglo-Russian Trade Union Committee, of which I was a Secretary. It would need some very convincing evidence to induce the British Trade Unionists to repeat that experiment.

They asked me to forget that history in view of the imminent danger of war resulting from the attack of Italy on Abyssinia. I related that the British workers had already demonstrated their opposition to war, and I would be glad to know what they could do to stop war more than they had already done.

The answer was just what I expected. We could put an embargo on the export of war materials to Italy. I at once replied that the British Government had been operating such an embargo for weeks past.

I asked what were munitions. Was oil a munition, or barley? If so, perhaps the Russian comrades whom I had been repeatedly told were the Government of Russia, would stop sending these commodities to Italy. That would be a lead which would make a great impression on the workers of other countries.

I was at once told that they had to sell to Italy, and that they would stop sending these commodities when other countries did the same. I said that was a good capitalist argument but very unconvincing when used by a "Socialist State."

Then I pressed them hard to give me some concrete proposal as to what they thought could be achieved to stop the attack by Italy. There was an ominous pause. Then after some moments a young fellow said that that was due to capitalism. Therefore, we must try to destroy capitalism. If the workers would only revolt against capitalism, that would stop war.

I thanked them for this frank advice, which I said was the only concrete suggestion that had been offered. None the less, I did not think in the present circumstances there was any likelihood of a revolution in Great Britain or in France which would have the slightest effect in stopping Mussolini's attacks upon Abyssinia. Rather, it would help them. Was I to take it that they had no practical proposals to offer beyond that of a revolution by the British and French workers? There was a long pause. I repeated the question, and I got no answer to this. Seeing that there was a deadlock, someone asked a question regarding our social insurance benefits.

Insurance

I took the case of a man with a wife and one child, and said that they would receive, under the Unemployment Insurance scheme, 28s. in all. At 80 roubles to the pound this would mean that they would receive the equivalent of about 440 roubles a month, or nearly twice as much as the average wages quoted to us in Russian factories. A single man, receiving 17s. per week, would get about 272 roubles per month.

I could see that this was not believed, and I remarked that perhaps they thought my figure of 80 roubles to the pound was exaggerated. I knew, however, that roubles could be bought in Russia at upwards of 100 roubles to the pound. I insisted upon this being fully translated, and one of the workers then interjected, "Yes, and even more than that."

"We Are Proud"

At this point the director of the factory intervened and remarked, with great earnestness, "We are proud of our rouble because it is safe."

"Yes," I replied, "I appreciate your enthusiasm, but now we are discussing a question of comparative values. I think that the majority of Russian workers would prefer to have an English pound note in their pockets than 51 paper roubles."

It was clear that some from the manner in which this remark was received, after it had been translated, that the audience were of the same opinion as myself. It was quite evident that all knew that a great deal of inflation had been going on internally which had largely reduced the purchasing power of the rouble.

Then I was asked, would I give a short history of myself. I told them briefly I was the son of a seaman, and that I had worked as an electrician and subsequently as a Trade Union official. Some of them asked me whether I had any investments, and the interpreter, thinking this was what I was discussing, did not want me to reply, but I did so. The only investments I had were trifling ones in the Co-operative Society.

One of the workers here observed that "we, too, have similar investments in the Government and the Co-operative Society." I think he said this to assure me that an investment of itself was not wrong.

I remarked dryly, "Yes, I could see that I was talking to a group of budding capitalists." This struck them as funny, and they simply roared, and good feeling was thoroughly restored.

The gathering ended with an elderly worker exhorting me to tell the workers of England how much the Russian comrades looked forward to the revolution in Great Britain which would bring the workers even greater benefits than the Russian workers had obtained.

In reply, I thanked them for their attention, and said I knew that I said many things which they did not agree with. I could not tell them that many delusions had told them that Russia was the finest country in the world for the workers. It was far from that. I believed their standard of life would assuredly rise, but it might be a long time before they overtook the standards of many advanced industrial countries.

COMMITTS SUICIDE LOCAL INSTITUTE HOLDS COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES

A large gathering of relatives and friends of students of the Hongkong Commercial Institute attended the fourth annual commencement exercises and concert held in the Queen's Theatre yesterday morning.

The Headmaster, Mr. J. K. Yew, thanked Mr. Ip Lan-chuen warmly for kindly consenting to distribute the prizes and certificates to the graduates.

Mr. Yew read the report of the year's working of the Institute, which showed that the 198 students of the school were making excellent progress in all subjects taught, and that in the last examination conducted by the Institute of Book-keepers, Faculty of Secretaries and Institute of Commerce, London, out of 86 entrants for the examination from the school 78 passes were recorded. He added that he was deeply indebted to Mr. F. G. Maunders, Mr. L. Hinds, the Rev. Lee Kow-yau, and Mr. K. M. Au, for their presence in supervising the Institute examinations.

Prizes and certificates were then distributed by Mr. Ip Lan-chuen, who said that the art of Commerce was a weapon for conquering individual or social prosperity, and he would recommend the H. K. Commercial Institute as an excellent source where young men and women could derive their commercial education.

An excellent concert followed the distribution.

Those who received prizes and certificates were:

GERMANY BUYS BACK HER

THE TRIAL OF THE GERMAN "MONKS"

With reference to the reports published some weeks ago of a sensational trial at Coblenz in Germany, in which a large number of "Franciscan monks" were stated to have been charged with most horrible crimes, the London Univers of July 3, states that the persons concerned in this were not monks but laymen, a few being members of what is known as a "Tertiary Order" of laymen.

It appears, according to The Univers, that one of the members of this lay order, who had been dismissed for bad conduct, took his revenge by accusations of widespread immoral conduct. There were in fact a few isolated cases of misconduct on the part of certain of the Catholic laymen; one confessed and was sentenced, and sentence was later passed on others.

On this foundation, states The Univers, a huge, and indeed incredible, mass of accusation has been made against Catholic monks.

Gracie Allen As President!

Hollywood, July 20.
The national political situation has threatened to become somewhat complicated with the addition of Gracie Allen, squeak-voiced radio star, as a candidate for president.

Miss Allen tossed her beret into the ring "to straighten out this terrible political situation," and presumably to acquire some publicity for herself and her stooge husband, George Burns.

Miss Allen made her announcement over the telephone and invited anyone who wanted to hear the rest of it come up and have a highball. Your correspondent could hardly wait.

Miss Allen passed out a 10-point platform which advocates, among other things, government ownership, elimination of the budget, a plan for collecting war debts and repeal of prohibition.

Miss Allen was told prohibition had been repealed three years ago.

"Well, really?" she exclaimed. "I can hardly wait for brother to sober up as I can tell him about it."

Miss Allen explained her campaign was supported by the housewives' union of which she is founder, organizer, president and apparently the member.

"Our slogan is, 'One for all—and all for one!' Don't you think that is pretty?"

Somehow the conversation got around to war debts. Miss Allen said it was easy.

"All our members will marry Frenchmen. Then at night when they're asleep we'll just go through their pants and get the money they have stashed away in there. It could lend it to France in the first place."

She said she was against reducing the budget. "Let's eliminate it altogether," she suggested. "Besides, I think it's going to reduce, it would be smarter to do it where it shows more."

Your correspondent began to feel like a stooge, and suggested Mr. Burns ask the questions, but it developed Mr. Burns had gone around the corner to get a high ball. Miss Allen having neglected to pour.

Before it was over she had declared herself on government ownership and the soldier's bonus.

"I thought the bonus was wonderful," she sighed. "Brother got $5,000 out of it."

Your correspondent observed that "brother" must be quite a veteran. "No," Gracie said. "He's a crap shooter."

She was about to divulge her views on government ownership, when Mr. Burns got back from around the corner to announce his candidacy for the vice presidency.

The only thing Gracie knows

Two Stone Age Men Arrive In Singapore

TWO Stone Age men have arrived in Singapore.

They are covered in 15 coats of shellac, and packed in collars padded with the original reddish-brown "cave earth" in which they were buried some 5,000 years ago.

The skeletons will go into airtight glass cases, and be exhibited in the Pre-History section of the Raffles Museum.

MOST IMPORTANT FIND

These remains are the most important prehistoric find yet made in the Peninsula. They are two of several skeletons uncovered in the Phin Soon rock shelter at Sungai Siput, by Mr. H. D. Noone, the Field Ethnographer of the Perak Museum, Taiping.

The unearthing of further skeletons confirms the belief that even more ancient finds may yet be made.

A third coffin, containing Negrito dwarf is also on its way to Singapore.

LIVED IN 3,000 B.C.

The transport of the remains presented a difficult problem. Mr. Noone dug out the block of earth in which skeleton lay, and placed each skeleton and mould in specially constructed boxes.

Each section of bone uncovered was at once painted with alcohol, and given a varnish of 15 coats of shellac to preserve it.

The skeletons found in the top layer of the earth, Mr. Noone estimates, were men who lived about the date of the birth of Christ. These found deeper down date back to 3,000 B.C.

"Tribal Laws Void" Claims Tshekedi

Lobatsi (Bechuanaland), July 29.

An action challenging the legality of two proclamations issued by the Bechuanaland High Commissioner for the governing of the Bamangwato tribe, of whom Tshekedi Khama is acting chief, opened in Lobatsi today before Supreme Court Justice Watermeyer.

Tshekedi says that one proclamation is void because it takes away powers of jurisdiction granted to native chiefs in 1885.—Reuter.

Tshekedi was suspended in 1933 for sentencing a European to be flogged; was later reinstated.

about government ownership," he said. "It's through her old man. The government doesn't exactly own him, but they've been holding him in Leavenworth as security. He matured in 20 years."—United Press.

SCUTTLED FLEET

Rosyth, Aug. 1.
THE German battleships surrendered after the war at Scapa Flow are going back to Germany as part of their modern Navy.

This strange fact was explained today by Mr. M. Wilkinson, who is in control of the great shipbreaking yard of Metal Industries, Ltd. The explanation is this:

In a re-arming world trade in old battleships is brisk. The sunken German vessels are still being raised and towed to Rosyth.

Their steel plates and guns are cut into suitable lengths of scrap metal. Germany is the biggest buyer of this, and her demands have lately become intense.

The scrap metal is taken to the German steel works, and there resmelted into ships' plates for warships.

MAY NEVER BE RAISED

Ever since 1924 the work of raising and breaking up the warships sunk at Scapa Flow has been going on and will continue for some time yet. The Koenig Albert is now being broken up here.

The Kaiserin has been raised and is ready to be towed to Rosyth. The Friedrich Grosser will be the next to come to the surface, and others to follow include the Grosser Kurfurst and the Derfflinger.

Three or four other German Dreadnoughts are still lying on the bottom at awkward angles, and it may be impossible to raise them.

Incidentally, many of the steel plates of the Cunard-White Star liner Queen Mary were forged from the resmelted steel of the German battleships, and some steel on board her also came from the Mauretania.

THE MAURETANIA

The last of the Mauretania is in the yard here to-day. She has been beached, and only a few feet of hull remain above the keel.

In less than a month the oxy-acetylene flames will have cut out the last pieces, and thus the end of the great ship will come almost exactly one year from the time she was towed here from Southampton.

Mr. Wilkinson said that there have been thousands of letters from all over the world—the United States particularly—asking for the relics of the Mauretania. The most popular memorabilia are office rulers made out of the turbine blades.

British "Tommies" Unearth Important Finds

Alexandria, Aug. 1.
Important archaeological discoveries have been brought to light by British soldiers engaged in making a football pitch near their barracks in an Alexandria suburb.

While the "Tommies" were levelling a waste patch of ground a corporal suddenly stumbled on a beautifully coloured fresco of men on prancing horses, with women standing beside them.

The "find" was immediately reported to the Antiquities Department and, in the meantime, a British officer covered the fresco with sackcloth to guard it from the fierce rays of the sun.

Systematic excavations were started at once, with the result that a Hellenic necropolis, containing examples of the purest Doric style of architecture, was unearthed.

A number of mausoleums, dating from about the 3rd century, which comprise the necropolis, are noteworthy in that they are completely Greek in style, contrary to most other Alexandrian remains.

Four mausoleums have now been completely excavated and the fifth, which has been partially opened, contains a flight of steps leading to the entrance, a large open courtyard, a small cell enclosing the sarcophagus, several subsidiary chambers and alters, wells, and fountains.

In each case the sarcophagus is carved from the rock, and is a representation of the actual death bed, on which it was the custom to exhibit the body before burial.

Only one inscription has been found by the excavators. It consists of a list of persons, probably referring either to those buried there or visitors to the tomb.

A stronger link with the past was established when the excavators found, on two of the altars, the remains of the last sacrifices offered up on behalf of the inmates of the mausoleum.

For 23 centuries the few ashes and remains of calcinated bones had lain there, untouched, exactly as they had been left by the relatives and friends of the dead.—Reuter.

Armies Fighting On Madrid Door-Step

GOVERNMENT LAYS CLAIM TO VICTORY

But No Mention Of Franco's Assaults

INSURGENTS ESTABLISH CONTRACT AT MERIDA

Madrid, Aug. 10.

While hard-fighting Moroccan, Moorish and Riff regulars threatened the Spanish capital from the south, Government troops struggled against the northern rebel army which is already at Madrid's door-step, today, in the mountains only 31 miles north of the city.

The War Ministry claims a victory in Navafria Pass, in which 200 rebels are said to have been slain and only four loyalists perished, while eleven were wounded.

Meanwhile, the Government insists that Barcelona's expeditionary force has captured Ibiza Island, in the Balearics.

It is also stated that Popular Front miners, armed with home-made bombs, have cut off Oviedo's light and water supplies, have captured arms factory and reservoirs there, and occupied Naranco Hill.

Various other minor operations by Government troops are said to have been successful and Madrid, in spite of the near approach of war, is quiet. But the Government makes no mention of General Franco's movements in the south.

Moreover, the position in the mountains north of Madrid is obscure since both sides claim the possession of Sommo Sierra.—United Press.

Giral Out of Office?

Lisbon, Aug. 10.

The rebel wireless station at Tetuan says it has received unconfirmed reports that the Leftist leader, Señor Giral, has resigned and that Señor I. Prieto, right wing Socialist, has succeeded him.—United Press.

Nearing Badajoz

Lisbon, Aug. 10.

A further 2,000 Moroccan troops have landed on the mainland of Spain, according to an insurgent wireless message from Seville.

A rebel column comprises 200 buses loaded with troops is rapidly advancing towards Badajoz, and may reach that point to-day.—Reuter.

Contact Established

Tetuan, Aug. 9.

The capture of the Merida Railway Junction, between Badajoz and Madrid, has resulted in the establishment of contact between the insurgent armies in the north-west and south-west of Spain, according to statements issued by anti-Government leaders.

These officers state that their troops are actually ahead of their schedules in the attainment of objectives.—Reuter Special.

Stiff Offensive

Madrid, Aug. 9.

Government authorities state that the reinforced units on the Gudar-rana front are carrying out a vigorous offensive including a fierce bombardment of the insurgent lines, in an attempt to take positions on both sides of the mountain ridge.

It is claimed the insurgent force has been defeated in this sector, leaving 200 dead on the field, in addition to supplies of war materials.—Reuter.

Heavy Bombardment

Bayonne, Aug. 9.

It is learned that Government artillery has bombarded the insurgent headquarters in the northern (Continued on Page 5.)

OWNER KILLED BY REBEL CRUISER WIFE BADLY INJURED

Bayonne, Aug. 9.

The British Consul here has been advised that a British subject, Captain Rupert Saville, has been killed, and his wife seriously wounded while their large yacht, the Blue Shadow, was cruising off the north coast of Spain.

Mrs. Saville, and the body of her husband, were taken aboard H.M.S. Comet, torpedo boat.

The Blue Shadow, it is stated, was hit by a shell fired by the insurgent cruiser, Almirante Cervera, in the vicinity of Gijon.

Mrs. Saville is said to be American-born.—Reuter.

YACHT'S TRAGEDY

Bayonne, Aug. 9.

It now transpires that the yacht, Blue Shadow, ran aground outside Gijon and put into that port for repairs.

Warned that the Almirante Cervera was approaching to bombard the city, which had already suffered severely from the gunfire of the cruiser, many persons having been killed, the master, Captain Saville, put to sea. He was just too late to escape.

The cruiser sighted the yacht, and believing her to be a Government vessel, fired on her.—Reuter.

FAMOUS NEWSPAPERMAN

New York, Aug. 10.

A former President of the United Press, Mr. Robert J. Bender, 48, died at Mount Vernon Hospital to-day after a year's illness. His biggest "scop" occurred in 1918 when he forecast that President Wilson would attend the peace conference at Paris and correctly anticipated his programme there.—United Press.

AVOIDING PEIPING TROUBLE

AFTER QUARREL WITH JAPANESE

Because it was feared in Peiping that Japanese demonstrations might cause a serious situation, two British soldiers are being quietly sent home.

The two men, Privates Herbert Cooke and Robert Hunt, of the 2nd Battalion, Worcestershire Regiment, arrived in Hongkong yesterday afternoon by the B. & S. steamer Yunnan. They will probably leave for England on Wednesday. In the meantime, they are being kept under guard.

The two soldiers were central figures in the recent sensational Military Court of Inquiry at Peiping, which was instituted by the General Officer Commanding, Maj. Gen. A. W. Bartholomew, to enquire into Japanese allegations that they were implicated in the murder, on May 26, of Kikaku Sasaki.

Sasaki was murdered during a cabaret brawl, allegedly between British soldiers and some Japanese. After a protracted hearing, the Court of Inquiry, which was boycotted at one stage by the Japanese, found that there was insufficient evidence to substantiate the allegations. A further charge of assault on another Japanese, preferred against Cooke, was also dismissed.

Subsequently, the Japanese Residents' Association held an indignation meeting, at which fiery anti-British speeches were made.

Both Cooke and Hunt tendered alibis at the Court of Inquiry. Cooke was on duty as a Military Policeman and Hunt was in Barracks. It is understood that, upon their arrival in England, they will be granted their discharges from the Army.

Voce Invited To Join New Test Eleven

MAKES HIS PEACE WITH M.C.C.

William Voce, brilliant Notts and England bowler, who, with Larwood demoralised the Australian batsmen in 1932, has been invited to play in the third Test match against All-India on August 15, and has also been asked to join the English Test team for Australia next winter.

Voce has now made his peace with the M.C.C. and England benefits by the re-appearance of one of her cleverest bowlers.

Other changes in the Test team against the Indians includes the dropping of Gimblett and Gover and the inclusion of Leyland and Sims.

Selections in detail will be found on Page 8.

TOURIST TEAM

Sixteen players have now been invited to join the M.C.C. cricket team to tour Australia next winter. Five new names were added during the week-end, including Voce of Notts, E. R. T. Holmes, Surrey amateur and Kenneth Farnes, Essex fast-bowler.

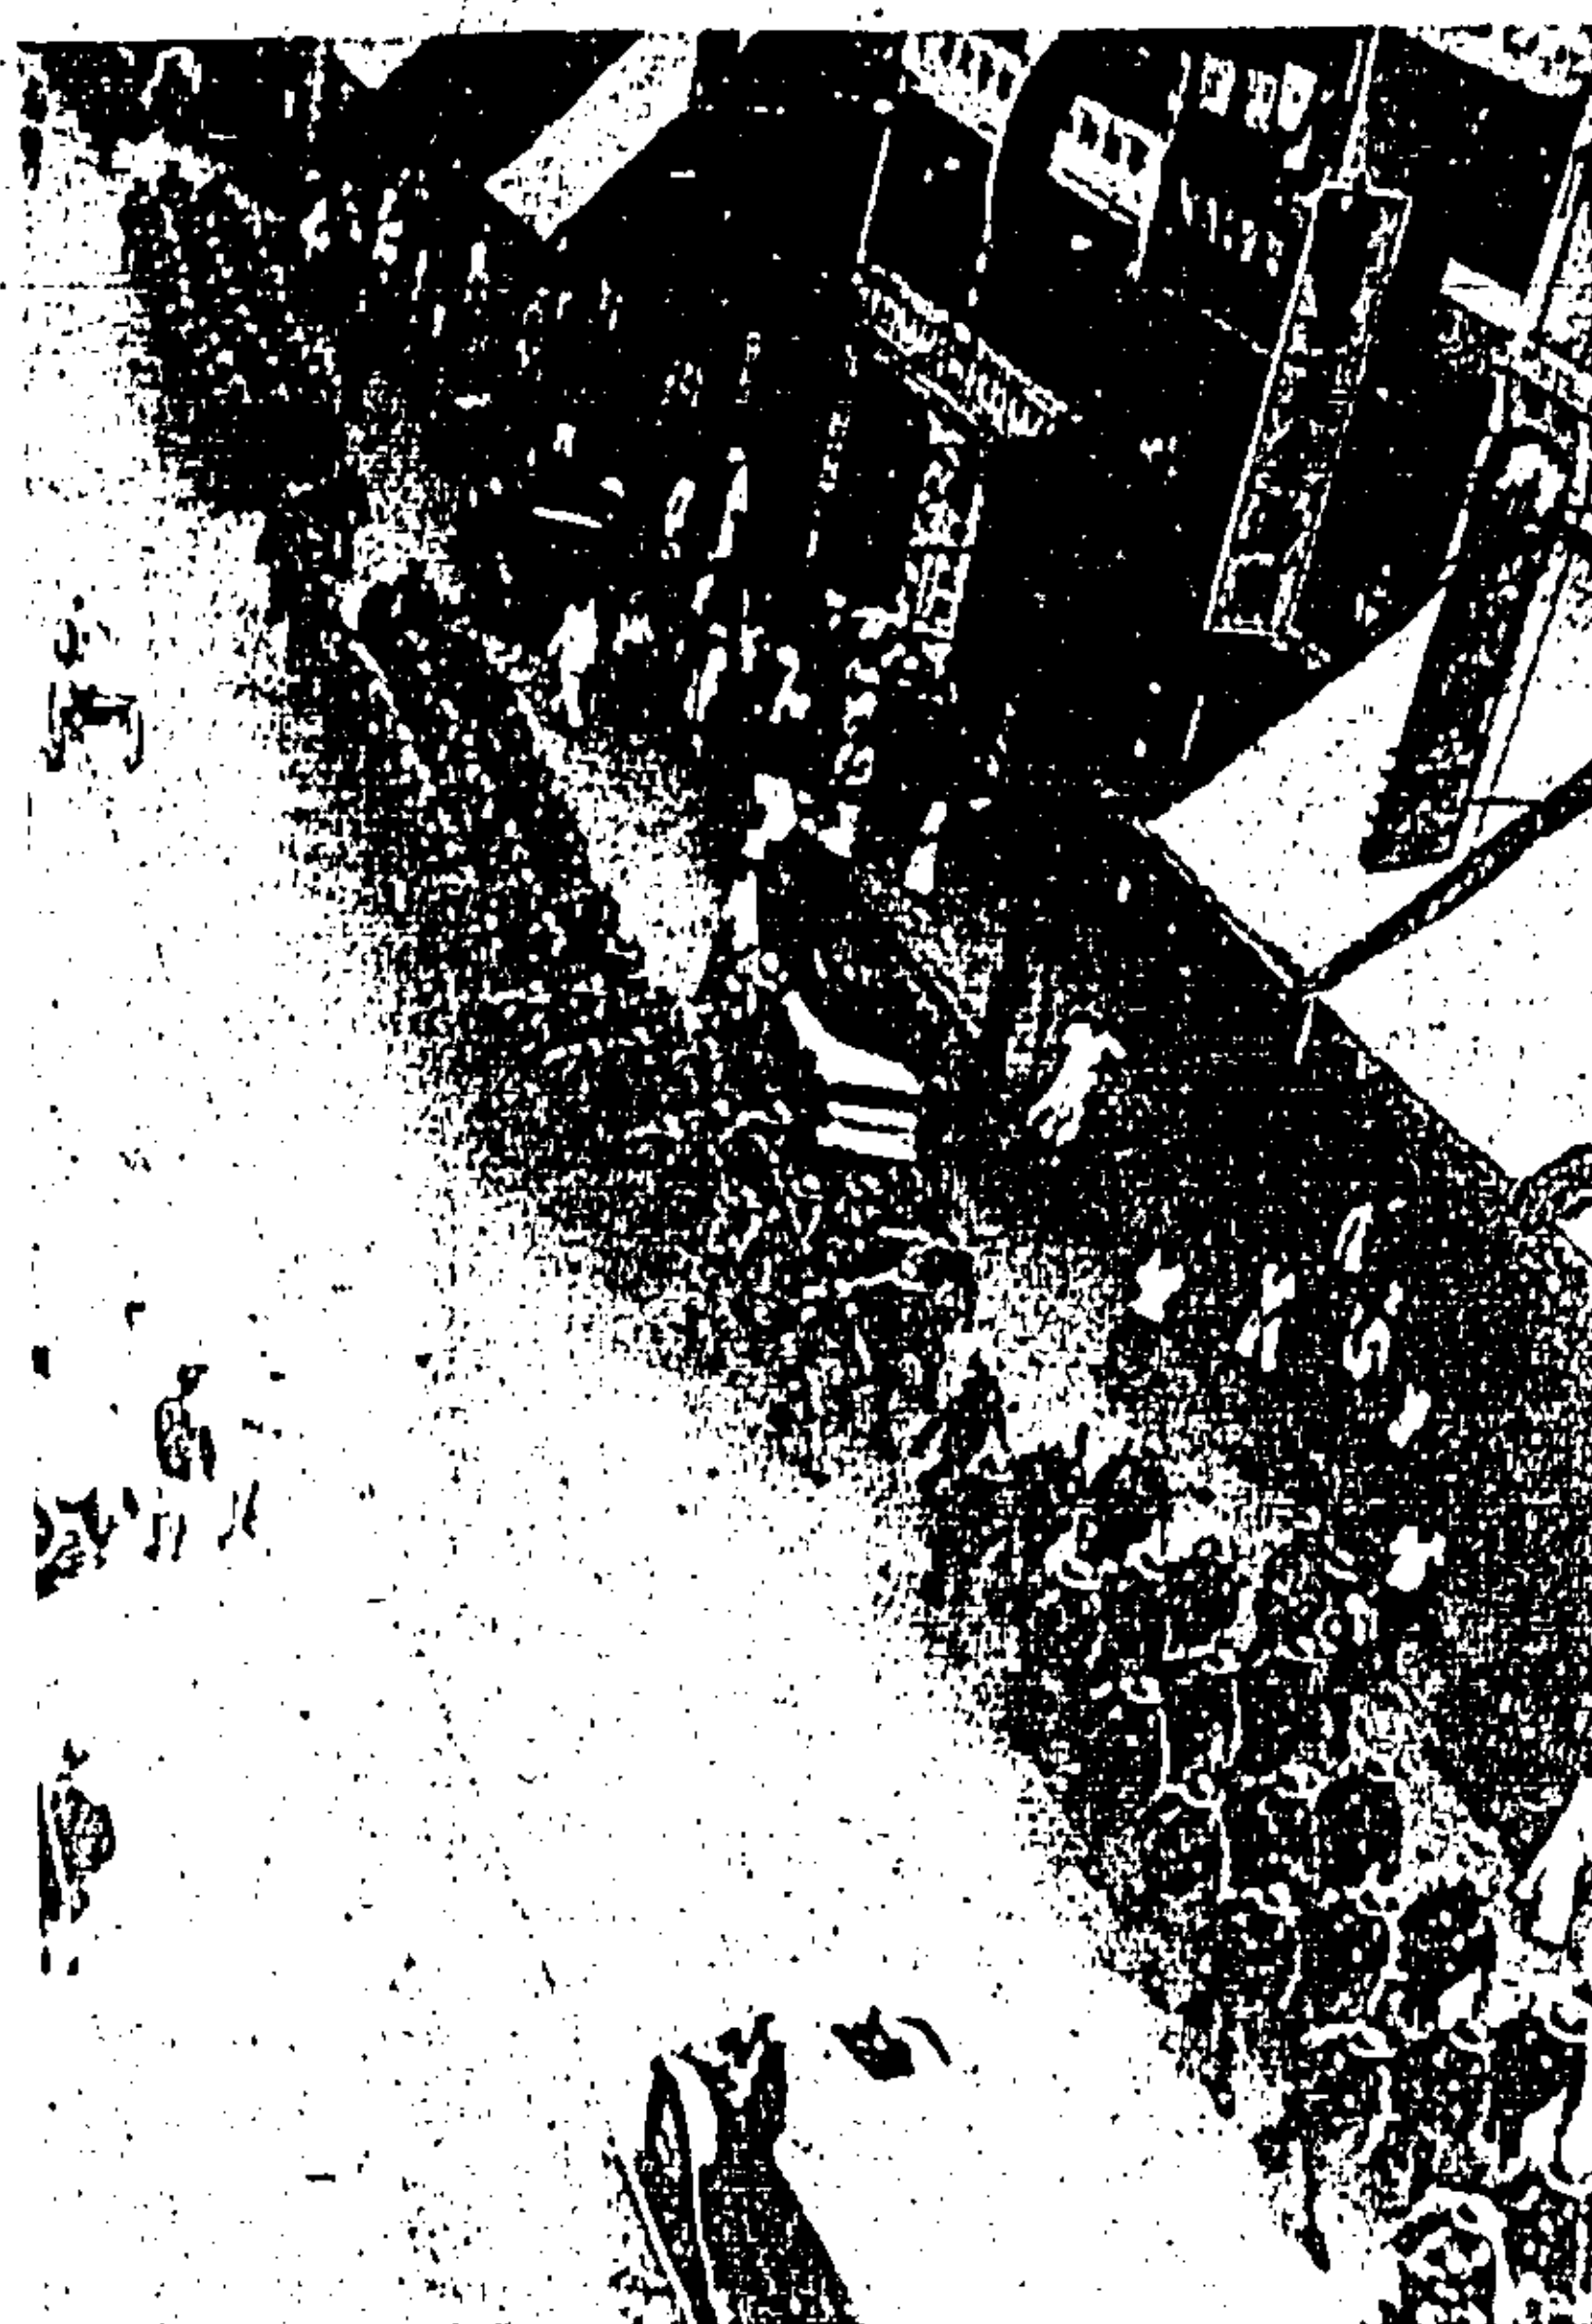

There remains a reserve wicket-keeper to be chosen. Sims the Middlesex change bowler has also been invited and this completes England's attack which has Farnes, Allan, Voce, Copson and Verity as stock bowlers.

TYPHOON WARNING

The Manila Observatory reports at 8.25 a.m. to-day that the typhoon is situated in about Long. 128, Lat. 16, moving N.W.

A whistle and mah jongg drive is to be held at the Polled Recreation Club at 3 p.m. to-morrow, under the auspices of the Police Branch of the Ministering League. Admission will be $1.

FOR CANTON DEFENCE

Crack troops from Nanking, to the number of over two thousand, arrived in Canton on Saturday. They are here seen marching through the streets to their camp base, where they will probably be visited by General Chiang Kai-shek in the next few days. (Photo: Far Eastern Pictorial Correspondents).

Hitler Weeps When Germans Lose in Relay

EXCITING FINISHES AT OLYMPIC GAMES

(SPECIAL TO "TELEGRAPH")

Berlin, Aug. 9.

The United States track and field supremacy at the World Olympics was finally established when Wykoff broke the tape in the 400 metres relay.

Herr Hitler joined in the throng which raised a lusty cheer as the relayers brought the American total of records to twelve as compared with the United States own Olympic record of 13 titles registered at Stockholm 24 years ago.

Great Britain unexpectedly finished five yards ahead of the United States in the 1,600 metres relay. However, the United States girls' 400 metres relay brought a compensating victory when they defeated the favoured German team, one of whose runners dropped the baton when victory was almost within her grasp.

Fraulein Bortfeldt dropped the baton as she received from Fraulein Dollinger who was six yards ahead of the field. Herr Hitler swayed in his box, rubbed his hands across his forehead and left the track weeping. Unofficial standings now show the United States with 203 points, Finland with 80, Germany 69, Japan 51 13/22. This is the best track and field record Japan has ever made.

HUNGARY'S FIRST
Hungary won her first Olympic swimming race for 32 years to-day, while Japan assumed the team lead and left United States far behind.

In the 100 metres free style, Chik of Hungary clocked 57.6 seconds, which was four-tenths of a second better than the accepted Olympic record and one-tenth above Japan's record time established yesterday.

Japan was second in 57.9 seconds, at (Japan) third, Taguchi (Japan) fourth, Fischer (Germany) fifth, and Fick (United States) sixth.

Seven enter the women's 100 metres free style finals as result of to-day's heats. In the first heat, Wilhelmina Masten Brook of Holland won in 1 min. 0 4/10 seconds, thus equalling yesterday's record.

In the second heat Jeannette Campbell of Argentina won in 1 min. 6 6/10 seconds and thus bettered Helen Madison's Olympic record.

In the semi-finals of the women's 200 metres breaststroke, Martha Genenger of Germany won first place in the second heat with a swim of 3 mins. 2 8/10 seconds, being the best time of the day.

FOUR DIE IN AIR CRASH

IMPERIAL AIRWAYS PLANE PLUNGES

London, Aug. 10.

Four persons were killed when an Imperial Airways liner crashed into a house and burst into flames when taking off from Croydon on an experimental night air-freight service to Paris last night.—Reuter.

United States' 400 relayers' gain on every exchange of baton, Wykoff finishing ten yards ahead of Italy.

When the team mounted the honour stand, Jesse Owens made a fine gesture of sportsmanship when he pushed McCallie ahead, who was thus permitted to stand on the winners' level for the first time. Owens received his fourth gold medal.

In the Marathon race, Kiteo Son of Japan won with an Olympic record time which is tantamount to a world's record. Ernest Harper of Britain, who was second also bettered the Olympic record.

At the end of to-day's programme, Germany led in the women's section with 51 1/2 points, United States was second with 22 1/3, and Italy third with 10 points.—United Press.

One Dead In Fight Aboard H.K. Steamer

WATCHMAN FIRES ON ALLEGED SMUGGLERS

As a result of a fight between Indian watchmen and alleged opium smugglers in the early hours of this morning, one Chinese seaman is dead and members of deck crew of the Douglas liner Haitan and an Indian night watchman are held by the police for questioning.

The seaman, named Hui Ling-chung, aged 46, said to have been one of the smugglers. Subsequent to the affray, twenty small packages of opium, totalling 800 taels, were seized aboard the Haitan.

A sampan, which escaped, was said to have been loading the contraband when discovered by a watchman.

Shortly after 3 a.m. this morning, Sajan Singh, one of the Indian watchmen aboard the Haitan, noticed the sampan quietly move alongside and commence unloading its cargo.

He immediately notified the Chief Watchman, Surtah Singh, who in turn notified the Master of the vessel, Capt. Farrar.

JAPANESE PROTEST TO SOVIET

NO SYMPATHY FROM STOMONYAKOV QUARREL OVER SEIZED SHIPS

Moscow, Aug. 10.

The Japanese Charge d'Affaires, Mr. Sakoh, visited the assistant Commissar for Foreign Affairs, M. Stomonyakov to-day, and stated that the Japanese Government considers incorrect the finding of the Soviet court against the masters of five Japanese fishing schooners detained on June 26 and 27 at Kamchatka.

Since their arrest, a Japanese investigation has allegedly established that the schooners were detained outside Russian territorial waters.

Stomonyakov declined to accept the Japanese demarche declaring the schooners were detained in Russian waters and that the captains of each pleaded guilty to the charge against them.

Stomonyakov further asked that the Japanese Government take measures to prevent the entrance of Japanese steamers into Soviet waters in future, without authority.—Reuter.

Sir L. Mallet Passes Away

ASSOCIATED WITH SIR EDWARD GREY

London, Aug. 10.

Sir Louis Mallet, former Private Secretary to Sir Edward Grey and a noted official of the Foreign Office for many years, died to-day.

He was Assistant Under-Secretary of State from 1907 to 1913 and Ambassador to Turkey at the outbreak of war.

Which Man do You Prefer?

PETER'S girl has just been sobbing on my shoulder. She has decided, definitely, to "give Peter the air."

He neglects her. He won't save money. He doesn't take her seriously. In fact, he is just Peter. That is his greatest sin. He has remained the Peter she fell in love with. How quickly a girl forgets this and will get so upset that the man of her heart merely remains himself instead of turning into a combination of Clark Gable, Fred Perry and Mr. Anthony Eden.

Peter takes life lightly. He is fairly good-looking and has a charming smile and easy manner. The women fall for the smile and the men like his manner.

They like him because he is always ready for a round of golf, a rubber of bridge, or to drop into the nearest pub for a couple of drinks.

But suddenly the storm breaks. If a stray word savours of insincerity or a hint of unintentional vulgarity, you have committed a crime. David takes such things to heart and they hurt him out of all proportion.

If he loves you your every thought and mood are immensely important to him. He expects and demands as much as he gives. He sets a standard almost too high to live up to with any comfort. But it is too high a price to pay for his staunch loyalty and the firm knowledge that thick or thin you can count on him?

Not that there will be no quailings of jealousy with David. He is no flirt and is not attracted to any passing young lovely. But if some girl happens to fire his imagination he makes no secret of his infatuation, and would scorn as petty and unworthy the idea of your jealousy. And that you should wish him to be as insincere as not to mention her to you—well, of course.

It doesn't worry Peter very much that Mary is waiting for him. And he is surprised and slightly annoyed that she is all worked-up and tearful because they will miss the beginning of the show. "He has probably been out with another girl," she thinks; quite unjustly, but this she will never know, for Peter never mentions other women, and if one were inclined to be jealous, this in itself might seem suspicious.

But she soon forgets her doubts and troubles because Peter is such a grand companion. He is so amusing and gay and everything seems to go so smoothly when he is there. He is full of the latest tit-bits of gossip and listens with real interest to every detail as Mary recounts her news of her work and play and friends.

He is more than ordinarily intelligent, though in no way brilliant, but he has read that new book, is a sound critic of the latest film or play, and keeps up a running commentary of sparkling wit.

WELL, and why should Mary cry? What more does she want. She says she knows that Peter is exactly the same to every woman. He likes as he is to her. He is always cheerful, easy-going, and amusing. He never notices whether she is depressed or looks tired. In fact, her moods don't seem to affect him at all. If she says she doesn't feel like going out he says he is awfully sorry and does hope she's not getting ill, so if she doesn't mind, then, he'll go round for some bridge.

Then about money. No saving for the rainy day as far as Peter is concerned. Rainy days don't exist for him. He's always got along all right and his confidence in himself and his capabilities and life in general all make life easy. He does himself well but is not extravagant. But he is generous and when he takes Mary out he does not stint. That is, when he has the money. If he hasn't they go to a news-reel and have coffee at some small shop afterwards, and it's all just as good fun.

Evenings spent with Peter are never dull, yet they are not too hecticly exciting. He is the most easy-going and satisfying companion—while he is with her. And if companionship counts for anything, surely, then Mary and Peter should be happy.

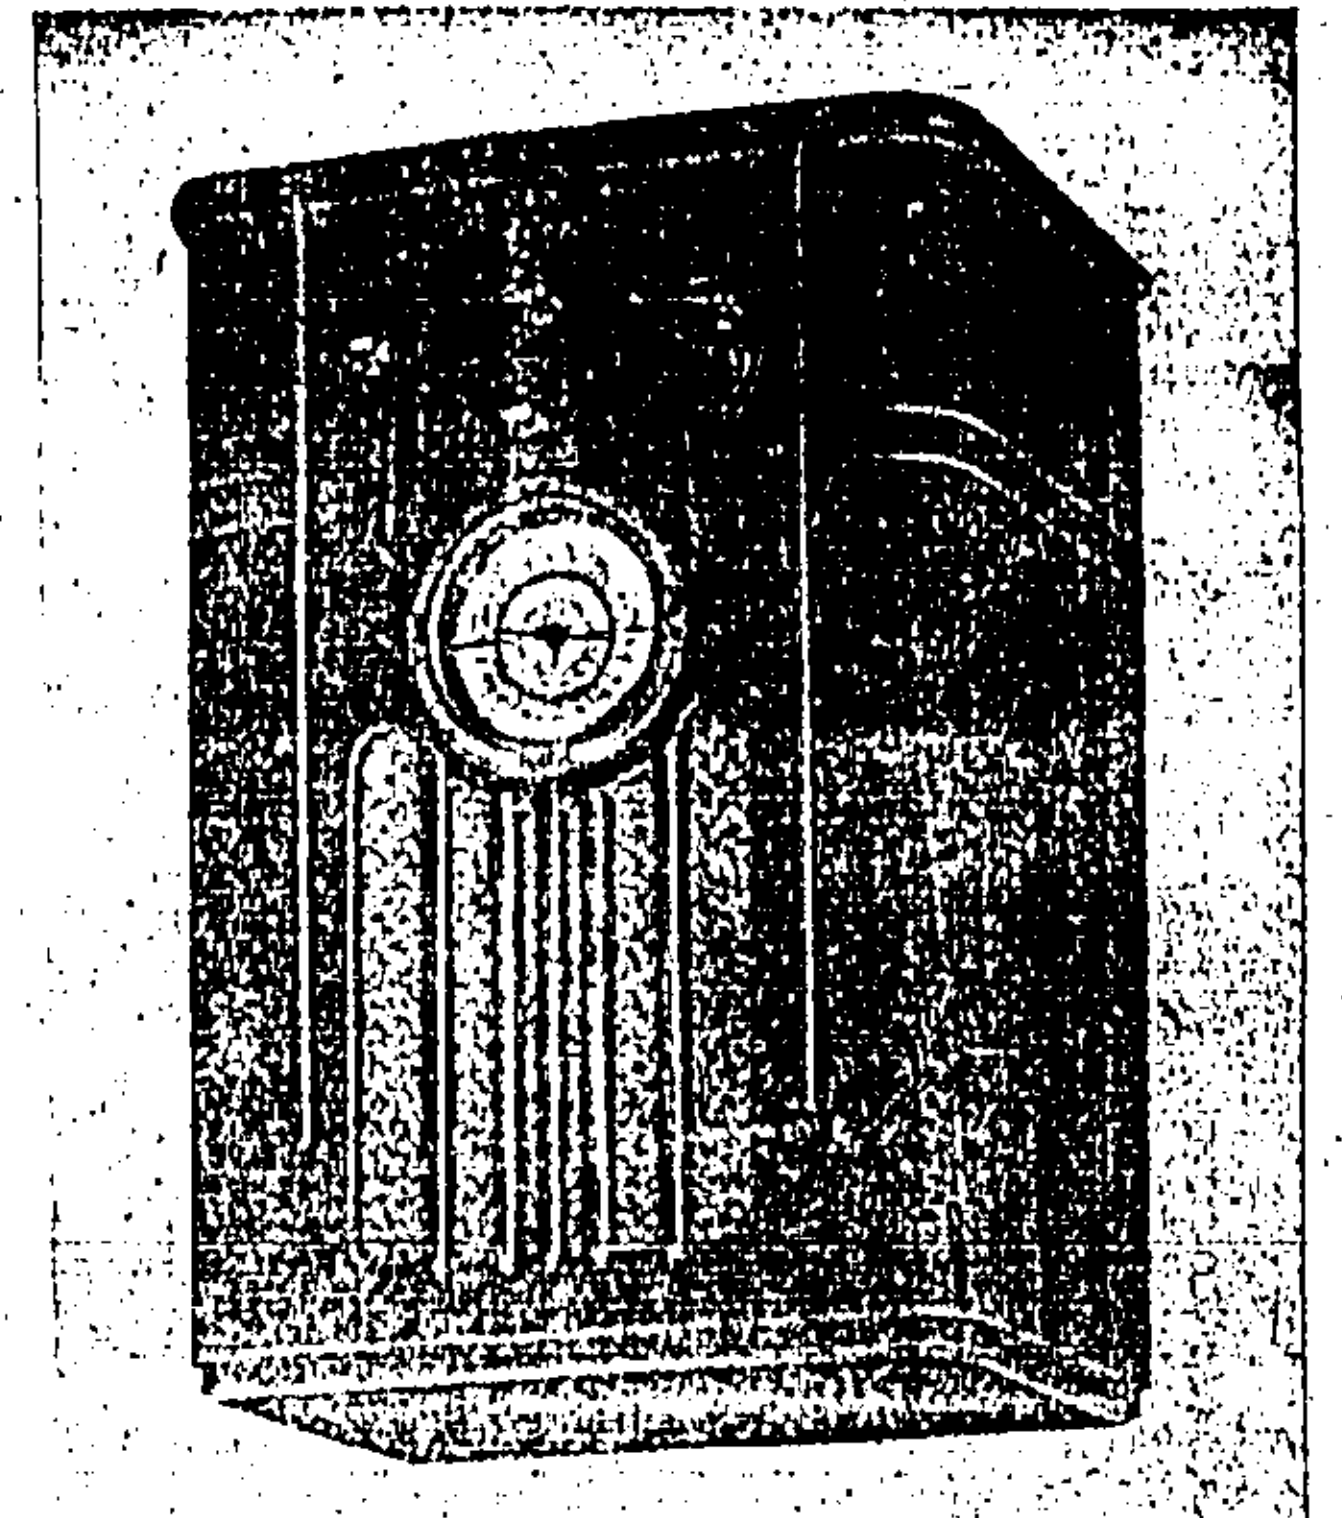

Going out with David is stimulating. He discusses everything from so unexpected an angle, and his friends are as dynamic as he is. The evening is an exciting event which lifts you way above the mediocrity of everyday life and the dull routine of to-morrow. How thrilling, you think, to share David's brilliant life.

People either like or dislike him. He is not universally popular, like Peter, but his strong personality and decided opinions bring him recognition from Great Men of his profession. One feels that he will certainly have a great future—but if by chance things go wrong with him, it will be a ghastly tragedy; there are no half-measures about David.

FAMILY DOCTOR DISCUSSES

THE most frequent query I get from readers concerns the treatment of gastric catarrh, pyloric ulcers and indigestion.

We should be taught simple physiology at school so that all of us could understand exactly how the stomach and the bowels leading from the stomach work by digesting and absorbing the food and drink poured into them.

FOR gastritis and indigestion the size of the meals should be watched. Large quantities of fluid weaken the digestive juices and prevent the solid food from being broken up and passed on to the bowel in the proper time.

An ordinary dinner of meat, vegetables and sweet takes at least three four hours to digest, so that a reasonable space should be allowed between meals.

If the digestion is weak, small, light, dry meals at about four-hourly intervals are preferable to one or two hearty meals per day. At the same time, it must be pointed out that the stomach is a hollow organ with strong muscular walls, and these muscles must be given some good hard work or they waste away.

In Germany many cases of dyspepsia are put on lamb chops as a daily diet, and the stomach, when it has recovered from its first sur-responds gamely by digesting the meat thoroughly and well.

NO one is more the prey of the faddist and the quack than the melancholy dyspeptic. Instead of putting his faith in quack remedies, he should try to alter his plan of life in almost every respect.

A change of house and district will work wonders in a stultified, fainting housewife. A man cannot change his office quite so easily, but he can plan his leisure much better than can a woman.

Water Recedes In Caspian Sea

Moscow, Aug. 1.

Soviet construction of dams, vast increase of cultivated areas and intensive use of the water of Kuma, Terek, Volga and other rivers for irrigation threatens the destruction of the Caspian Sea, according to Prof. B. Apollon, prominent geologist.

Citing figures to show that the sea lost 7,435 square miles of area since 1925, Apollon urged that measures be taken to discharge into the Caspian a portion of the waters of northern rivers and the Don, to protect valuable fisheries and Caspian navigation for future centuries.

During the course of the last 100 years the level of the Caspian rose and fell alternately, but in 1925 fell sharply 24 inches below the average level, according to the geologist. In March of this year the sea was 1.9 inches lower than in 1925, a total decrease in area of 7,435 square miles, or equal to the surface of the Kara-Bugaz gulf.

As a result in the gulf of Baku the towers of the ancient fortress of Sadkhir, built in the 12th Century, which was submerged by a geological disturbance, now protrude from the water. In fine weather the ancient road leading to the fortress can be seen on the bottom of the gulf.

ISLAND BEING LINKED

The island of Cheleken gradually is being connected with the Turk-squandrons, with a strength of approximately 270 first-line aircraft) will be increased by 12 squadrons by 1939.

Long-term orders are to be given for large numbers of air frames and engines, and other equipment to bring the strength of the first-line aircraft at home to approximately 1,750, exclusive of the Fleet Air Arm.

Much heavier provision for the bulk of the cost of this programme, it is stated, will fall to be made in 1937 and 1938.

In a statement attached to the Army's Supplementary Estimate, remedying deficiencies relating to defence is estimated to cost £2,614,000, while the special measures in connection with the Ruhr-Abyssinian dispute involve an estimated expenditure of £1,252,000. There are savings which reduce the total to £6,600,000.

SCIENCE'S SEARCH FOR TEMPERATURE'S "BOTTOMLESS PIT"

merian coast and is becoming a peninsula.

Investigation of the condition of the Caspian basin, precipitation and evaporation and essential changes in climatic conditions, according to Apollon, who therefore concluded that construction of dams, growth of cotton plantations in Transcaucasia, utilisation of water for irrigation on a large scale and development of intensive early sowing keeping the most cultivated lands to the last minute possible, was responsible.

Secret Plan To Pool Colonies?

Paris, Aug. 1.

IT is stated here that the Colonial Office in London has drafted a secret plan for pooling parts of the various Colonies in Africa, making them available to Powers who want "a place in the sun."

While the Colonial Office has drafted this plan, it is understood Germany has sent to London a secret note clearly asking for a redistribution of Colonies, which the Foreign Office has not answered.

It is added that recent events in Spanish Morocco are making English diplomats more anxious to find a peaceful solution of African and Mediterranean problems as they fear Italy and Germany may agree to take advantage of the situation.

BRITAIN SUPPORTING PORTUGAL?

It is reported from London that Great Britain is giving full support to Portugal to keep her colonies, forbidding any Power to raise a claim on them.

The Desert Of Absolute Zero BELOW THE COLD OF OUTER SPACE

During the Low Temperature Exhibition at the Science Museum, Professor F. A. Lindemann exhibited liquid helium gas frozen to 269 deg. C. below the cold of ice, or only 4 degrees above the Absolute Zero of temperature, beyond which is nothing further.

At a following lecture Professor F. Simon, with apparatus brought by his fellow workers, Mr. E. L. Rickard and Mr. A. H. Cooke, from the Clarendon Laboratory at Oxford, got down to within one degree of that extremity of cold.

In a South Kensington lecture-room was thus produced a temperature lower than any existing in outer space. Above the frozen gas was a vacuum more complete than any in which an atom floats between the stars.

The artificial production of such unnatural cold and emptiness is an astonishing fact. The resources of science have been ransacked for many years to attain it; and it seems strange at first sight that while it is so easy to reach high temperatures it should be so hard to sink to low ones. By clicking on an electric torch we can set up a temperature of 1500 deg. C. But to get down to Absolute Zero, mathematically established as 273.16 deg. C. below the melting point of ice, is beyond us.

What is that temperature, and how defined? It is that at which the atoms of a gas, deprived of the heat energy which is one with their motions, cease to kick against the sides of the vessel containing them. They fall lifeless and inert. They are at rest, their wild disorder stilled to order. Herein lies explanation of the contrast between the production of heat and cold. It is easy to create any degree of disorder. It is hard to bring order out of disorder.

A simple example may show what is meant. Suppose we have black and white chessmen arranged in order on the board. Shake the board violently so that the pieces tumble here and there in confusion. It is the easiest thing in the world to throw them into disorder. But no amount of shaking will throw them back into their places. Only hand-picking will do it. If the chessmen were atoms in a gas the feat would prove utterly impossible.

Fortunately for the success of producing low temperatures the comparison between the chessmen on their squares and the atoms in a gas is faulty. The orderliness among the chessmen depends only on their positions on the board. They do not jump up or down or fly about. Unlike the chessmen of "Through the Looking Glass," they have no personalities of their own, being moved neither by heat nor other quality. In dealing with them only one variable is to be considered.

But in a free gas, which is the highest type of disorder, there are many variables. There is, for example, the volume. If we were looking for a particular atom in a certain region of a gas, we should measure the amount of order there by the ease with which we found it. It

Paris, Aug. 1.

M. PIERRE COT, the Minister for Air in the new French Socialist Government, today announced further details of his sweeping plan for making all French children air-minded.

As already announced, all children from 9 to 14 are to be given preliminary air instruction at schools; boys from 14 to 17 are to have training in gliding; and youths from 18 to 21 are to be trained in aircraft engineering.

Now it is explained that the instruction for the first category will include visits to aircraft factories and aerodromes, the carrying out of exercises with models, and special lessons in air currents and aerodynamics.

At 14 the pupils will be entitled to join clubs for popularising aviation to be formed all over the country. The subscription will be as small as possible, and sufficient only to maintain the ordinary social life of the club.

The Government will supply gliders, gliders fitted with small engines, and light aeroplanes to all these clubs.

Until 17-the boys will undergo a "perfecting course" in which they will study air navigation, the sending of radio messages, and the construction of gliders in factories.

SECRET "GIVEN AWAY"

M. Henri de Kerillis, a Nationalist deputy, announced that he intends to ask M. Cot why he has given orders for the handing over to Soviet Russia of full plans concerning "the Alcan" type of machine-gun turret, and especially an aircraft gun so designed that it is capable of firing through the hub of the aeroplane propeller.

His motion adds: "These weapons are of the greatest importance and are unequalled in the world. It is in the interests of the nation that they should be kept secret."

Writing in a recent issue of the Echo de Paris, M. de Kerillis says: "My question refers to a letter of M. Cot in which he gives orders to the headquarters of the French Air Force with regard to this marvel of French invention."

"I realise that M. Cot will reply to me that we are virtually, against Germany, the military allies of the Russian Government and that we are therefore anxious to allow them to profit by our discoveries."

"I only say that we should not hand over the most important secrets of our national defence to Russia. Are we certain that a diplomatic revolution will not entirely reverse the situation as it stands at present?"

Armour And Guns In Advance

BY A NAVAL CORRESPONDENT

Although the supplementary Naval Estimates may seem small, more than half of the £1,059,000 is to be spent on armour for new ships, and a further £250,000 is earmarked for extensions of plant and works to the manufacture of armour and guns.

Only £150,000 is actually devoted to the laying down of 16 additional warships.

Two cruisers of about 5,000 tons (making seven cruisers in all this year).

One aircraft carrier (making two in all).

One flotilla leader and eight destroyers, of about 1,400 tons (making 18 of these vessels in all).

Four submarines (three of the patrol type, one of a smaller design), making eight submarines in all.

These ships, which are to be laid down in the spring, will ultimately involve a total expenditure of over £11,000,000.

The balance of the £1,059,000 comprised in the Estimate represents the cost of accelerating the construction of certain ships already in hand, including the cruisers Liverpool and Manchester, building on the Clyde and Tyne respectively.

Ordering armour plate in advance may also enable an earlier date to be fixed for the completion of the two new battleships to be laid down in January. Under the terms of the Washington Treaty they cannot be begun before 1937.

It is the definite intention of the Admiralty to arm these two battleships with 14in. guns, irrespective of the armament of the new American and Japanese capital ships. It is hoped that the Naval Conference of 1935-36 would agree to the cessation of submarine construction having been falsified, it has been found necessary to add to the strength of British submarine flotillas, at present inferior to those of several other Powers.

FLIT
the insecticide that always kills!

When mosquitoes make life unbearable—

Don't rely on weak insecticides that fail to kill

If you are ever tempted to try a weak substitute for FLIT, ask yourself this question: are your comfort and health worth sacrificing for the sake of an insecticide that may not kill? Why take a chance when it probably means that mosquitoes will torture you from sun-down to dawn? For safety's sake, be sure you get FLIT. FLIT really kills insects—and they stay dead! FLIT spray does not stain. Always insist on getting the yellow tin with the soldier and black band. To guarantee you against fraudulent refilling, the FLIT tin is sealed for your protection.

Sprinkle FLIT POWDER
FLIT powder kills ants, cockroaches, bugs, lice, and other crawling insects—kills fleas on dogs—protects your clothing from moths.

CINEMA NOTES

Paul Muni, one of the greatest actors of the stage or screen comes to the Oriental Theatre on Tuesday and Wednesday in the Warner Brothers' production, "Bordertown", which is said to be the most powerful drama in which he has ever appeared. The picture is stark, realistic pictorialisation of the colourful life in night clubs and gambling resorts frequented by millionaires and bored society women seeking diversion. In this atmosphere that Paul Muni, in the role of a foreign youth rises to riches and power as the proprietor of a fashionable night club and gambling hall. He is loved by two women, one a fiery adventurer who plays her husband to try to win him. The other woman in the triangular romance is a society woman, a flirtation which the mad youth takes seriously, and which ends in tragedy. Margaret Lindsay has the role of this woman. The entire cast is a talented one and includes such players as Eugene Pallette, Robert Barrat, Henry
O'Neill, Gavin Gordon, Hobart
Cavanaugh, William Davidson, Arthur Stone, Vivian Tobin and Soledad Jimenez.

"Anything Goes"
Yesterday saw the opening of "Anything Goes," at the Star Theatre. This is the Paramount presentation of the musical comedy which was such a pronounced success on Broadway. It abounds in tuneful songs, comic scenes, and a set of parodies on the "You're the Top" hit which are riotously funny.
Bing Crosby heads the cast of favourites in a role that affords him an unrivalled opportunity to display his versatile talents in song and comedy. He sings and clowns to one's heart's content. Assisting in the general merriment are Ethel Merman, known everywhere as the Broadway rhythm girl, Charlie Ruggles, Grace Bradley, and Ida Lupino.
The original songs of the musical comedy are incorporated in the picture. By now, "You're the Top,"
"Anything Goes," and "I Get a Kick Out of You" have been sung, hummed, whistled, and generally enjoyed by millions. In addition to these tuneful successes, the picture is graced with zealous songs and lyrics by Cole Porter and a number of other song-writers. The result is a festive jolly screen offering, which was heartily enjoyed by young and old. The dance numbers in the production are by Leifry Prinz whose choreographic novelties on the screen have won wide acclaim; they lend colour and spectacle to the fast-moving story. The fine direction is by Lewis Milestone.

"Trouble For Two"
Robert Louis Stevenson's fictional adventure on the screen proves as fascinating as it is in type. Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer has based "Trouble
For Two" on the exciting Stevenson story, "The Suicide Club." With Robert Montgomery and Rosalind Russell in the starring roles, the picture is at the King's Theatre. The audience reaction was definitely favourable and its enthusiasm was a tribute to the players. In the supporting cast are Frank Morgan, recently accorded distinction for his work in M-G-M's "The Great Ziegfeld," Reginald Owen, another famous player in the same picture;
Louis Hayward, E. E. Clive, Robert
Greig and others. The direction by J. Walter Ruben is faithful to the Stevenson narrative technique, yet at the same time attuned to the swif-ter tempo of the drama. Ruben is directed by "Public Hero," "Riffraff" and many other screen triumphs. Robert Montgomery again proves his right to stardom as the reckless young prince who is destined to wed a princess for whom he feels neither love nor attraction.
Rosalind Russell, in the role of the charming royal lady, plays one of the most able roles of her brilliant young career. The supporting cast provides the Stevensonian atmosphere in characterisation and action. At no time does the story savour of morbidly, on the contrary it is always an account of gay adventure and laughing romance, with the shadow of royal intrigue and danger in the background.

Radio Contest Closing

ENTRIES MUST BE IN TO-MORROW

Intending competitors in the competition for ascertaining the ideal radio programme are reminded that entries will definitely close at 4 p.m. to-morrow (Tuesday).

A prize of a handsome Philco Console set is being offered, and, in addition, competitors are asked, if they desire, to forward suggestions for the improvement of ZHW programmes.

Entries are still coming in daily, and there are indications of a close vote. We again appeal to those interested to forward constructive suggestions on ZHW programmes, as these will, it is understood, receive official consideration.

Don't forget that entries close at 4 p.m. to-morrow. See Page Seven for coupon and full details of the Competition.

FOUND ARTICLES IN STREET POLICE SEARCHING FOR OWNER

The police are looking for the owner of a white handbag and two mosquito nets, one white in colour and the other blue, found in the possession of an unemployed man, Ip Hoi, aged 32, who was charged before Mr. W. Schaffeld, at the Central Magistracy this morning, with unlawful possession of the articles in Wanchai.

Inspector S. Leong said defendant was arrested in Queen's Road on Saturday, and said he had picked up the articles in Johnston Road. The complainant, however, could not be traced. Defendant later stated that he saw three women standing on the footpath in Johnston Road, and a parcel containing the articles, was near them. He picked it up.

Mr. Schaffeld imposed a fine of $50. In default, six weeks' hard labour on defendant, and requested that the articles be kept by the police until they were claimed.

SERIOUS CHARGES TICKET THEFT AND EMBEZZLEMENT

Tang Yuk-chor, an employee of the Nam Kwong Company, residing at No. 14 Cornhill Road, West, appeared before Mr. S. F. Balfour at the Central Magistracy this morning, charged with having taken from the Nam Kwong Co. $2,344 worth of passage tickets, and, secondly, with having made false entries in the passage ledger indicating that the tickets taken had been sold to a non-existing firm, called Tau Law.

Mr. C. d'Almada appeared for the defendant, while Mr. P. Sin, acted for Charged with an assault on Lin Yuen, tailor, living at 47 Peking Road, on August 1, Chan Wing, 32, cook, of 72 Peking Road, appeared before Mr. E. Hunsworth at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning, and was granted a formal remand of 48 hours when it was found that complainant was not in Court.

A formal remand of 24 hours in police custody was given to P. Hing, on the application of Revenue Officer P. O'Neill, on a charge of possession of eight tacks of prepared opium, other than that prepared by the Government, when he was coming from Canton on the Canton-Kowloon Railway. Bail in a sum of $55 was allowed.

As a result of the non-appearance of the solicitor for the plaintiff, the Chief Justice, Sir Atholl MacGregor, at the Summary Court this morning, gave judgment, with costs, for Wong Siu-sin who was sued by Chan Hien-chun for $200 for alleged detention of an Austin seven, No. 731. The defendant was represented by Mr. M. C. McCullum, and Mr. M. A. du Silva was to appear for the plaintiff who was also absent.

CORRESPONDENCE Broadcast Suggestion

To The Editor
Hongkong Telegraph

Sir,—About a fortnight ago during a controversy on the Hongkong Broadcasting programme, a suggestion was made that the Misses Doris and Ellen Woods be asked to entertain occasionally. Many of us in Hongkong have often heard these talented ladies in the last few years, and have enjoyed their songs immensely.

If the Selection Committee of the Hongkong Broadcasting Association, if there is such a body, would approach the Misses Woods to give us sometimes an entertainment, I am sure a large section of the community in Hongkong would be very appreciative. Especially so if they would give us a revival of the old songs which were made famous during the War. Many of these are coming back in London; the B.H.C. give a selection every week, and the fashionable restaurants and hotels in London are bringing them back too, which is a sure sign that the public wants them.

It is generally admitted that the Z.H.W. programmes need improving, and that the selection of local talent is as well to be extended and improved. May I suggest that here is an opportunity of accomplishing both aims?

Fierce Fighting

Barcelona, Aug. 9. It is stated that Government forces advancing on Saragossa have reached a point about twenty-five miles from the city after fierce fighting. —Reuter.

Shelling Cadiz

Gibraltar, Aug. 9. It is reported that Government warships, the Jaime I, Libertad and Cervantes, are heavily bombarding Cadiz, the fall of which is expected soon, according to Spanish Government sources. —Reuter.

Many Prisoners

Madrid, Aug. 9. Newspapers state that 400 insurgent leaders and 700 officers, as well as a large number of other ranks, are at present imprisoned in Madrid. —Reuter Special.

The complainant, Mr. Thomas Le, liquidator of the Nam Kwong Co., Mr. Sin, who read the charges to Mr. Balfour, said that he had an extra charge to prefer against the defendant, as Mr. Le, after a further examination of the Company's ledger, discovered that another $1,200 had been embezzled from the Company by the defendant.

Both the solicitors asked for a week's formal remand, and the case was fixed to be heard at 2.30 p.m. on Monday, August 17, bail being fixed at $5,000.

Charged with having in her possession, 1,320 poppy tickets, Li Sze, 52, who was arrested in Hollywood Road, near Peel Street, was given a fine of $25, or, in default, one month's imprisonment, by Mr. S. F. Balfour at the Central Magistracy this morning.

Wong Sang-to, aged 47, a quarry merchant, was charged before Mr. Macfadyen at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning, with having carnal knowledge of a girl under 16 years of age, named Tam Lin, between May 24 and July 12 last at the Ah Chai Boarding House, No. 9 Pak-hoi Street. He was represented by Mr. M. W. Lo, who pleaded not guilty.

A woman, Chu Wai-yang, was charged with procuring the girl for carnal purposes, and aiding and abetting Wong Sang-to in having carnal knowledge. She stated that she was the mother of the girl. Hearing was fixed for Thursday, August 13, at 2.30 p.m. and bail in the sum of $1,000 was allowed both defendants. Inspector E. J. Ellis, attached to the Secretariat for Chinese Affairs, prosecuted.

THE TRIAL OF THE GERMAN "MONKS"

With reference to the reports published some weeks ago of a sensational trial at Coblenz in Germany, in which a large number of "Franciscan monks" were stated to have been charged with most horrible crimes, the London Univers of July 3, states that the persons concerned in this were not monks but laymen, a few being members of what is known as a "Tertiary Order" of laymen.

It appears, according to The Universe, that one of the members of this lay order, who had been dismissed for bad conduct, took his revenge by accusations of widespread immoral conduct. There were in fact a few isolated cases of misconduct on the part of certain of the Catholic laymen; one confessed and was sentenced, and sentence was later passed on others.

On this foundation, states The Universe, a huge, and indeed incredible, mass of accusation has been made against Catholic monks.

Two Stone Age Men Arrive In Singapore

TWO Stone Age men have arrived in Singapore.

They are covered in 15 coats of shellac, and packed in casks padded with the original red-brown "cave earth" in which they were buried some 5,000 years ago.

The skeletons will go into airtight glass cases, and be exhibited in the new Pre-History section of the Raffles Museum.

MOST IMPORTANT FIND

These remains are the most important prehistoric find yet made in the Peninsula. They are two of several skeletons uncovered in the Shin Seng rock shelter at Sungai Siput, by Mr. H. D. Noone, the Field Ethnographer of the Perak Museum, Taiping.

The unearthing of further skeletons confirms the belief that even more ancient finds may yet be made.

A third coffin, containing Negrito bones, is also on its way to Singapore.

LIVED IN 3,000 B.C.

The transport of the remains presented a difficult problem. Mr. Noone dug out the block of earth in which skeleton lay, and placed each skeleton and mould in specially constructed boxes.

Each section of bone uncovered was at once painted with alcohol, and given as many as 15 coats of shellac to preserve it.

The skeletons found in the top layer of the earth, Mr. Noone estimates, were men who lived about the date of the birth of Christ. Those found deeper down date back to 3,000 B.C.

British "Tommies" Unearth Important Finds

WHILE LEVELLING "SOCCER" PITCH

Alexandria, Aug. 1. Important archaeological discoveries have been brought to light by British soldiers engaged in making a football pitch near their barracks in an Alexandria suburb.

While the "Tommies" were levelling a waste patch of ground a corporal suddenly stumbled on a beautifully coloured fresco of men on prancing horses, with women standing beside them.

The "find" was immediately reported to the Antiquities Department, and in the meantime, a British officer covered the fresco with sackcloth to guard it from the fierce rays of the sun.

Systematic excavations were started at once, with the result that a Hellenic necropolis, containing examples of the purest Doric Style of architecture, was unearthed.

A number of mausoleums, dating from about the 3rd century, which comprise the necropolis, are noteworthy in that they are completely Greek in style, contrary to most other Alexandrian remains.

Four mausoleums have now been completely excavated and the fifth, which has been partially opened, contains a flight of steps leading to the entrance, a large open courtyard, a small cell enclosing the sarcophagus, several subsidiary chambers and altars, wells, and fountains.

In each case the sarcophagus is carved from the rock, and is a representation of the actual death bed, on which it was the custom to exhibit the body before burial.

Only one inscription has been found by the excavators.

Engraved on a doorway, it consists of a list of persons, probably referring either to those buried there or visitors to the tomb.

A stronger link with the past was established when the excavators found, on two of the altars, the remains of the last sacrifices offered up on behalf of the inmates of the mausoleum.

For 23 centuries the few ashes and remains of calcinated bones had lain there, untouched, exactly as they had been left by the relatives and friends of the dead. —Reuter.

SCUTTLED FLEET

Rosyth, Aug. 1. THE German battleships surrendered after the war at Scapa Flow are going back to Germany as part of their modern Navy.

This strange fact was explained to-day by Mr. M. Wilkinson, who is in control of the great shipbreaking yard of Metal Industries, Ltd. The explanation is this:

In a re-arming world trade in old battleships is brisk. The sunken German vessels are still being raised and towed to Rosyth.

Their steel plates and guns are cut into suitable lengths of scrap metal. Germany is the biggest buyer of this, and her demands have lately become intense.

The scrap metal is taken to the German steel works and there re-melted into ships' plates for warships.

MAY NEVER BE RAISED

Ever since 1924 the work of raising and breaking up the warships sunk at Scapa Flow has been going on and will continue for some time yet. The König Albert is now being broken up here.

The Kaiserin has been raised and is ready to be towed to Rosyth. The Friedrich Grosser will be the next to come to the surface, and others to follow include the Grosser Kurfurst and the Derfflinger.

Three or four other German Dreadnoughts are still lying on the bottom at awkward angles, and it may be impossible to raise them.

Incidentally, many of the steel plates of the Curlew-White Star liner Queen Mary were forged from the remelted steel of the German battleships, and some steel on board her also came from the Mauretania.

THE MAURETANIA

The last of the Mauretania is in the yard here to-day. She has been beached, and only a few feet of hull remain above the keel.

In less than a month the oxy-acetylene flames will have cut out the last pieces, and thus the end of the great ship will come almost exactly one year from the time she was towed here from Southampton.

Mr. Wilkinson said that there have been thousands of letters from all over the world—the United States particularly—asking for the relics of the Mauretania. The most popular mementoes are office rulers made out of the turbine blades.

"Tribal Laws Void" Claims Tshakedi

Lobatsi (Be-huanaland), July 28.

An action challenging the legality of two proclamations issued by the Bechuanaland High Commissioner for the governing of the Basutoland tribe, of whom Tshakedi Khama is acting chief, opened in Lobatsi to-day before Supreme Court Justice Watermeyer.

Tshakedi says that one proclamation is void because it takes away powers of jurisdiction granted to native chiefs in 1885. —Reuter.

Tshakedi was suspended in 1933 for sentencing a European to be flogged; was later reinstated.

Gracie Allen As President!

Hollywood, July 20. The national political situation has threatened to become somewhat complicated with the addition of Gracie Allen, squeak-voiced radio star, as a candidate for president.

Miss Allen tossed her bet in to the ring "to straighten out this terrible political situation" and presumably to acquire some publicity for herself and her stooge husband, George Burns.

Miss Allen made her announcement over the telephone and invited anyone who wanted to hear the rest of it come up and have a highball. Your correspondent could hardly wait.

Miss Allen passed out a 10-point platform, which advocates, among other things, government ownership, elimination of the budget, a plan for collecting war debts and repeal of prohibition.

Miss Allen was told prohibition had been repealed three years ago. "Well, really?" she exclaimed. "I can hardly wait for brother to sober up so I can tell him about it."

Miss Allen explained her campaign was supported by the housewives' union of which she is founder, organizer, president and apparently the member.

"Our slogan is, 'One for all—and all at once!' Don't you think that is pretty?"

Somehow the conversation got around to war debts. Miss Allen said it was easy.

"All our members will marry Frengemen. Then at night when they're asleep we'll just go through their pants and get the money the same way this country got it so we could lend it to France in the first place."

She said she was against reducing the budget. "Let's eliminate it altogether," she suggested. "Besides, I think if we're going to reduce, it would be smarter to do it where it shows more."

Your correspondent began to feel like a stooge and suggested Mr. Burns ask the questions, but it developed Mr. Burns had gone around the corner to get a high ball. Miss Allen having neglected to pour.

Before it was over she had declared herself on government ownership and the soldier's bonus.

"I thought the bonus was wonderful," she sighed. "Brother got $5,000 out of it."

Your correspondent observed that "brother" must be quite a veteran. "No," Gracie said. "He's a crap shooter."

She was about to divulge her views on government ownership, when Mr. Burns got back from around the corner to announce his candidacy for the vice presidency.

"The only thing Gracie knows about government ownership," he said, "is through her old man. The government doesn't exactly own him, but they've been holding him in Leavenworth as security. He matures in 20 years." —United Press.

Noted Figure In China In Perilous Days

MR. C. W. KINDER, C.M.G., DIES AT HOME

London, Aug. 10. Mr. Claude William Kinder, C.M.G., who served on the Civil Staff of the Chinese Imperial Railways, and who at the relief of Peking in 1901 was mentioned in despatches and won medals and clasp for that action, died to-day. He was born in 1852.

For 31 years he was Engineer-in-Chief of the Imperial Chinese Railways and he was advisory engineer to the Peking-Mukden Railway.

He received the Imperial Chinese order of the Double Dragon.

He resided latterly at his home in Churt, Surrey. —Reuter.

GARAGE THEFTS MAN GETS MONTH IN GAOL

Charged before Mr. Macfadyen at the Kowloon Magistracy with the larceny of a suitcase containing three pieces of fur, a pair of leather gloves, a silk scarf, a broad scarf, a yellow pull-over, a singlet, blue jacket, and a pair of opera glasses, from an unnumbered garage in Cox's Road, Leung Fuk, aged 35, appeared on remand and was convicted.

Detective-Sergeant J. Hunter said complainant was employed as a cleaner. About 10.30 a.m. on August 6, he was riding a bicycle in Canton Road near Kansu Street when he saw defendant carrying the suitcase, which he recognized as his own. An informer had meantime informed Lance Sergeant C.369 and he arrested defendant, who admitted taking the property from the garage. The value of the property was $30.70.

One month's hard labour was passed on defendant.

The Scourge Of Malaria.

Science has made steady progress in the fight against malaria, but much has yet to be discovered before mankind can be rendered immune to this depressing form of fever.

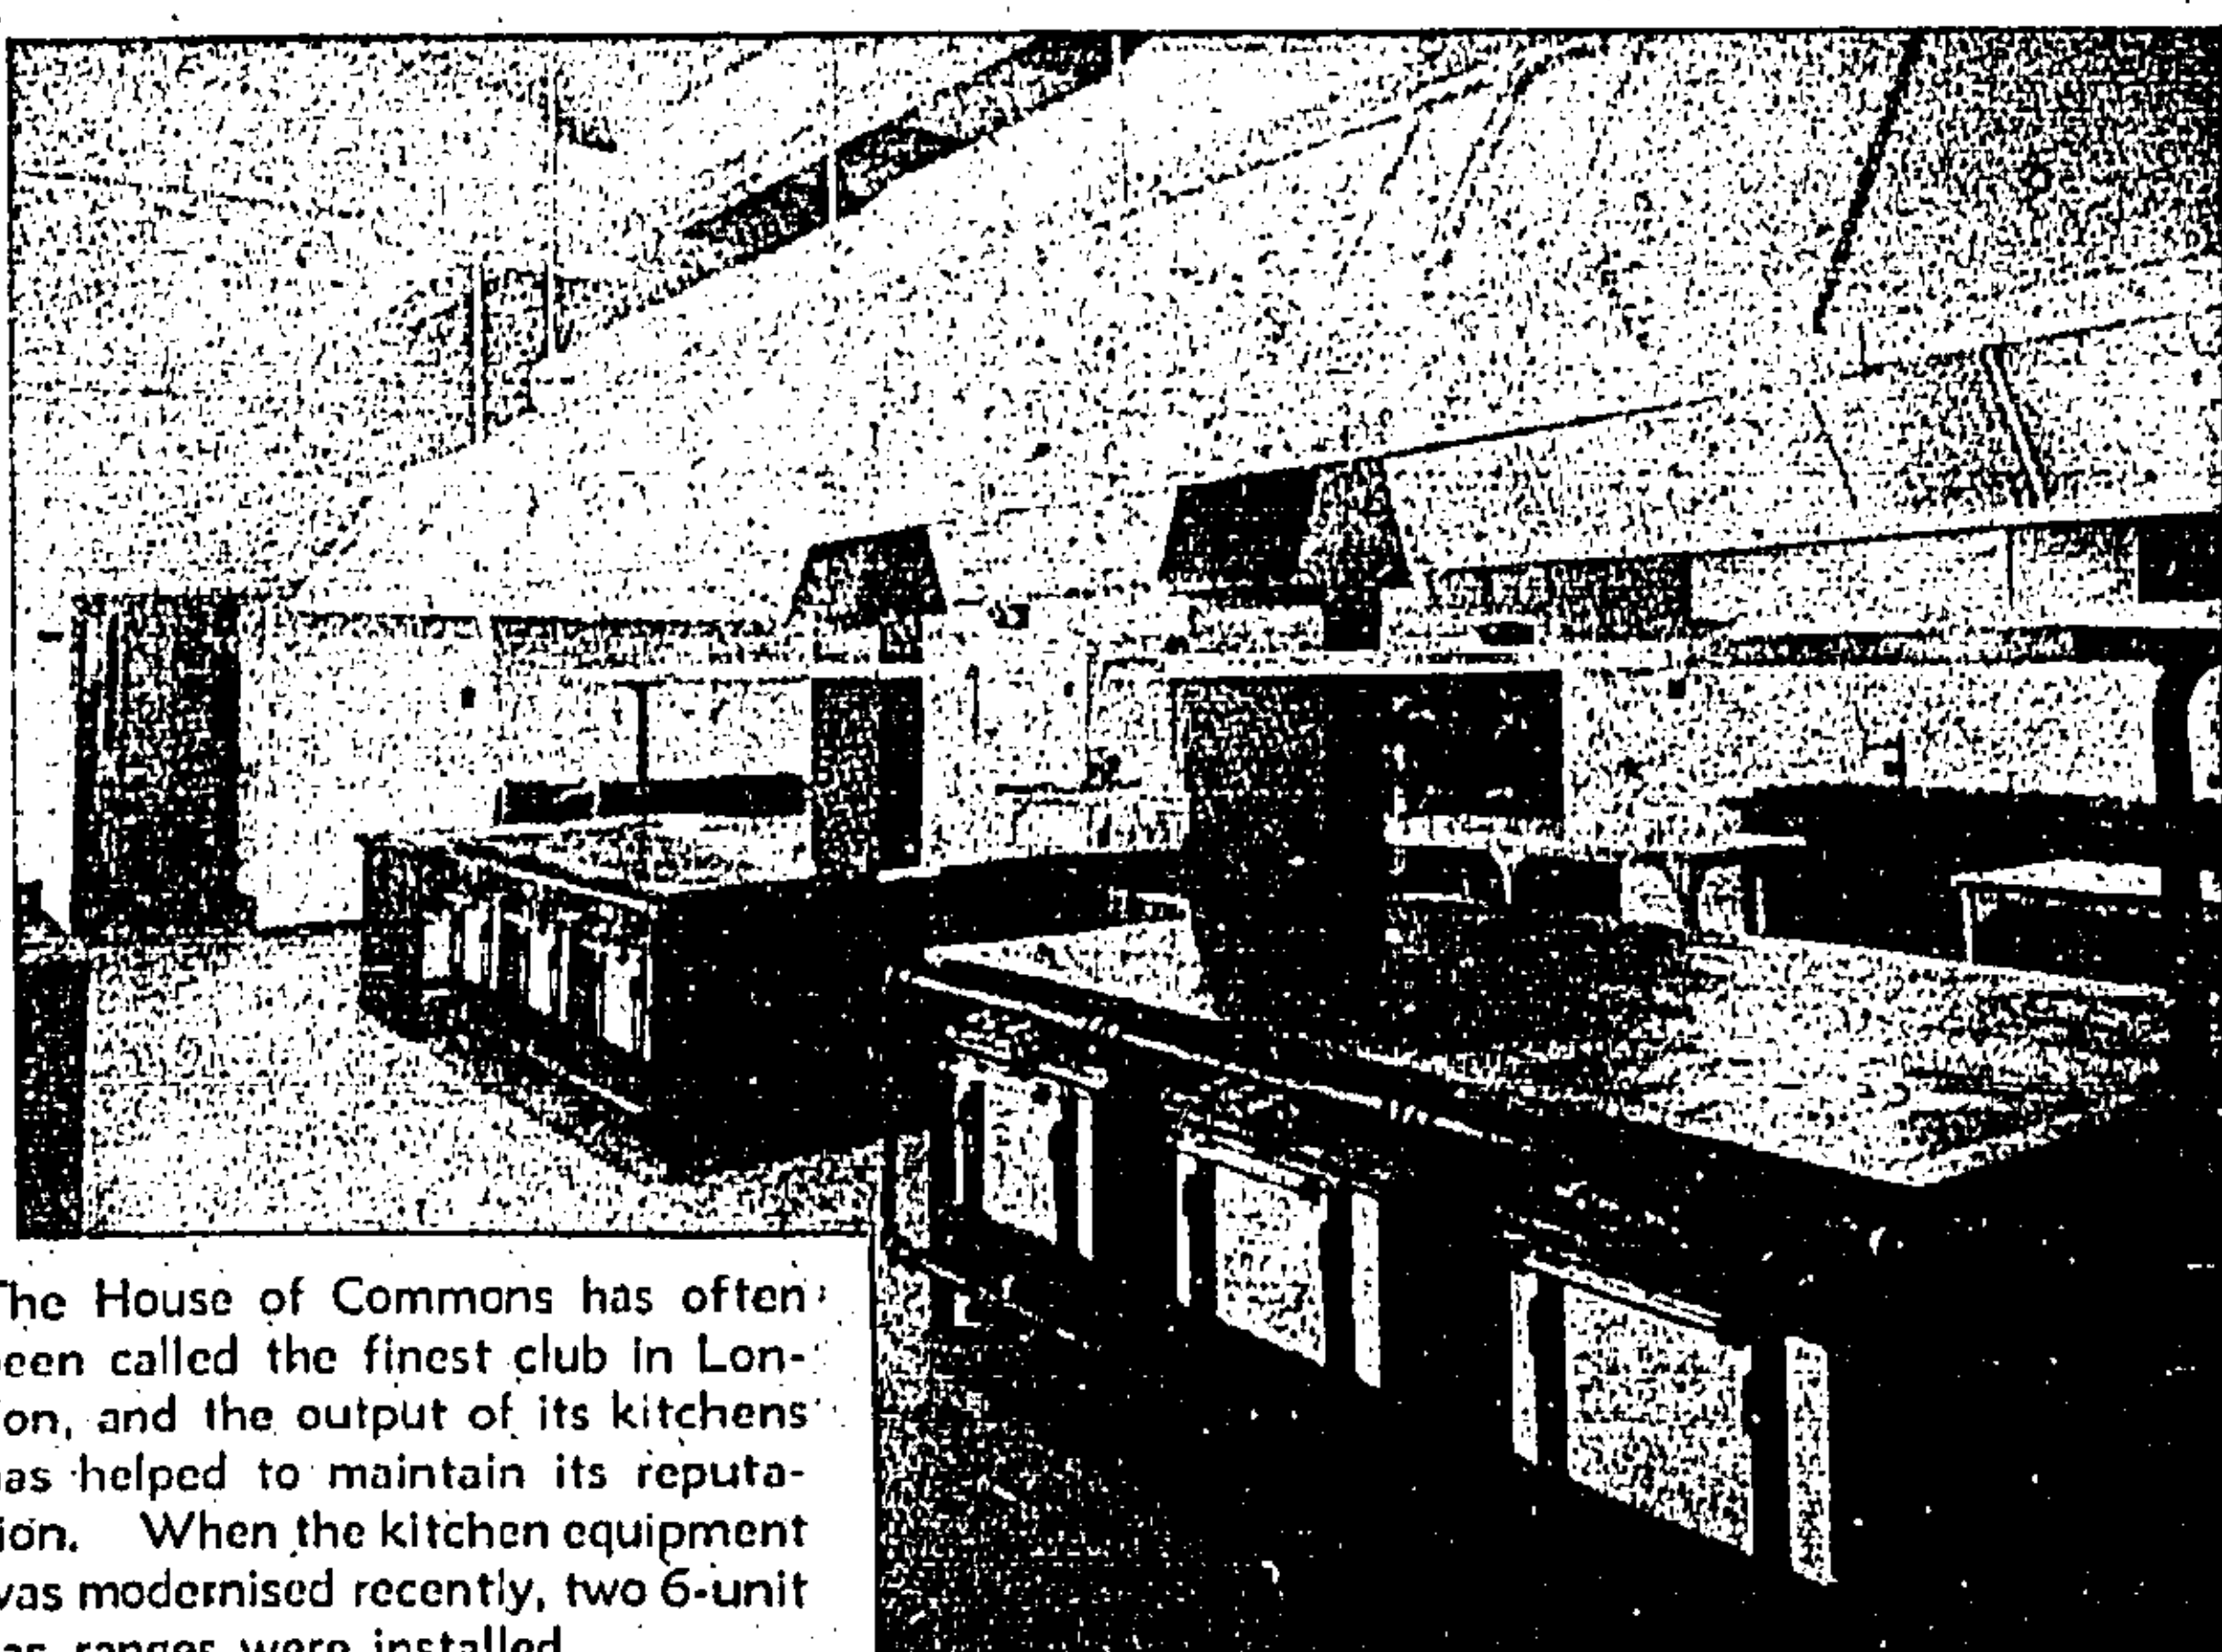

Malaria is caused by parasites in the blood introduced thereto through the bite of infected mosquitoes. These parasites thrive in an impure depleted blood-stream, but cannot live in good blood, so the best precaution against attacks of malaria is to build up the blood by tonic treatment, and thereafter to keep it pure, rich and plentiful.

The most famous tonic for rapidly creating new, rich, red blood is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. This has been proved beyond doubt not only by fifty years of practical use throughout the world, but also by clinical tests carried out under strict medical supervision, when in every case the patients showed substantial increases in the number of red blood corpuscles after one month's treatment with the pills. They all felt better and had more colour in their cheeks.

If you are a victim of malaria—the remarkable results brought about by a short course of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will gratify and surprise you.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are equally good for all ailments arising from impoverished blood, or run-down nerves, such as anemia, indigestion, insomnia, nervous debility, rheumatism, lumbago, sciatica, as well as the aches and pains peculiar to women. They are obtainable from chemists everywhere.

Finest Club Cooks by Gas.

The House of Commons has often been called the finest club in London, and the output of its kitchens has helped to maintain its reputation. When the kitchen equipment was modernised recently, two 6-unit gas ranges were installed.

"BEDFORD"

A TOUGH, POPULAR
TRUCK—and a Service worthy of it!
EVERY month big shipments of Bedford trucks leave England for every part of the world. And the rising export figures and many hundreds of enthusiastic letters from Bedford owners all over the world have shown that the Bedford is popular wherever it goes. Why this success? For, in designing the Bedford range, Vauxhall experts studied overseas conditions at first hand. They learnt what was wanted in trucks from the very men who were going to use them.

And there is a world-wide organisation to make Bedford service and genuine spares available everywhere.

Tested at every stage in the famous Luton works in England, proved sound and reliable on the roughest work in the world, the Bedford is a first-class investment whatever the nature of work!

There's a Bedford Model for every business.

THE "MILITARISTIC
PACIFISTS"

Stress was laid, in a recent speech by Sir Samuel Hoare, First Lord of the Admiralty, on the point that Britain has delayed so long in naval rebuilding that she is now faced with the task of building what virtually amounts to a new fleet. He added that it is a matter of life and death that this rebuilding should proceed on the right lines, and intimated that the Admiralty is therefore availing itself of the teaching of experience, of the discoveries and inventions of science, and of the lessons of actual experiment to ensure that the soundest methods of construction be followed. It may thus be assumed that the new British Navy will be worthy of the nation's traditions and that no expense will be spared to ensure the security both of the Motherland and the Empire overseas.

Coincident with this programme of naval reconstruction, there is to be big expansion of the Air Force and increased attention to land defences. When all is said and done, however, the fundamental fact, as Sir Samuel Hoare has pointed out, is that it is upon the sea that the nation and the Empire depend for their existence. In the course of his speech, Sir Samuel referred to the stand taken by certain types of pacifists and to their "miserable, inconsequent, improvident attitude." He undoubtedly had in mind those people who have been objecting to the expense involved in rebuilding the nation's defences, and who also criticise the Government's policy on the ground that it is likely to encourage the war spirit. But there is a strange illogicality about the arguments of these people, who, professing to be the enemies of war, would not hesitate to plunge Britain and indeed the whole of Europe into hostilities over the Ethiopian dispute. Hence the coining of the term "militaristic pacifists" as applied to these individuals and their peculiar outlook. Attempts have even been made in some quarters to discourage recruiting for the Army, but, in spite of this campaign, a slight improvement in the number of recruits has been reported, indicating that the public is awakening, slowly though it may be, to the necessities of the times. There is surely no doubt in the minds of reasonable people that the programmes for strengthening the national defences must go forward with the utmost energy. It will be a long time, if ever again, that the British people will be lulled into a policy of disarmament whilst other nations are re-arming as fast as they know how. Some people may call the Government's policy militarism; in reality, it is only sanity, for to permit the nation to remain inadequately armed at this juncture would be nothing short of suicidal.

HOMES, built by Science in Clapham, S.W.—

The Government grants nearly five times as much money for research into the powers of death as it grants for research into the powers of life, yet scientists are blamed for the iniquity of science. Imagine what might happen if they were free to devote all their energies to increasing the good in the world instead of the evil!

WHEN people find something going wrong with their scheme of living, their first instinct is to look for someone to blame.

Threatened to-day with the destruction, not only of everything they value, but of their very existence, the world—with apparent logic—is beginning to turn against the persons who brought these forces of destruction into being.

The unhappy scientist dreaming of emancipating mankind, awakes to find himself regarded as a menace when he hoped to be upheld as a liberator.

Emerging from the isolation of his laboratory, he is learning with increasing horror the reason for this unexpected unpopularity.

EVERYWHERE the powers he has released, which could have been used to increase a man's wealth and freedom, are instead being used for enslavement and destruction.

The power he has given the world to increase its food supply so that no one need ever go hungry, has been defeated by restriction in the interests of private profit.

The weapons which could have been used to exterminate those brutal parasites which can wipe out a year's work in a single night, or to destroy those verminous animals which have been practically eliminated in spite of, not because of, the scientist.

War, which was once necessary for the acquisition of slaves and for the adjustment of population problems, is now a wicked anachronism.

Science has given man mechanical slaves, an artificial solution to population problems, and a great ideal to work for, the conquest of Nature.

The reason why scientists, having brought man in sight of the mastery of the universe, now find their discoveries being used to arm evil with might, is because they are simply paid servants in the outer courtyard of the Palace of Power.

They may be consulted or dismissed at the mere whim of those who occupy the inner sanctums—men whose disastrous heritage it is to be possessed of "power without knowledge."

While these people control the application of science, of what use to attack the scientist? It would be just as effective to try to deal with wrong spending by seizing all the money in the world and dumping it at the bottom of the sea.

Sound people do not advocate the abolition of a means of exchange because some people use it to obtain harmful things. They realise that money is not inherently evil—that the pivot of the matter is the use it is put to.

THE same is true of science. It is the sheer might of modern science which robs people of their sense of proportion. Perhaps the most important scientific discovery of the last century was the abolition of the place of slaves.

Plague, famine, and war would once more take the place of science's substitute—birth control. The fact that war still remains in

NOTES OF THE DAY

The system of postal communications in Great Britain has reached a standard of almost perfect efficiency. Of all the millions of letters and packages circulated every year—only a very few are lost, and the speed and promptness with which the mail is dealt with is remarkable. An important part in the despatch and delivery of letters is played by what is known as "travelling post office," of which there are seventy in Great Britain, each one consisting of one or more letter-sorting carriages attached to a train. Every night four trains, which are devoted entirely to Post Office business, travel five hundred and forty miles between Euston and Aberdeen, and three hundred and five miles between Paddington and Penzance.

The trains running between London and Aberdeen are the largest of their kind in the world. They usually consist of sixteen vehicles and carry a staff of forty persons.

While travelling at full speed, the train receives or despatches mails by special apparatus at more than thirty points on the journey. The staff employed is very highly skilled. It works with such speed and efficiency that even in the foggiest weather little or no time is lost. The first travelling post office was run as an experiment in 1838 on the Grand Junction Railway, between Birmingham and Liverpool, six months after the railway was opened. It consisted of a horse-box temporarily fitted up as a sorting carriage—an extraordinarily primitive contrivance compared with the efficient trains used to-day!

JESTERS DISTRUSTED

A RECENTLY published life of the late Henry Labouchere M.P., to those who read between the lines, shows what a handicap it is to have too great a jesting disposition.

Labouchere was a man of consummate ability. He went into Parliament, and became known as one of the most incisive speakers and adroit debaters in the House. His great gifts entitled him to almost any position to which he could aspire; but he lived and died plain Mr. Labouchere, weekly paper proprietor.

And why? Because he was known far and wide as a jester, a scoffer, a mocker. The British spirit, rightly or wrongly, distrusts people who jest and scoff and mock.

When a man does not take the world seriously, the world will not take him seriously. This ought to be taken to heart by any young man who wants to get on in life.

Let us distinguish, however. The world will gladly reward those who make it laugh—as a business. It will heap riches on the George Robey and P. G. Wodehouses of the day. They are being funny for a living. But it will not readily forgive or trust those who are funny when they do not have to be.

Nothing damages a political leader like a sense of humour which he does not try to repress. The great Marquess of Salisbury was a master of sarcasm and irony; but he took care to be quite serious in his public utterances. He knew the temper of the British public and how they resent facetiousness in their statesmen. His hidden humour broke out in a gibe at one of his opponents on one occasion, however, and it did him a great deal of harm.

Leon Trotsky owed his downfall to his impish sense of humour. He was wise, but he was also sarcastic. Consequently he was excised, while Stalin, who preferred mathematics to humour, sat in the Kremlin and ruled Soviet Russia with a rod of iron.

Abraham Lincoln was perhaps the greatest President the United States ever had. But there were thousands of citizens who held that he was unfit for his high office, because he was known to tell funny stories and to have a liking for the work of Artemus Ward! In the eyes of the world, a great man must be serious, not to say grim.

SOLDIERS MUST BE SERIOUS

As with statesmen, so with soldiers. Leaders like Wellington and Haig are trusted to the death because they are incapable of making a joke. Sir Henry Wilson was a most able soldier. There was none wiser and more present in the councils of the Allies. But Mr. Lloyd George says of him that he "had attributes which explained and to a large extent gave warrant for the suspicion and lack of confidence so widely felt in him."

Mr. Lloyd George explains: "He was whimsical almost to the point of buffoonery." He answered a serious question or expounded a grave problem in a vein of facetious and droll frivolity which was undignified in a man of his grave responsibilities. He jested over questions of life and death. This habit detracted from the weight and authority which his position and capacity ought to have given to his counsel."

Great generals may not be whimsical. Sir J. M. Barrie may be whimsical, because that is his job. But we do not pay our statesmen and generals and leaders of commerce and industry to crack jokes. They are distrusted immediately if they so far forget themselves.

Vaughan Dryden.

discovery ever made was the way to make fire.

Imagine a world ignorant of this knowledge? Would the anti-scientists drive us back to a sub-human stage of existence simply because fire has immense possibilities for destruction? Can those who would not advocate this logically oppose other scientific discoveries?

It is not the scientist who is the menace in the world to-day—it is the divorce between power and scientific knowledge.

It is true that there was once a time when the scientist willingly accepted his status as servant. He held that his pursuit was "pure" knowledge, and that it was no concern of his what use his discoveries were put to. That is not true to-day. All over the world the scientist is waking to a sense of his responsibilities.

HE is chafing against his enforced impotence in the face of the terrible perversion of his discoveries.

The result has been the formation of bodies like the Association of Scientific Workers and The British Science Guild in Britain; and similar organisations in other countries, aimed to oppose with pen and voice the idea that science is an enemy rather than a friend.

Scientists are not only in revolt at the perversion of valuable discoveries to evil uses; they are also uniting in protest at the crippling and suppression of powers of production already available for the greater benefit of mankind.

At present science could produce plenty for all, at the same time reducing the working period to between two and four hours a day. Is science allowed to do it?

From the scientists' point of view, human clothing has not changed substantially since Neolithic times.

Houses have not basically changed within the span of history. Science has provided means by which clothing and housing could be vastly cheapened and completely revolutionised. These means are not developed because they challenge vested interests.

People complain at London weather. Science could place a city like London under flexible glass and condition different sections so that the inhabitants might choose whether they wished to live in a temperate, torrid, humid, or dry climate.

RESTRICTION of mass production is bound to mean hostility to science—the expansion of production leads naturally to its encouragement.

For this reason we find in Fascist countries that the status of the scientist is sinking, whereas in a country aiming at industrial expansion, like the U.S.S.R., he is coming into his own.

In Britain, by recognising that the true role of the scientist is that of a director of progress, as well as of a servant, we also may learn to see him as a saviour rather than a destroyer.

HARPER'S BIG EFFORT IN MARATHON

THRILLING INCIDENTS AT WORLD OLYMPICS

A sensational victory in the 1,600 metres relay race, and second place honours in the women's high jump and the marathon race put Great Britain "on the map" at the Berlin Olympics yesterday. Her most disappointing performances were in the men's swimming events, Frank Dove, the new British 100 yards free-style champion failing to qualify in the 100 metres heats. However M. Y. Ffrench-Williams of the Penguin S.C. succeeded in winning first place in his heat, though in the rather unimpressive time of 60.7 seconds.

Britain's victory in the 1,600 metres relay was one of the finest achievements of the Olympics to date.

According to a Reuter message, G. L. Rampling, Britain's second-leg runner, ran the race of his life.

He had to make up eight yards from fourth place, yet he handed over the baton seven yards ahead of the rest of the field. Thereafter the British runners were never headed and they won in the splendid time of 3 mins. 9 secs.

Rampling's 400 metres run was accomplished in the record time of 46.7 seconds.

It is possible that Fred Wolf, the former Hongkong boy, took part in the 1,600 metres relay race. He was included in the eight runners from whom Britain's team of four was chosen.

Britain's team was selected from A. G. K. Brown, F. H. Hindley, B. F. McCabe, A. Pennington, J. V. Powell,

Five More Test Players For Australia

Holmes, Farnes, Barnett Sims And Voce

London, Aug. 9. W. Voce, famous Notts and England Test bowler, has been invited to join the M.C.C. to tour Australia during the coming winter.

He, and four other players have been asked to join the eleven players already invited, the latest selections being:

E. R. T. Holmes (Surrey)

K. Farnes (Essex)

C. J. Barnett (Gloucestershire)

J. M. Sims (Middlesex)

W. Voce (Notts)

An additional wicket-keeper will be announced later. Reuter As the total number of invitations are now 16, and there is still a reserve wicket-keeper to be chosen, it can be presumed that, providing all the players accept, England's team is now complete. The sixteen players who have so far received invitations are:

G. O. Allen (Middlesex) captain

R. W. V. Robins (Middlesex)

E. R. T. Holmes (Surrey)

Hammond (Gloucestershire)

Leyland (Yorkshire)

Verity (Yorkshire)

Fishlock (Surrey)

Hardstaff (Notts)

Duckworth (Lancashire)

Worthington (Derbyshire)

Copson (Derbyshire)

Fagg (Kent)

Voce (Notts)

Farnes (Essex)

Barnett (Gloucestershire)

Sims (Middlesex)

These players include four fast to medium-fast bowlers, with Verity, Sims, Hammond, Worthington, Robins, and Leyland as very useful change bowlers. Batting strength is in Hammond, Leyland, Fishlock, Fagg, Hardstaff, Worthington, Allen and Holmes.

"FUSS" OVER GAMES IS OPPOSED

Tokyo, Aug. 4.

Opposition to any "fuss" over the 1940 Olympic Games, which will be held in Tokyo, was voiced to-day by General Count Hasegawa Terauchi, War Minister, at the meeting of the Cabinet.

He emphasised the advisability of "quiet preparations" to ensure the full success of the forthcoming Olympiad. These preparations, he added, should be carried out "with dignity worthy of a great nation by displaying a true Japanese spirit."

Meanwhile, the Ministry of Communications has already begun preparations for supplying foreign news-papern with telegraphic facilities directly at the Olympic Stadium.

Efforts will also be made to convey the news and views of the Games to the outside world by means of television.

Should Fast Bowler Captain Test Team?

CRITICS RAISE QUERY

(By A. G. Moyes)

Various critics, and among them Neville Cardus, whose views are always worth more than a passing thought, are taking the view that Allen should not lead England because he is a fast bowler. Is there anything in this view?

Australia has never yet been led by a man of pace and seldom, indeed by a bowler.

M. A. Noble was, of course, an all-rounder and he is generally recognised as one of the greatest captains of all time. Maybe, of course, he was the exception to the unwritten rule that says that, if possible, a bowler should not lead.

BIG AND GOOD

Then, too, there was Warwick Armstrong, who bowled and batted and did each on a scale in proportion with his bulk.

England has had one fast bowler captain in pre-war years in Arthur Gilligan, and another bowler captain in Douglas, who, according to report, was not always judicious in the way in which he used himself at the crease.

He, of course, could swing the ball about, and there was a certain amount of friction when he, as captain, used the new ball when the mighty Barnes was in the side.

As far as Australia is concerned, bowler-captains have not done any harm, and have not committed such deadly sins against the principles of good captaincy as to make us settle down to a hard and fast rule.

BETTER NOT

Yet, there is always a feeling that, if possible, a bowler should not be placed in a situation in which he is forced to decide when he shall bowl, and when he shall be taken off.

We are perhaps not always the best judge of our own ability, and if we are to concentrate on bowling, we cannot give full attention to the thoughtful consideration of the opposing batsmen, which provides a guide to tactics, to be used to counter them.

There is, however, another aspect. The man to lead the side must be of sufficient skill to be able to hold his place without worry, and with no really outstanding amateurs awaiting the call, England is forced to leave it to Allen.

THRILLING MARATHON STRUGGLE

BRITISH ATHLETE'S VAIN EFFORT

London, Aug. 9. E. Harper, the British marathon runner, had a great struggle with Kitoi Son, the Japanese in the Olympic marathon race says Reuter. The Japanese eventually won in 2:29:19 2/10. Zabala, the 1932 winner of the event dropped out of the race at the 33rd kilometre.

Wimbledon Referee Resigns

Mr. F. R. Barrow has resigned his position as referee of the Wimbledon Lawn Tennis Championships, which he has held for 18 years.

His resignation has been accepted by the joint committee of the Lawn Tennis Association and the All-England Lawn Tennis Club with regret and acknowledgment of his valuable services.

Mr. Barrow was born in Malvern on January 30, 1868, and it is because he feels the burden of his years that he is retiring from Wimbledon. He wishes it to be known that he is not retiring from the other tournaments at which he referees, but he will carry on with them as long as his services are required.

He had the task of facing the furious Miss Suzanne Lenglen in 1924 when the Frenchwoman refused to go on the court although Queen Mary was waiting to see her play. Miss Lenglen was late for her first game and afterwards became hysterical.

GOLF

MAY NOT BE PRETTY, BUT SERVES PURPOSE

J. Ferrier's style may not be as pretty as many other players, but it has stood him in good stead.

Though advised to change, it is gratifying to all his well-wishers that he does not propose to do so at present. The following remarks in connection with style-changing are condensed from Martin's book, and need no comment.

A friend of all the great American golfers, he should know what he is talking about.

Horton Smith, in his first year of tournament golf, won six out of nine, in which he played. Predictions were freely made that he would outshine R. T. Jones. Though he out-drove, out-mashed, and out-putted the others, he failed to win the British Open that year, and then sank to mediocrity.

"What happened to Horton Smith happens to a lot of others. They develop a first-class game, and then, not content to let it alone, they set about trying to make it better before it has really become seasoned.

QUIMET THE SAME

"A similar case happened to Francis Ouimet. He had defeated Vardon and Ray in the American Open, and had won the amateur championship with a sensational victory over Jerome Travers. One day, just after this, he confided to Martin that he contemplated revamping his game.

"There are certain wrinkles to be ironed out," he said, "and when you see me next spring I will be an entirely different golfer, inasmuch as I will have a sounder and more useful golf swing."

"The years went by, and, while Ouimet had done a lot of tearing down and patching up in reconstructing his new game, it somehow was not perfect, and he could not win. Interest was lost in him. When he stopped worrying about his golf after he had begun to despair of ever winning, he won the American amateur championship again.

"Walter Hagen plays golf in almost exactly the way he began. He has always been unorthodox, but he has built up and stabilised from the foundation that he started with, instead of tearing down and reconstructing. As the years went by, Hagen ironed out the discordant wrinkles, with the result that his game became surer and his swing much smoother. If Hagen had, a year or so after he won his first open, started revamping his game, and changing his style, it is difficult to believe that he would have accomplished what he has in golf."

Carson was somewhat erratic, losing out in critical moments.

The Shanghai champion pair, however, reached great heights when they rallied in the final set after being down by 1-1, while their steadiness in the preceding set enabled them to even matters at 2 sets all. Although the Japanese lost the fourth set by the one-sided margin of 6-2, their final returns, and Carson's smashing returns gained them spontaneous applause and this set was actually productive of the brightest tennis of the match, all four players being at the peak of their form.

Ho Ka-Lau To Play Gordon Lum In Shanghai Tennis Championship

The complete draw for the men's singles, senior and junior, men's doubles and international doubles (Roper Cup) championships was announced recently by the Shanghai Lawn Tennis Association.

In the Men's Singles, Senior, L. D. Carson, H. Collaco and E. Th. Indrickson have drawn byes in the first round. The total of 13 entries for this competition is not very satisfactory. Among the interesting matches should be that between Gordon Lum (who is due back on August 24) and Ho Ka-lau and W. A. H. Duff and J. G. Forbes.

The first round must be played off before August 22, and the second before August 28. Dates for the semi-final and final rounds will be announced later.

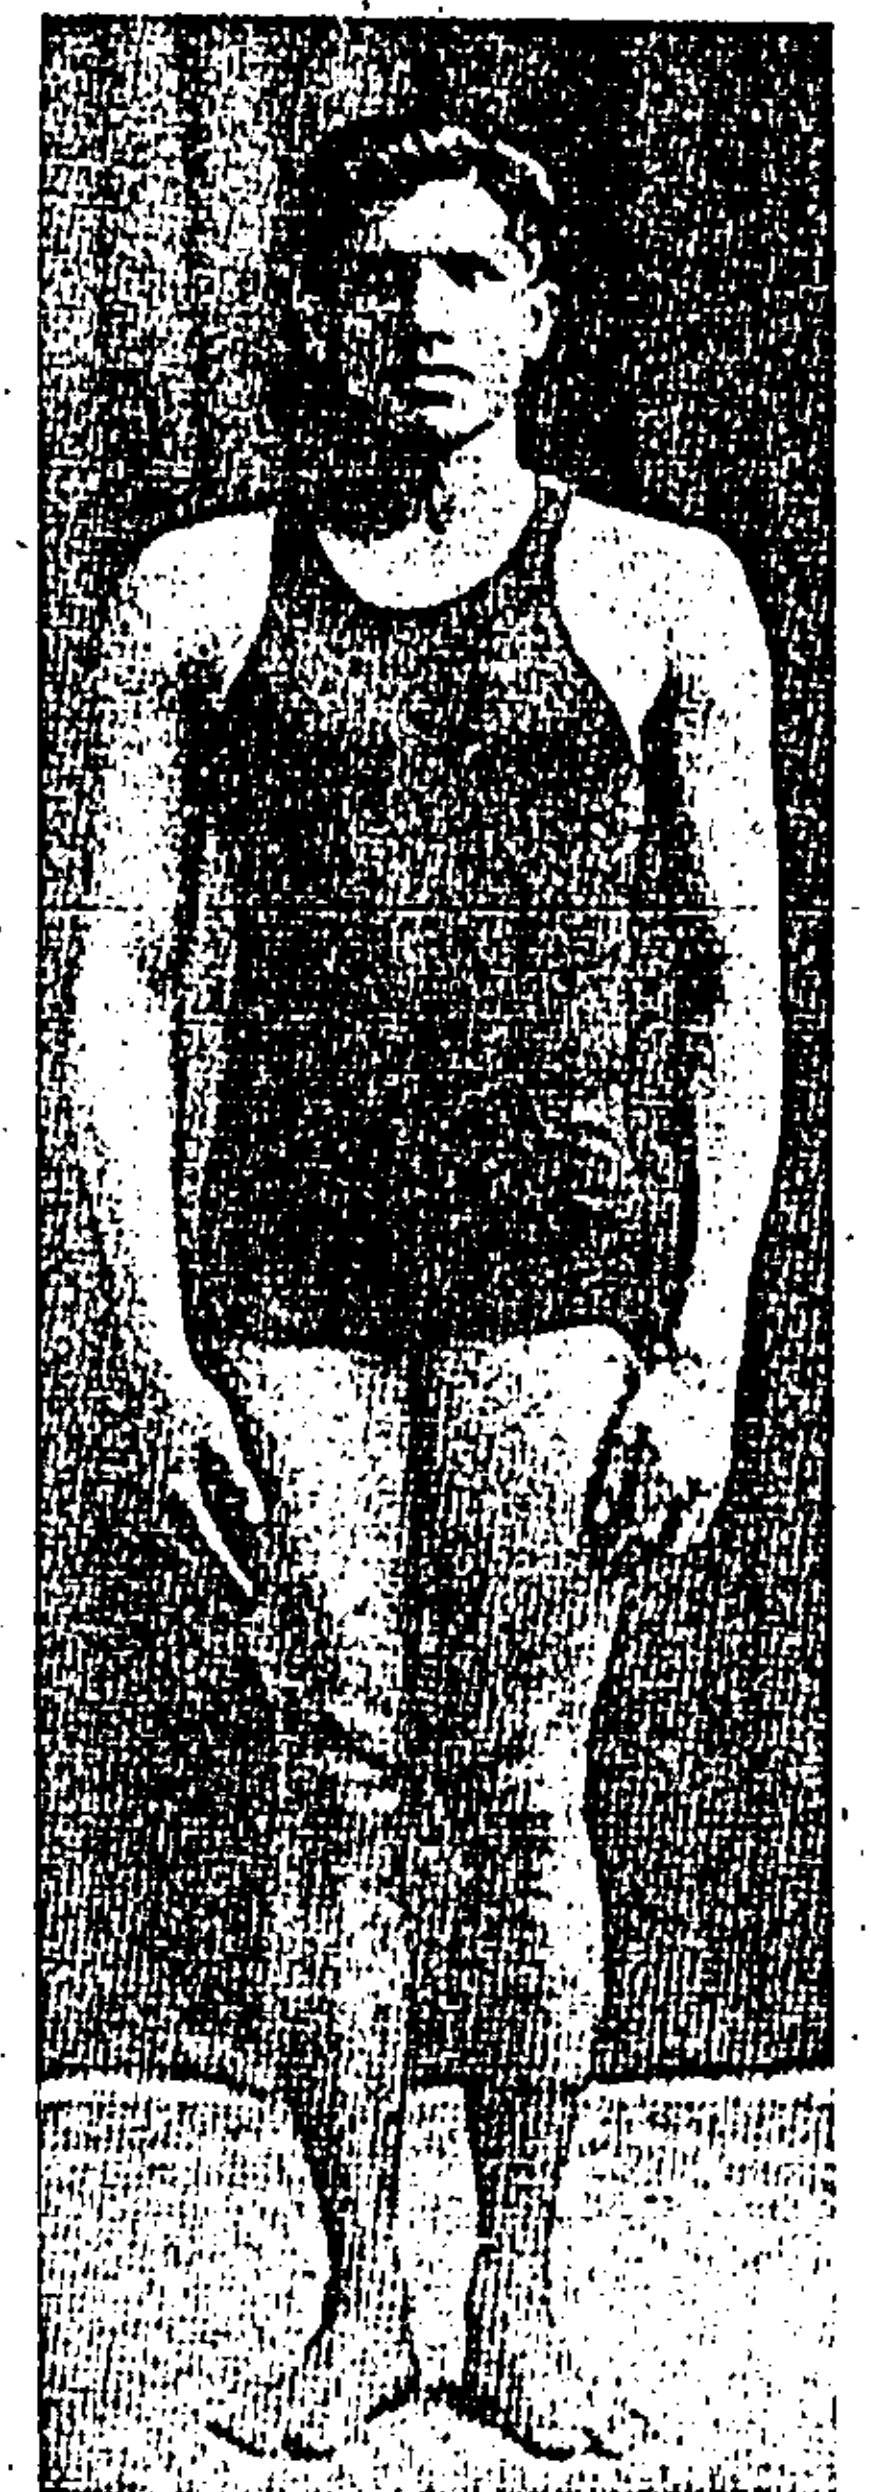

Great Britain and France have drawn byes in the first round of the Roper Cup International Doubles Competition. Japan will meet Portugal and China will clash with America in the first round which must be completed by August 17. The semi-finals will be played on the Association court on August 22 or August 23.

GOOD ENTRY LIST

Thirty entries were received for the Men's Singles, Junior Championship. E. L. Lonsinger and P. K. Tong have drawn byes. The first round must be played off before August 18, the second before August 25 and the third before September 1. The date of the semi-final and final rounds will be announced later.

Owing to the limited number of entries received for the Men's Doubles Championship, Junior, the Committee of the S.L.T.A. has decided not to conduct this competition this year although a number of the persons who entered for this competition have had their entries transferred to the Men's Doubles Senior Championship, for which there are 14 pairs entered. Following is the complete draw:

CARSON AND DUFF LOSE IN TENNIS EXHIBITION

Shanghai, Aug. 5. Tennis of a spectacular nature and of outstanding quality was seen at the Cathay Tennis Club yesterday evening when the rain held off long enough to enable the series with the visiting Japanese to be completed. W. A. H. "Stick" Duff and L. D. Carson succumbing to the premier combination of the visitors, K. Nakano and S. Fujii in a five set battle which produced thrills in plenty.

The final score was 3-5, 6-2, 6-4, 2-6, 6-4. In a singles match which was played prior to the main encounter of the evening, Ho Ka-lau lost to A. Muira by 6-0, 2-6. Still earlier in the afternoon, the visitors clashed with student players from the County Athletic Club, Muira and Shintani defeating Zee and Fung by 6-1, Nakano and Fujii defeating Tong and Hu by 6-0, Muira defeating Tong by 6-0 and Shintani defeating Hu, 6-0, 8-6. This series was conducted for the express purpose of giving the Chinese a last opportunity to appear against ranking players.

Although both Carson and Duff flashed brilliant form on occasions, the Japanese pair succeeded in out-steadying them, gaining applause by their remarkable returns of almost irrecoverable smashes and drives. Fujii covered the net with the agility of a cat, while Nakano's dependable ground strokes frequently saved the Japanese from defeat. Duff exploited his well-known chop smash to good effect on a number of occasions but

U.S.A. LEAD FIELD

Japanese aquatic stars have begun to set up records in the swimming events at the Olympic Games at Berlin which started on Saturday.

In the first heat of the 100 metres free-style event for men, Peter Flick, of the United States, reduced the Olympic record to 57.7 secs., but this was later lowered by Taguchi, the Japanese swimmer. Miss Machata also set a new record for the Women's 200 metres breaststroke event.

Outstanding results on Saturday were Glen Morris's win in the decathlon event; the success of Finnish runners in the 3,000 metres and 5,000 metres events, in which new Olympic marks were established; Argentine's win in the Polo final; and Poland's soccer victory over Great Britain. China won the consolation basketball event by defeating France, but did not do anything of note in the swimming or running events.

Berlin, Aug. 8. Records were broken and re-broken when the swimming events began. In the 100 metres, the Japanese, Taguchi, returned a time of 57.5 seconds, beating the Olympic record. In the Women's 200 metres breaststroke, the Japanese swimmer, Miss Machata, returned a time of 3 mins. 19 seconds to set up a new Olympic record. Reuter.

100 METRES FREE STYLE

The following is the summary of results in the swimming events. In the 100 metres free style (two qualify plus two fastest thirds) 1. Flick (United States); 2. Ferenc (Hungary). Time: 57.7 secs. Second heat—1, Yusa (Japan); 2, Highland (United States). Time: 57.9 secs.

Third heat—1, Williams (Great Britain); 2, Adjududin (Philippine Islands). Time: 60.7 secs. Fourth heat—1, Aral (Japan); 2, Fischer (Germany). Time: 57.7 secs.

Fifth heat—1, Taguchi (Japan) 57.7 secs. (Olympic record). Sixth heat—1, Wilson (Yugoslavia); 2, Hefel (Germany). Time: 60.6 secs.

Seventh heat—1, Lindgren (United States); 2, Adaynemes (Hungary). Time: 59.3 secs.

Kensal (Austria) and Heitman (Finland) were the fastest thirds to qualify.

AN OLYMPIC RECORD

Omitting the first trials in the Women's 200 breaststroke, the second heat resulted in Martha Grengor (Germany) coming first. Her time of 3 mins. 3 secs. is an Olympic record. In the third heat, Miss Hildeko Machata, of Japan, clocked 3 mins. 19 secs., which set a new Olympic record.

Taguchi (Japan), Csik (Hungary) and Flick (United States) with a time of 57.9 secs., and Yusa (Japan), Aral (Japan) and Lindgren (United States) with a time of 57.5 secs., earlier qualified for the men's 100 metre free style race. United Press.

ADJUDUDIN PLACED

Berlin, Aug. 8. In the 100 metre free style event for men, Adjududin, of the Philippine Islands, swimming in the third heat, gained second place, thus reaching the semi-finals. Obial, also of the Philippines, was third, but failed to qualify, since only the two fastest thirds qualify.

Chan-hing, the Chinese swimmer, failed to qualify. United Press.

AMERICAN WOMEN ELIMINATED

Berlin, Aug. 8. Dorothea Schiller, Ann Gorendnik and Is Cummings (United States) entrants in the 200 metres breaststroke championship, were all eliminated in trial heats. United Press.

CHINA LAST

Berlin, Aug. 8. In the 400 metres relay race China, represented by Pohn, Wenz, Chen and Lui, was always trailing the others and finished last. The winners of the heat were Holland, with a time of 41.3 secs.—Reuter.

RUNNING SUMMARIES

The following is the summary of the 400 metres relay race heats, in which the best two teams in each heat enter the finals:

First heat—1, United States (Jesse Owens, Metcalfe, Draper and Wykoff) 40 secs. flat (equals the world record); 2, Italy.

Second heat—1, Holland 41.3 secs.; 2, Argentine.

Third heat—1, Germany 41.4 secs.; 2, Canada.

The following is the summary of the Women's 400 metres relay race, of which three teams in each heat enter the finals:

First heat—1, United States; 2, Canada; 3, Holland. Time—47.1 secs.

Second heat—1, Germany; 2, Great Britain; 3, Italy. Time—46.4 secs.

3,000 METRES RACE

Berlin, Aug. 8. Isohollo, of Finland, won the final of the 3,000 metres in 9 mins. 3.8 secs., which is an Olympic record. Tuominen (Finland) was second in 9 min. 6.8 secs., and Dompert (Germany) third with 9 mins. 7.2 secs.—Reuter.

In the 3,000 metres steeplechase final, Isohollo of Finland, won. His time of 9 mins. 3.8 secs. is an Olympic record. Tuominen, (Finland) was second, Dompert (Germany) third, Matilainen (Finland) fourth. United Press.

In the 1,600 metres relay race, the first two teams in each heat of which qualify for the finals, the results were as follows:

First heat—1, United States; 2, Hungary. Time—3 mins. 13 secs. Second heat—1, Great Britain; 2, Sweden. Time—3 mins. 14 secs.

MORRIS WINS DECATHLON

Berlin, Aug. 8. The United States won their eleventh title when Glen Morris won the decathlon event with a total which broke his own world record of 7,880 made at Milwaukee, in June. The United States needs one more victory in to-morrow's three finals to break the record of eleven victories.

Here Hitler arose and cheered Morris on his victory concluding the 1,500 metres. United Press.

DEACATHLON POLE VAULT

Berlin, Aug. 8. The following are the results of the pole vault event in the decathlon competition: 1, Clark (United States) and Plawczik (Poland) 12 ft. 0 1/16 ins.; 2, Palmer 11 ft. 5 1/16 ins.; 3, Brasser (Holland) and Guest (Switzerland).

In the decathlon javelin throwing event, Naituig was first with a distance of 107 ft. 6 ins.; Huser was second, Clark third and Guest fourth.

COMMERCIAL SCHOOL LOCAL INSTITUTE HOLDS COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES

A large gathering of relatives and friends of students of the Hongkong Commercial Institute attended the fourth annual commencement exercises and concert held in the Queen's Theatre yesterday morning.

The Headmaster, Mr. J. K. Yew, thanked Mr. Ip Lan-chuen warmly for kindly consenting to distribute the prizes and certificates to the graduates.

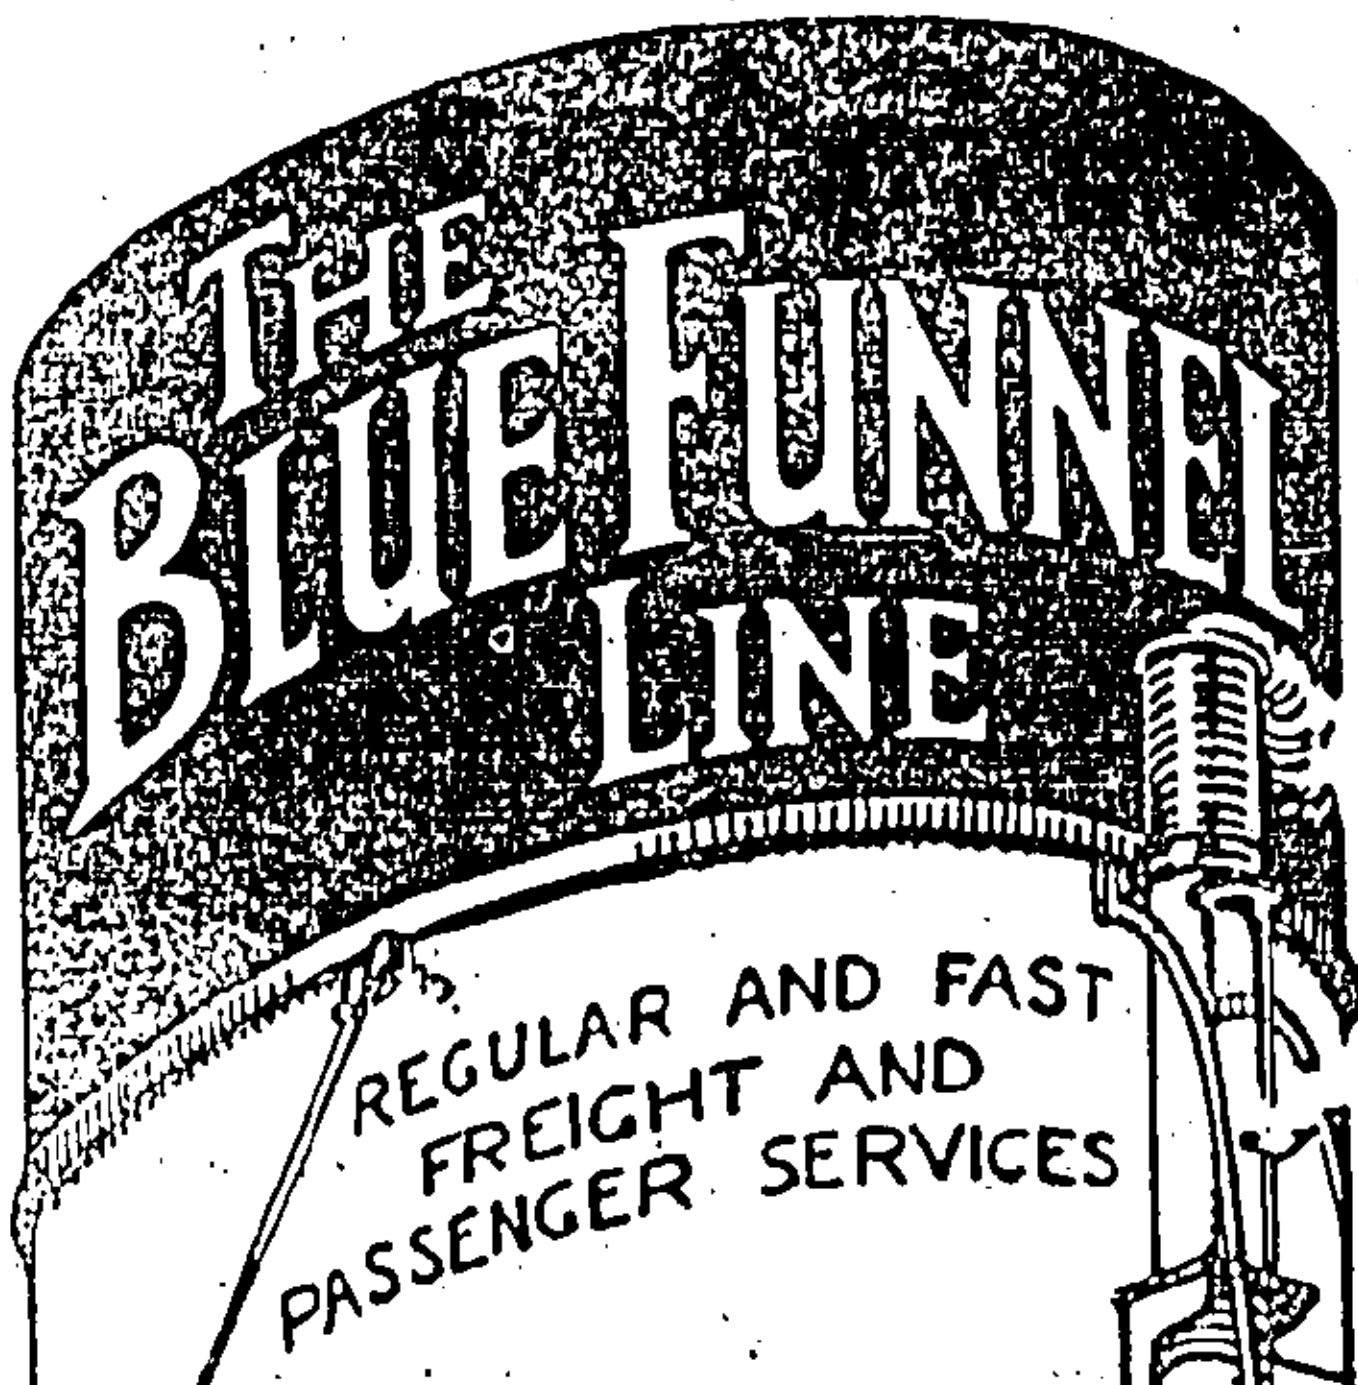

Mr. Yew read the report of the year's working of the Institute, which showed that the 198 students of the school were making excellent progress in all subjects taught, and that in the last examination conducted by the Institute of Book-keepers, Faculty of Secretaries and Institute of Commerce, London, out of 80 entrants for the examination from the school 78 passes were recorded. He added that he was deeply indebted to Mr. F. G. Maumder, Mr. L. Hinds, the Rev. Leo Kow-yun, and Mr. K. M. Au, for their presence in supervising the Institute examinations.

Prizes and certificates were then distributed by Mr. Ip Lan-chuen, who said that the art of Commerce was a weapon for conquering individual or social prosperity, and he would recommend the H. K. Commercial Institute as an excellent source where young men and women could derive their commercial education.

An excellent concert followed the distribution.

Those who received prizes and certificates were:

Trickster Sent To Gaol

POSED AS CHINA LIGHT EMPLOYEE

Appearing before Mr. Macfadyen at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning on a charge of possession of a forged identification card, purporting to belong to an employee of the China Light and Power Company, Wong Kam, aged 25, pleaded guilty and was sentenced to six weeks' hard labour.

Detective-Inspector A. H. Elston, prosecuting, stated that the police had been able to secure two witnesses. A few weeks ago, defendant cut the wires outside the cafe owned by one of the witnesses, and, when the lights went out, he sought out the proprietor and presented the card, saying he would be able to repair the work quickly. A short time ago, defendant went to the second witness and presented the card, and told the man that he would be able to get his son a job as an electrician if he were given $5. There were several other similar incidents, added the Inspector.

Rambling Runs Fine Race

BRINGS BRITAIN RELAY VICTORY

G. L. Rambling, the English athlete, ran the race of his life to make possible Britain's victory in the 1,000 metres relay race at Berlin during the week-end.

After making up a deficit of eight yards, he finished seven yards ahead of the field over a 400 metres sprint which he covered in 48.7 seconds. Britain thereafter held the lead until the finish.

Britain also enjoyed partial successes in the marathon, and the women's high jump, being placed second in both events.

Complete details and descriptions appear on Page 8.

REFUGEES QUIT BALEARIC ISLE

(SPECIAL TO "TELEGRAPH")
Marsailles, Aug. 9. The British flotilla leader, H.M.S. Douglas, arrived here to-day with 84 refugees from the Balearic Islands, including 20 Britons.

When the Douglas arrived at Ibiza on Friday evening, two Spanish Government torpedo-boats and six aeroplanes were bombarding the island, but on the request of the Commander of the British destroyer, sent to the Spanish Government forces by wireless, the bombardment was suspended while the Douglas removed the refugees.

Miss C. Hassell, an artist, was the only British resident of Ibiza aboard the Douglas. She said she was watching the bombardment when a bomb or shell fell on a rock near her and a splinter of stone struck her in the leg.

Government aeroplanes flew very low, she said, as the insurgents had only machine-guns with which to fight them. No-one was hurt by the bombardment, as far as she knew, and little damage was done.

Argentine Worried

Buenos Aires, Aug. 9. The Argentine Government has addressed a note to the Spanish Government, demanding peremptory measures to guarantee the rights of asylum at the Argentine Embassy in Madrid where refugees are sheltering.

The Argentine Foreign Minister states the position of the Argentine Ambassador in Spain, who is at Zarang, is most delicate and is causing the Government anxiety.

Britons Warned

Madrid, Aug. 9. An official appeal has been distributed to all Britons in Madrid, urging them to leave as soon as possible.

The communication contains two forms for signature, the first saying: "I am willing to be evacuated immediately," the second, "I do not wish to be evacuated and hereby assume responsibility for the safety of myself, my wife, family or property in Spain."—Reuter.

British Warning

Gibraltar, Aug. 10. A Government notice, issued to-day, warns the public that the British Government's attitude towards Spain is one of strict impartiality and urges every inhabitant of the Colony to refrain from acting for or speaking against, or displaying partiality for either side.

Any activity by British subjects in the civil war will not be tolerated and anyone abusing the hospitality of the sanctuary offered at Gibraltar will be expelled.

Right of Entry

Lisbon, Aug. 10. The Portuguese Government has granted permission to German warships to enter Portuguese ports while patrolling the Iberian coast.

Court Praises Two Boys

SNATCHER CAUGHT IN WATER

Two small boys, Tony Bayot and John James, were responsible for Chau Cheung-shing, unemployed, being convicted this morning, before Mr. E. Himsforth at the Kowloon Magistracy, on a snatching charge, when defendant was accused of approaching Mrs. Sousa, from behind and stealing a necklace and a gold locket, valued at $50.

On August 8, accused came upon Mrs. Sousa at Hankow Road, near Haiphong Road and unfastened a gold necklace which she was wearing and ran off, taking a small gold locket as well. Mrs. Sousa was unable to do anything, but two boys, Tony Bayot and John James, saw the theft and ran after accused. They managed to keep him in sight as he hurried through a scavenging lane behind the Palace Hotel, ran down Ashley Road to Peking Road, and crossed Canton Road to Kowloon Wharf No. 1 where he threw himself into the water, trying to hide himself under the side of a junk.

Other children, seeing the two boys running after the man, joined in the chase, the number totalling nearly 20; but all except the two boys gave up the chase. Constable C-018 intervened on the scene and dragged accused out of the water with a rope. Accused stated, after his arrest, that in the leap into the water the necklace and locket had been lost.

His Worship commended the two boys for their prompt participation in the chase. "Had it not been for you," he remarked, "defendant would probably have not been brought to justice. I am very pleased with what you have done."

Accused was sentenced to four months in gaol, and was also ordered 12 strokes of the birch.
